Police Rule Deaths As Suicide—Homicide

VIRGINIA BEACH — A traffic accident which took the lives of two men last week on Shore Drive has been ruled suicide-homicide by state medical examiner Dr. Hans H. Karnitschnig.

Karnitschnig said Friday that an investigation into the accident indicated that George Bennie Ricketts, 25, a service station employee, deliberately smashed his car head-on into another automobile driven by Navy Chief George I. Ingmire, 39.

He said the accident took place approximately 10 minutes after Ricketts had had a quarrel with a girl friend. In the argument Ricketts reportedly told the girl she would never see him alive again. The argument took place just east of the Lynnhaven Bridge, at the Duck Inn.

Karnitschnig said the youth then drove west on Shore Drive in the east bound lane for more than two miles before the accident.

After a lengthy investigation, police said they believe Ricketts' car was traveling in excess of 100 m.p.h. at the time of impact with Ingmire's car. There were no skid marks.

Wrecks Mar New Year

VIRGINIA BEACH — The world's largest resort city weathered the first critical hours of the new year without a single traffic fatality, after amassing a total of 27 traffic deaths in 1965.

1965's total of 27 deaths was more than double that of 1964, 13 died on the city's streets that year.

The city's traffic fatality record was set in 1963 when 36 persons were killed in traffic accidents.

Despite the absence of traffic accidents involving fatalities, police were troubled with several minor accidents New Year's Eve and early New Year's Day.

Police said several persons were injured, none seriously, in a four-car accident at Davis Corner, a single-car wreck near Fort Story on Shore Drive, and a two-car accident on Rudee Avenue in the last six hours of 1965. Police also reported a minor injury in a four-car accident on Baldwin Street in the first hour of the new year.

Toll Road Is Going Well

VIRGINIA BEACH — Favorable weather conditions have permitted contractors to make excellent progress on the construction of the Norfolk-Virginia Beach Toll Road. Reports indicate that clearing and grubbing is 75 percent complete in spite of burning restriction during certain periods. Nearly one quarter million cubic yards of embankment material has been placed since contracts were awarded on November 1st.

Consulting Engineers for the State Highway Department have been working very closely with the Department of Public Works and Virginia Beach Police on short detours which will be necessary during construction of certain sections of this project.

F&M Comes To Va. Beach

VIRGINIA BEACH — First and Merchants National Bank, which has its home offices in Richmond, made the Tidewater scene Monday when it took over the operation of the Virginia Beach and Norfolk offices of The Bank of Virginia.

The merger of the banks, which became effective Jan. 1, brought to the area, for the first time, a century-old banking operation which boasts 32 offices in 15 communities across the state. First and Merchants is Virginia's largest independent bank.

In a brief ceremony Monday (see picture on page 1-B) at the Bank of Virginia Beach's home offices on Pacific Avenue, the First and Merchants sign was unveiled. The merger will involve hardly any personnel change.

Edward H. Church, president of the Bank of Virginia Beach since its founding in 1945, was named senior vice-president and will be in charge of the 10 offices in the Virginia Beach-Norfolk area.

Sidney S. Kellam, chairman of the board of the Bank of Virginia Beach was appointed as a director on the F & M board and is now a member of the First and Merchants Virginia Beach-Norfolk board.

Among those attending the ceremony from Richmond were F & M board chairman Robert T. Marsh, Jr., John P. Coleman, president of the home office and Robert L. Gordon, Jr., executive vice-president of the bank.

Plane Lands Safely

VIRGINIA BEACH — A Piedmont Airline Martin 404 made an emergency landing on a foam covered runway at Oceana Naval Air Station early Friday after it developed landing gear trouble late Thursday night while on a training flight from Norfolk Municipal Airport.

The twin-engine passenger plane took off from Municipal Airport at 10:30 p.m. Thursday night with Dwight L. Odum, Piedmont's Norfolk Division Chief pilot at the controls. Odum had two other pilots with him who were receiving training in the 404.

A spokesman for the airline said when the plane prepared for a landing about 12:30 a.m. Friday, the nose wheel refused to come down. The crew managed to get the wheel down, but it failed to go into the fully locked position.

The plane then began circling the airport to burn up gasoline that could cause an explosion and fire in the event of a crash landing.

The decision was made to contact the Norfolk Naval Air Station and ask to have one of their runways covered with foam, which would lessen the possibility of a fire.

N. A. S. Norfolk gave its permission, but suggested the plane use Oceana Naval Air Station because it had the longest runway in the area, and was conducting night flying operations and, therefore, could handle the situation easier than could Norfolk.

Odum landed the plane on the foam runway at Oceana on its main gear, only at approximately 2:30 a.m. The tail of the plane was kept low so the nose wheel did not touch the runway until the aircraft almost came to a stop. And, when the nose wheel did touch down on the pavement, it held.

The airline spokesman and the crew of the plane both praised the air station for its fine emergency procedures.

Later Friday morning, the plane's nose was jacked up and the nose wheel was locked in position. The plane was then flown, with landing gear down, to Piedmont's maintenance field at Winston-Salem, N. C.

Chase Ends In Wreck

VIRGINIA BEACH — New Year's Eve ended with a spectacular car chase and crash Friday afternoon on heavily traveled Virginia Beach Boulevard.

The incident began at approximately 4:30 p.m. at Princess Anne Plaza when two off-duty policemen on their way home spotted a car that was reported stolen earlier in the day.

The car was spotted by Patrolmen St. L. Dulan, 34, and S. W. Brazier, 31, as they were riding home from work in Dolan's car. The men, still in uniform, said they stopped the suspect car on Plaza Trail, but before they could question the driver the car accelerated and sped westward at high speed.

Police said the driver apparently lost control of the vehicle at Malibu Drive, and swerved, winding up heading south at a crossover.

Patrolman K. J. LaGrutta, who investigated the accident, said the driver went through the crossover and headed east with Dolan and Brazier still in pursuit. The car then went across a divider and continued headed eastward, until it struck an automobile driven by William G. Temple, 62, of the 900 block of Winwood Drive, he said.

After impact, LaGrutta said, the car traveled 124 feet, hit a utility pole and traveled another 114 feet before rolling over in a ditch.

Police identified the driver of the car as Harold Kenneth James, 35, of the 3400 block of East Ocean View Avenue, Norfolk. James was charged with unauthorized use and reckless driving, police said.

He was treated at the Oceana dispensary for minor cuts and released. No other persons were injured in the accident, police said.

Beach Men Missing

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Defense Department said last week that two Virginia Beach Navy fliers have been officially listed as missing in action. Their plane reportedly went down on a mission over North Viet Nam just before Christmas. They were identified as Cdr. B. J. Cartwright, the pilot of an A6A Intruder, and Lt. Edward F. Gold, the plane's navigator. Both men have homes in Virginia Beach.

Cartwright was commanding officer of Attack Squadron 85, based on the carrier Kitty Hawk, which trained at Oceana Naval Air Station. The loss of his plane was the squadron's first.

Cartwright was to have returned to Norfolk next month and assume the duties as navigation officer of the carrier America, which is now in the Mediterranean.

The carrier Independence, which just returned from Vietnamese waters, lost four Intruders from its Attack Squadron 75.

Eleven Organization Men And One Independent In Race

Mayor Frank A. Dusch is a retired Virginia Beach businessman and was elected to the old Virginia Beach City Council prior to the city's merger with the county. He was elected to the old council in 1952. Dusch is a retired Navy Lt. Commander and is in the inactive Naval Reserve. He is a member of the Rotary Club, the Virginia Beach Shore Club and a member of the Retired Officer's Association.

Albert L. Bonney is the newest of the incumbents. He took office in October of last year when Swindell Pollock resigned because of health. He is one of the owners of the Virginia Beach Steel Fishing Pier. He was chairman of the Virginia Beach Planning Commission until his appointment to city council.

Va. Beach First Citizen Nominees Being Sought

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Virginia Beach Jaycees are seeking the help of the general public of Virginia Beach in their selection of the 1965 recipient of the First Citizen Award of this city. Interested persons are invited to submit nominations for this important award so that the most outstanding citizen may be chosen.

According to a spokesman for the Virginia Beach Jaycees, nominations may be submitted in letter form by individuals, or groups. Any citizen of Virginia Beach is eligible for the award, either male or female, and there is no age limit.

Selection of the recipient is on the basis of notable contributions to this community and its civic improvement. Although primary consideration will be given to achievements during the year 1965, any services rendered in previous years will be considered by the selection committee. Nomination letters should include all significant contributions to Virginia Beach.

The deadline for the receipt of nominations is January 31, 1966. They should be mailed to the First Citizen Committee, 3007 Pacific Avenue, Virginia Beach, Virginia. Supporting documents may accompany the nominations, and they will be returned, if requested.

The citizen of Virginia Beach selected will be honored at a banquet in February, at a time and place to be announced at a later date.

The Virginia Beach Jaycees have stressed that the winner may reside anywhere in the confines of the entire city, and they have asked for public help in choosing the person most worthy of the title "First Citizen of Virginia Beach of 1965."

Previous winners of the coveted award since it began fifteen years ago are: James G. Kontopoulas, 1950; E. B. Bayne, 1951; J. Peter Holland, III, 1952; Wood Seemann, 1953; Mrs. Glomire Lee Tibbuck,

Soldier Dies In Viet Nam

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Defense Department announced last week that Army Pfc. William A. Burnett, 30, of Shovelers Ave., Virginia Beach, was killed in action in Viet Nam. Burnett was serving in South Viet Nam with the 1st Cavalry (Airmobile) Division, and was a 19-month-old son of a widow and 19-month-old son of a widow on Shovelers Ave., and stepfather and mother, Mr. & Mrs. Robert Burns live on Shovelers Ave., Virginia Beach.

Burnett, a native of Durham, N. C., moved to Virginia Beach when he was 16. He joined the army and was married in 1959.

He received orders to the zone in South Viet Nam last week and was on leave with his family before leaving Virginia Beach in 1965.

The Defense Department has no other details other than he "killed fighting the communists in Viet Nam."

Beach Law Firm Cleared

RICHMOND — The Virginia Beach law firm of Kellam and Kellam, which had been charged with conflict of interests in handling some right-of-way acquisitions for the State Highway Department, had those charges against it dismissed as unfounded Tuesday by Assistant Attorney General Paul D. Stotts.

Allegations were allegedly made in the Dec. 10 issue of the Virginia Observer, a weekly local newspaper published in Norfolk.

The article in the newspaper allegedly listed 10 acquisitions for the Virginia Beach Toll Road handled by Kellam and Kellam, and quoted Stotts as saying no highway attorney should counsel for the state in instances where land to be acquired is owned by a relative, client, or firm in which members of the law firm involved hold stock or own stock.

The article further stated that in the 10 cases cited that members of the law firm have direct ties either through owning stock, holding office, family or professional connections.

In his report, Stotts said in six of the cases the highway department dealt directly with the land owners and in the other four cases the local attorney told the attorney general's office that he had disassociated himself due to conflict of interests.

Stotts said after he had received that information he appointed another attorney to the cases.

Stotts report said, "Since the local attorney did not handle any portion of the negotiations for the right-of-way but merely performed the mechanics of closing out the transactions, I find no conflict of interests in these cases."

"After further investigation of this matter, I am of the opinion that the accusations are without validity and in each case cited the public interest was fully protected," he said.

Stotts said that after settlements amicable to both sides were reached, the matters were referred routinely to the law firm for title examination and closing out.

Work Finished

VIRGINIA BEACH — Dredging of Lynnhaven Inlet and its connecting waters is finished four months ahead of schedule. Contracted to complete the work by April, the LaPorte Dredging Co. had moved 784,530 cubic yards of material from the waterways by last Monday.

$348,175 was paid the company for deepening three channels and dredging out a turning basin and mooring. It is expected the total cost of the project, including engineering and inspection will run approximately $467,000.

The dredging project provided a channel 12 feet deep and 150 feet wide through the inlet on both sides of Lesmer Bridge; a channel 10 feet deep and 30 feet wide through Long Creek between the new basin and Broad Bay; and a channel 6 feet deep and 90 feet wide between Broad Bay and Lihnhaven Bay through the Narrows.

The mooring and turning basin inside Lesmer Bridge is 12 feet deep, 750 feet wide and 1,100 feet long.

CONSTRUCTION BEGUN — John Davis, President of Double Delta Corporation announced recently that construction is underway on the resort motor lodge located at 38th Street and Atlantic Avenue, which has been named "The Royal Clipper." The Royal Clipper consists of 44 modern guestrooms decorated in a nautical theme and will be completed by April. James R. Walker of Jacksonville, Florida is the Architect of this all steel structure and C. S. Yoder of Virginia Beach the General Contractor.

Mrs. Art Buchwald has just published a charming book titled "White Gloves and Party Manners" which is already a best seller. In illustrating her book on popular TV show, "Today," she used as her models 4-year-old little girls. These tiny cherubs displayed to Jack Lescault the manner in which they would act if presented to a President (in this case LBJ with a Texas hat), and to a king, and how to open a door, take off their gloves and preside over a tea table. When asked by Barbara Walters why these tots were being trained at such an early age and if some day they would likely be presented to a president or a king — Mrs. Buchwald replied: "It is never too early to learn good manners, and who knows?"

Last week the Cotillion Club of Virginia Beach with a membership of 250 and at least 60 guests illustrated their home training and the teachings of Mrs. Leo Bailey and Mrs. E. R. Richardson, who started this membership club with only 50 original joiners. These two competent ladies realized the need of such a club at the Beach and bids are extended to all area Sophomores through Senior pupils in public and private High Schools who are recommended by their teachers, approved by their parents and who do not vary from the rule of no smoking, no drinking and no leaving the dance floor. (There is always a man on duty to supervise this rule). These two ladies, in their chaperone capacity without benefit of parents, have already proved that Tidewater teenagers do have good party manners.

To the orchestral tunes of The Norfolk Rondells, who played loud and long the latest dance music, these young ladies and gentlemen performed the "Frug," "The Mashed Potato," "The Watusi" and other athletic feats. Although the ballroom steamed with excessive heat, none of these "cool cats" removed their coats. But several young ladies spoiled the effects of their lovely evening attire by kicking off their shoes to display pretty pink toes!

Several dinner parties were given at homes and many parties were seated as we arrived to snap some pictures. The unusually original Christmas decorations enhanced the beauty of young America dancing from 9 to 1 garbed in fanciful evening gowns and dark suits, punctuated by occasional pre-school uniforms, exhibiting young America at well-earned holiday play.

Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Richardson have seen and fulfilled a social need of this community and have helped promote through this Cotillion party manners which will carry over into their everyday and future life, where they may even be to meet a President or a King.

LET'S TALK FASHION

By ALICE BREWER WHITE

ALISBEE

NEW YORK — The American Designers Fashion Press Week was in full swing yesterday, under Eleanor Lambert's expert direction, in the Crystal Ballroom of Park Avenue's smart Delmonico's Hotel. Fashion press, radio and television editors from all over the United States are in attendance, your Alisbee, too, covering the fashion showings and various events for the Virginia Beach Sun and for radio station WKVK. We find that the body is more apparent beneath gentle fitting and little or no inner construction in the new Spring fashions. The silhouette remains small at the top, with a long-necked look emphasized by the lack of collars or an open ring band or by wrapping the neck high with a colorful scarf. Shoulders are rarely padded even on strict tailored suits. Sleeves are mounted on very high armholes to keep a very small close top. The exception is the presence in many of the collections of at least one very full coat which swings either from deep folds on top of the shoulders or from a circle cut which widens from the tight armholes.

THREE NEW ONES

There are three new proportions: a straight fall from a high shallow yoke, often crescent curved and always set above the bosom, a fitted front which defines the waistline but remains straight at the back, and a very low tunic line which lies close to the hipline, not spreading outward in the old rajah line.

HEMS AND SKIRTS

We notice that the full hemline is present in many variations. You'll find it in flounces, tiers, pleats, deep front panels widening at the hem and in trumpet godets. Some very full skirts are topped by wide tight waistbands in some of the avant garde collections we've seen so far. Skirts are short, dear girls, which seems to be an accepted fact. However, the median line is mid-knee, usually about 19 inches from the floor!

FASHIONABLES

Petite Adele Simpson (she's under five-feet tall) sparked plenty as she showed her cotton travel suits on Delmonico's runway, especially a soignée travel suit sculptured in woven cotton in black and white very fresh, cool looking and with a crisp white collar and a soft artist's bow at the neck! . . . Oscar de la Renta, aglow with the praises from the press gals, over the wedding dress he designed for young Anne Ford, a short white gabardine dress with long sleeves and the hem, sleeves and neck bordered with white ermine with crystal and silver embroidery. His Spring Collection is out of this world! . . . Handsome John Witz prouder about over his new Tiny One and her beautiful mother, the former Susan Kohner of the movies, showed wonderful ways to weather the weather in exciting rain fashions. One black-checks-on-white cotton raincoat, with shiny black licorice buttons in double breasted closing and with matching triangle kerchief interpreted a gay look for a dismal rainy day on the town! . . . We just heard about the Man in the News these days, Charles De Gaulle, and his pernickety fashion ideas for his charming little wife Yvonne. She wears clothes designed by the famous French couturier Jacques Helin. Recently she wanted a dress in a sky blue fabric, we were told, and she took a swatch of fabric to her husband to okay. He didn't. He insists she wear only navy, black or gray!

STRAPS ARE IN! The Spring story is a strap story told here in five ways. Left, for high tea, a kitten of an ankle strap that twines playfully about the foot and bares all but the black patent white collared toe by Newton Elkin. Next the dashing fleet foot done in creamy white chocolate with a softly rounded toe and three important straps. In the center, looking as though its angular straps had been painted on, an ingenious late May shoe in raven's wing patent on a slender medium heel. Fourth, a clever blend of the sheer of patent with the matte of natural linen, set on a low curve heel. Finally for lunch in town a square throated wrap, open at the sides with a natural linen back punctuated with a pair of instep straps. These last four by David Evans and all National Shoe Institute of America's selections.

FASHION REPORT VIA RADIO Beginning Monday, January 10, Alisbee's Fashion Report from New York will be heard over station WKVK at 9:35 a.m. Interviews we're making with top American designers at both the American Designers showings and those later of the New York Couture Group, Inc. in New York will be heard. Next week in this column, more fashion reporting from New York.

ROMANTIC? Yes, indeed, is this exquisite headpiece designed by Lilly Dache for her Spring, 1966 Millinery Collection. Spring violets ripple over a turquoise and royal straw cloche and cascade down the sides of the face. Sits lightly on top of the high cuff, or wig, and is the perfect answer for the lady who declares she "just can't wear hats!" How could she miss in this bonnet?

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

The Time Has Finally Come

Before we go to press again, the biennial meeting of the Virginia General Assembly will have commenced in Richmond. Its entire complexion will be considerably different from 1964. By means of a new apportionment, its makeup has been altered. We shall be waiting rather anxiously to see what all this means. Will the balance of power be shifted from the rural to the urban areas? We doubt it, but there is a good chance that the urban areas will have a much larger voice than they have enjoyed in the past. In addition, we will be watching to see what difference the resignation of Senator Harry F. Byrd will make in the Legislature.

We, at Virginia Beach, will be keeping a sharp eye on the goings on there for many reasons. First of all, City Charter changes must be affected, if we are to hold a Democratic primary election and a General Council election this year. More than likely, a newly refined local option liquor by the drink bill will be presented. In past years, it has been blocked by largely rural areas. As we have stated many times before, we would like to see it make it through the Assembly this time for the good and growth of Virginia Beach. But probably the single item on the agenda that we will be watching with the most interest will be a statewide sales tax.

This obviously will be the "stand-up and be counted" session on the subject of the sales tax. There are those who still say it is not absolutely necessary, and there are those who will say it is absolutely necessary. And so far there are also those who just have not committed themselves one way or another. Public sentiment, however, will demand a full airing of the sticky subject.

The way we see it at this moment, it looks like the State of Virginia is going to have a general sales tax by mid 1966. All indications point in that direction. However, there are numerous problems that must be straightened out before this can happen. Not the least important of those problems is adamant sentiment against the sales tax in principle alone. Virginia has held the line for so many years without a sales tax, and is now one of the last states in the Union without one. The sales tax has been called the tax of last resort many times, and there are still those who cannot decide if we have reached the last resort.

Months ago, we explored this problem thoroughly and at that time took a stand in favor of the general sales tax. We still do. We still consider it the most equitable of all taxes, since everyone must pay this one, not just certain individuals or groups. Since that time also, Virginia Beach has adopted its own two per cent tax, which has helped ease its burden somewhat.

Looking at the overall picture, we would like to go on record in favor of a general statewide sales tax, under certain conditions. First, we feel that should it be adopted, provisions should be made to ease the State income tax burden on individuals. Second, we feel that the lion's share should be returned to the localities in one form or another. In other words, we do not feel we should get less with a state sales tax than we are getting under a local sales tax. If a two per cent tax is adopted statewide and one per cent returned to Virginia Beach, that would not be satisfactory to us. There would have to be other adjustments made. We would hope that the State could loosen its purse strings quite a bit more for public education, particularly at Virginia Beach, which we do not feel has ever received enough money because of Federal funds. In other words, we do not wish to get into the legalities and technicalities of fringe benefits under a state sales tax at this time, but we sincerely feel that if a sales tax is adopted, the state should shoulder more of the burdens of debt-ridden localities.

Bridging The Gaps

Most of us rarely travel through much of the City of Virginia Beach. We have a set pattern in our travel to and from work, to and from the shopping centers, and to and from recreational facilities. We are creatures of habit, and often do not see much that is going on in the City of Virginia Beach. Perhaps it would be a good idea to branch out and travel about more of our fifty miles of city and really look it over. During the past ten months, we have attempted to do this often, and we have been amazed at the growth of Virginia Beach and the construction activity that is taking place all the time.

The better part of this activity receives little or no publicity. A new house goes up here. A small store is being built there. Another strip of roadway is being improved. All of these occurrences are really insignificant unless one takes a look at the overall picture. Each of these everyday happenings is building toward a better, more mature and more refined city of the future. One such insignificant occurrence is taking place at this time.

A bridge is being replaced on South Lynnhaven Road back of Princess Anne Plaza. The old bridge needed replacing, but it could have waited. The Highway Department and the Department of Public Works are not only replacing a bridge, but they are planning for the future. The new bridge will be twice the length and width of the old. The roadway will be set in a different direction, planning for future straightening of Lynnhaven Road, as well as future widening. The new bridge will cross a newly dredged canal, that most citizens of Virginia Beach may not know exists. Within a few months construction on a new shopping center and skating rink will begin adjacent to that new bridge. The new bridge is being built to carry future traffic, but few of us even knew of the new bridge, or why it is being built. The majority of those who know live in that area, and are living with a detour. When that bridge is finished, the crews will move to Bow Creek Boulevard to finish the new bridge there. And then another main link will be completed. Soon South Lynnhaven Road will be widened. All of these are most insignificant in themselves, but important to the growth of our city.

So why not take a drive sometime soon, and see all of those unpublishable changes that have been made, and take note of a city on the move. You'll probably be rather surprised.

SPEAKING OF KNOTTY PROBLEMS --

The Educational Level Of Our Teachers

The Virginia Education Association has recently released a comprehensive report concerning the education levels of Virginia's teachers. Contained is some shocking bad news and some surprisingly good news. Where Virginia Beach is concerned, most of the news is good, and well-worth repeating.

Slightly more than 87% of Virginia's teachers are college graduates, making the state rank tenth of the eleven southern states. This is obviously bad news, but is far above the percentage of eight years ago. Salaries may have a lot to do with the relatively low percentage, but that cannot be the only reason. And the reasons are far too complex for discussion here.

Arlington County leads the state with 99.2% college graduate teachers. Virginia Beach ranks 18th with 94.6%. Norfolk, Portsmouth and Chesapeake rank far below Virginia Beach in this category. It is, however, only in elementary schools in Virginia Beach that there are teachers who do not hold degrees. All high school teachers hold at least one degree. There are only 71 teachers in elementary schools who do not, and one elementary teacher even holds a Ph. D. And Virginia Beach is far above the State average of 88.3%.

Unfortunately Virginia Beach falls down on holders of graduate degrees. But this is partially explained by the number of young teachers employed here, who have not yet received additional degrees. Because of the rapid growth of Virginia Beach, there have been so many additional teachers hired each year, and quite a few of them are first-year teachers, who will in time hold more degrees.

Where Virginia Beach really shines in the report is in progress. Less than ten years ago Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach ranked far down the list in the number of college graduate teachers. Virginia Beach City had more than 20 per cent of its teachers not holding a college degree and Princess Anne County had 27.5%. We venture a guess here — that ten years from now Virginia Beach will come very close to the top of the list in every way, if not on the very top. Already Virginia Beach ranks eighth in the State in the holders of Bachelor's Degrees and eighteenth in the holders of all degrees. For a new city suffering from great growing pains, to our way of thinking, that is just great.

A New Man At The Helm

There is a five-year old organization in Virginia Beach that is striving to fulfill its purpose. The Virginia Beach Automobile Dealers Association was set up to help serve the citizens of this city, as well as maintain professional standards of an important industry.

The new president of the young organization is William C. Everett, of a well-known automobile dealership in Virginia Beach. He has taken over from another well-known and highly respected Virginia Beach citizen, Roy Alphin.

Not only do we commend the organization for electing Everett as its president, but we commend all of its members for working together for the good of Virginia Beach. All of the members are executives of Virginia Beach automobile firms. The organization is completely independent of similar ones in any other city. This we feel is important to the growth of Virginia Beach.

We regard William Everett as a leader of our city and offer him our sincerest congratulations on his recent election.

THE VIRGINIA BEACH OPEN FORUM

Dear Sir,

Unfortunately there are those who cannot understand the so-called ridiculous controversy over the simple matter of naming a school. I'm inclined to think they have not only lost the meaning of the name itself, but have failed to realize that thousands of voters have signed petitions along with many more people and civic groups, who also ask for the retention of Virginia Beach High School in name to the new school, presently under construction on First Colonial Road. These citizens definitely have the right to challenge the wisdom of any decision made behind closed doors in this city, no matter how insignificant it may seem to be.

The editorial appearing in the Virginia Beach Sun December 30 ("Please, Not Ascari") would have us believe that decisions made by the few that are in authority be accorded merely at face value and considered "completely dead."

The School Board's decision to change the name of the present Virginia Beach High School when it is relocated on First Colonial Road next fall lacked one important aspect—that of the student. This element alone must bear not only the name of the school, but the pride and school spirit that go with it. In the exchange of a new name and a new building at the same time, it is too easy to lose the pride, school spirit, and the sentimental attachment to a school. This, of course, is a vital part of one's education.

Naming the school "something or other" just to get the issue out of the way is no way to settle the matter, even if it does settle our nerves. Let us instead hope that 1966 will bring a continuation of that which has been successful for the past 18 years in Virginia Beach High School, not only in purpose and spirit, but in name.

Respectfully,
Mike Beavers

The Virginia Bankers Association takes this opportunity to thank you for the fine coverage given us during the past year.

SPECIAL WASHINGTON REPORT

To Help Our Older Americans

By Senator PAUL H. DOUGLAS (D.-Ill.)

There are today more than 18 million Americans who are over 65 years of age. We not only have many more older citizens than ever before but they form also a larger proportion (9.3%) of our total population and they are increasingly older. In 1900 the average life expectancy at birth in this country was only 49.2 years; today it is more than 70.2 years. This is a dramatic change.

Lengthening the life-span is a major achievement of our times. It is also the source of one of the major challenges to the values and the vision of the Great Society.

WHAT TO DO WITH LONGER LIFE?
The conflict of longer life with shortening work careers due to ever younger retirement ages, has resulted in a tragic waste of talent and skills. At a time when a retiree has more free time than ever, he often finds less opportunity for his meaningful use—indeed he often encounters unmountable barriers to any use of his talents at all. If he needs paid employment, it is difficult to find. Even if he wishes to volunteer his services, he is often not included in a community's reckoning of its resources. If he needs special services or seeks recreation or education, they often are not available at prices he can pay.

In one week last July the Congress passed two vital pieces of legislation making possible a series of new services and opportunities for older people. One, of course, was Medicare with its needed program of hospital and health care security. The other was the Older Americans Act. Although modest in cost the services and opportunities this Act will open up to older people in every community are of great importance.

THE OLDER AMERICANS ACT OF 1965
Under this Act an Administration on Aging is now established and is serving as a clearinghouse for information in the field of aging. The Administration on Aging will provide grant funds to the states to enable them to develop programs for their older citizens and to—in turn—make grants available to local communities for the provision of services and opportunities. Already, 46 Governors have designated a specific state agency to administer the program in their states. Regional meetings have been held in all regions and state plans are now coming in. The Administration on Aging will soon announce first approvals of state plans.

Applications are coming in too for the grants, also authorized by the Older Americans Act, for demonstration, research and training projects to help improve the quality of older life.

We need rewarding programs for the benefit of the aging and of the country. We want our Senior Citizens to have enjoyable and productive lives, but we also need their wise advice and experienced help.

Paul H. Douglas

University Women's Christmas Luncheon

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Virginia Beach branch of the American Association of University Women met for its annual Christmas luncheon in the ball room of the Fort Story Officers' Club. Business was dispensed with and proceeding the luncheon, sherry was served. Donations to the Sherry hour go into the Fellowship Fund's local chairman is Mrs. Charles Lovitt of Country Day School. She was formerly state chairman of the Fund. Mrs. Lovitt spoke on behalf of the Fund and described ten students from various countries who had received the grants for higher education. Christmas cards from a few graduate students were read. One was from Eva H. Mueller of Brazil, who had visited Mrs. Lovitt at Virginia Beach some time ago and who, after completing her graduate work in mental health, married, got her medical degree, has two children and now lives in New Jersey. Another was read from Lea Block who after completing her research in cancer returned to South Africa, thereby carrying out the objective of the Fund.

The decorations, made and arranged by Fort Story personnel, consisted of murals of driftwood painted bluish white and tied with red ribbon bows against an aluminum foil background, while over the fireplace hung an enormous white Christmas wreath. Lighting was contrived through the use of coat-hanger lanterns of entwined greenery dotted with red roses.

Officers of the local branch are: Mrs. Ray Shield, Jr., president; Mrs. Joseph Sadler, vice president; and Mrs. Donald Rhodes, secretary-treasurer.

Among those attending the luncheon were Dr. Madge May, Mrs. D. W. Jones, Mrs. J. T. Knight, Miss Joan Gaetani, Mrs. Bernard Brown, Mrs. Suzanne Huffines, Mrs. Anne Gordon Kellam, Mrs. W. Lawson Blackstone, Mrs. J. L. Whitlock, Mrs. Richard W. Barnes, and Mrs. C. Bradley Arnett.

The next meeting will be held at Country Day School the third Wednesday night in January at 8 p.m.

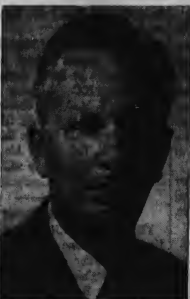

Any accredited college graduate seeking membership may contact Mrs. Shield at 464-3016 or Mrs. Rhodes, membership chairman, at 340-8225.

Boaters Warned

RICHMOND — Although this is not a very active boating season, the Virginia Game Commission reminds boat owners that they are obligated to keep the boat section advised of their current address. Even though a registered boat may not be in use, the law requires owners to report any change of address within 15 days.

Toll Roads

is Interchange No. 6 at the intersection of Business Route 58 (Virginia Beach Boulevard) and Laskin Road just east of London Bridge. Engineers after considerable study have worked out the routing of traffic in several stages to accommodate motorists with a minimum amount of inconvenience during the many phases of the work.

Construction at this intersection consists of utility adjustments, removal of existing bridge over Business Route 58 (Virginia Beach Boulevard), building one large double box culvert and five major bridges, in addition to the regular grading and paving of multiple lanes all within the limits of this interchange.

On or about January 1, 1966 the northern service road was to be closed near the pumping station to permit adjustment of waterlines and construction of the northern section of the double box culvert. Also the southern service road will be closed from Great Neck Road approximately 800 feet east to permit grading operations.

Further notices will be published periodically in advance of other stages of detours as construction progresses. It is hoped that the public will be tolerant and understand that these inconveniences and short delays are temporary and will all be for the construction of a high type road, long overdue, with many built in safety features which is a vital link between two of Tidewater's major cities.

Trout Stocked In Reservoirs

RICHMOND — Almost 38,000 trout have been stocked so far this winter in suitable Virginia reservoirs, according to R. G. Martin, Game Commission Fish Division Chief. About half of these, some 20,000 trout, were stocked in Philpott Reservoir where similar plants over the past several years have reached 5 to 7 pound size. Except for the fact that they apparently can't find suitable spawning sites in the lake, the big rainbows have found Philpott waters and conditions to their liking.

Another large portion of the fish stocked were placed in Smith Mountain Reservoir. This lake, which has already gained quite a reputation among bass fishermen, may also be well suited for growing lunker trout in its deeper waters. "This is the first planting of trout for this impoundment so it will take a couple of years to determine the success of the introduction," Martin said.

Gatewood Reservoir in Pulaski County, a 362 acre water supply reservoir for the town of Pulaski also received an initial stocking of 1,600 trout. An additional 6,400 trout were stocked in Carvins Cove Reservoir and 800 were placed in Lake Shenandoah, two bodies of water where the trout stocking program has shown moderate success over the past few years.

A planting of 15,000 rainbows is scheduled for South Holston Reservoir in January. The Tennessee Game and Fish Commission will stock a like amount in the Tennessee portion of the interstate reservoir.

"Super-Right" Quality Meats!

What Quality Beef Does A&P Sell?

That's a fair question. But not an easy one to answer because we have our own quality standards, different from any other meat merchant. These standards don't fit exactly the familiar terms you know for grades of meat. As an example, did you know that some beef, graded U.S. Choice, just doesn't meet our "Super-Right" specifications? It's true! You see... we don't buy by grade. We use our own high standards to bring you the best values. That doesn't mean we don't approve of such grading—not at all. It just means we're very fussy about the beef we label "Super-Right." It stands to reason we have to be or A&P wouldn't be America's number one meat merchant.

Guess Who The Boss Is At Your A&P

It's you!

Think about it. It makes sense.

All of us from the President on down work for you.

Frankly, where would we be without you and the many people like you?

We know. We'd still be in that little store on Vesey Street where we started more than 100 years ago.

That's why you're important. That's why we care so much about how we serve you.

about being fair, honest and dependable.

Is this kind of attitude a good reason for shopping A&P?

Sentenced

VIRGINIA BEACH — A sentence of 91 days in jail was given Melvin Thomas Lashley, 43, of Onondaro Ave., Norfolk, by a Circuit Court jury which has found him guilty of grand larceny stemming from the recent crack down of the appliance theft ring. He was one of seven men arrested last July. He will be tried later on two additional charges of grand larceny.

While the defendant was not actually at the scene of the thefts with which he was charged, the commonwealth contended that he "contrived a scheme for others" to take three appliances—a refrigerator, washing machine and dryer from Norfolk Engineering Co., Inc.

His nephew, Willie Lee Lashley, 25, pleaded guilty to three counts of grand larceny in Circuit Court last December 16. Leonard Millikan, 35, pleaded guilty to two counts of grand larceny on Nov. 30, and to a charge of possession of stolen goods in Norfolk Corporation Court on Sept. 24.

Archie Curtis Bond, 38, pleaded guilty in Norfolk on Nov. 29 to three counts of possession of stolen goods. Floyd Maxton Martin, 36, was acquitted by a Portsmouth jury on Dec. 7 on the charge of receiving stolen goods.

Ford To Address 1st District Republicans February 10

HAMPTON — Congressman Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, Minority Leader of the House of Representatives, will address the 1st annual Lincoln Day Banquet presented by the First District Republican Party February 10 at the Hotel Chamberlain. It was announced by David N. Montague, banquet chairman. Other Republican officials attending the $10-a-plate banquet will be State Chairman Robert J. Corbett of Arlington, A. Linwood Holton, Jr., of Roanoke, recent GOP gubernatorial candidate, and I. Lee Potter, of Arlington, state national committee member and member of the national committee staff. William Clover, Williamsburg real estate executive and GOP district finance chairman, will handle tickets and reservations. Montague is Hampton Republican treasurer and a member of the State Central Committee. The Republican Party of Hampton will be host to the affair.

Ford, who has been a member of the House since 1949, was elected Minority Leader at the opening of the 86th Congress on January 5, 1959. During the 86th Congress of 1959-1960, he was Chairman of the Republican Conference of the House. He is a member of the Appropriations Committee and senior Republican on the subcommittee for the Department of Defense. He is also a member of the subcommittee for foreign operations. The 52-year-old attorney has been a member of the Republican Policy Committee for seven years and a member of the Joint Senate-House Republican Leadership since 1963. In November, 1963 President Johnson appointed him to a seven-member board to investigate the assassination of President Kennedy.

He entered Congress after defeating the Republican incumbent in Michigan's Fifth Congressional District in 1948 and winning the following November general election. Since his entry into the House, he has maintained an attendance record of 92 per cent during 16 1/2 years, missing only 255 roll calls of 3,546. He has never failed to win his seat by less than 60.5 per cent of the vote in nine elections, winning by over 67 per cent twice. The American Political Science Association termed Ford the "Congressman's Congressman" when it selected him as the Republican member to receive its "Distinguished Congressional Service Award" in 1961. As a member of the American Group for the Inter-parliamentary Union, he attended the 1959 session at Warsaw, the 1961 session at Brussels and the 1963 meeting at Belgrade. He also represented the U. S. at meetings of the U. S.-Canadian Interparliamentary Group at Ottawa, New York and Washington during 1959-1960.

Ford is a graduate of the University of Michigan, where he won three varsity letters in football and played on Michigan's undefeated national championship team of 1950 and 1951. In 1955, he played in the East-West Shrine game and the All-Star game against the Chicago Bears. "Sports Illustrated" magazine awarded him its "Silver Anniversary All-American Award" as one of 25 players of 25 years ago who had contributed the most to their fellow citizens in the quarter century.

Ford received his law degree from Yale University in 1941 and was admitted to the Michigan State Bar the same year. Last year, Michigan State awarded him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. Albion, Aquinas and Spring Arbor Colleges have awarded similar degrees to him.

Moore Retires After 38 Years In U.S. Navy

NATO ALLIED COMMAND ATLANTIC HEADQUARTERS, Norfolk, Va., Jan. 3, 1966 — December 30 to most people means the almost end of an old year and the beginning of a new. To Commander Jack F. Moore, Medical Service Corps, U. S. Navy, it meant the end of a 38-year naval career, and a new life filled with " . . . lots of golf and fishing."

Commander Moore retired from the Navy on Dec. 30 in ceremonies at SACLANT Headquarters. The commander had served there as Medical Plans Officer since August 1964.

He was honored by Vice Admiral R. D. Hogle, U. S. Navy, SACLANT Chief of Staff, who read highlights of Commander Moore's career and presented him with his retirement papers. The commander then reviewed the Marine Honor Guard and the CINCLANTFLT band.

Born in Paris, Ill., in 1907, Commander Moore attended the University of Illinois for one year before enlisting in the Navy in 1927. Following recruit training he was sent to Hospital Corps School at Mare Island, San Francisco, Calif. There began his 38-year career in medicine and the Navy.

From Hospital Corps School, the commander reported to the hospital ship USS Relief, where he served until 1939, gaining the rate of Pharmacist Mate Second Class.

Then began years of Navy globe-trotting; from San Diego to the Coast Guard Releases Its 1965 Report

PORTSMOUTH — In one of the biggest lifesaving years of its 173-year history, the United States Coast Guard saved or rescued from peril more than 15,000 persons during 1965. The value of property saved was nearly $1.9 billion, or more than four times the Coast Guard's appropriation for the year.

Admiral E. J. Roland, "Coast Guard Commandant," revealed these facts Monday in Washington while reviewing service activity for the past year. He said that the Cuban small boat exodus, Hurricane Betsy, and the springtime Mississippi River floods contributed to the high totals.

Fifth Coast Guard District Headquarters in Portsmouth, announced that over 150 persons and $35 million in ships and cargo had been saved within its geographical boundaries, which includes Virginia, Maryland, North Carolina, District of Columbia, and Bermuda. More than 2,000 calls for assistance were answered.

In its law enforcement and boating education program, the Fifth District boarded more than 9,000 pleasure craft during 1965. Of LYNNHAVEN — "Information Please," a panel discussion, will highlight the next meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association to be held at John B. Dey School on Tuesday, January 11, at 8 p.m.

A short business meeting will precede the program, and refreshments will follow.

RESCUE — A U. S. Coast Guard HH-32 helicopter basket scooped a stranded man from the roof top of a home that was shattered by hurricane "Betsy" near Delacroix, La. This helicopter, based at Coast Guard Air Station, New Orleans, was one of the eleven Coast Guard helicopters that evacuated 1,144 persons, transported 22 medics, and flew 140 sorties during the devastating storm in September of 1965. (Official U. S. Coast Guard Photograph)

WAR PATROL — At Hon Heo, South Vietnam, U. S. Coast Guard 82-footer POINT YOUNG acts as support vessel for Navy divers and Coast Guard personnel working to raise the first Viet Cong junk that was sunk in the Gulf of Thailand by a Coast Guard 82-footer in September of 1965. The 28-foot junk had attempted to ram the 82-footer USCGC POINT GLOVER, which retaliated with machine gun fire (not stopped and sank the junk. (Official U. S. Coast Guard Photograph) had evacuated 1,144 persons, transported 22 medics, and flown 140 sorties.

Another 3,600 persons were evacuated by small boats and vehicles from the Coast Guard Base in New Orleans, and approximately 100 tons of food, water and medical supplies were transported. At its Supply Depot in the same city, the Coast Guard helped to bring more than 8,000 persons from flooded areas to high ground.

Three HH32 helicopters and two C-130 fixed-wing aircraft from the Fifth District's Elizabeth City, N. C. Air Station were temporarily deployed to New Orleans to assist in the disaster.

One of the many human dramas that took place during Hurricane Betsy's attack concerned a party of blind persons stranded on a roof top. To reach them, a Coast Guard helicopter pilot had to make a dangerous roof top landing.

The operation was carried out without a hitch due largely to the courage and cooperation of the blind men and women. Said the pilot later: "The courage of this group struck me because of the sharp contrast in the orderliness and patience as we lifted these blind people by basket into life helicopter. They were the easiest load that we picked up that entire day. It is difficult for me to place myself in their position, having been exposed to terrifying elements for about 24 hours, and then to have the thunderous noise of a helicopter descend on them for a rescue. It is a rescue that I will never forget."

When the rain-swollen Mississippi and its tributaries rampaged over America's heartland in the Spring of 1965, Coast Guardsmen labored tirelessly to bring stranded men, women and children to safety. Small boats and helicopters were used in the evacuations. One Coast Guardsman's day involved

Letter From Viet Nam

LYNNHAVEN — A shoe box filled with simple items journeyed, along with thousands just like it, across the oceans and into the jungles of Viet Nam. Its recipients were pleased with its contents and grateful for its intangible message of faith from the senders who could not let them be forgotten. One such box came from Mr. and Mrs. Jake Jacobson of 3208 Lark Street in Princess Anne Plaza.

A few days after Christmas, like "bread upon the waters," an airmail letter was delivered to their door. . . and its contents read:

"24 December 1965
Tourane Bay
Da Nang, Viet Nam
Dear Jake, Linda, Ronelda Dee and Patti Ann.
Although it is only Christmas Eve, we, like the little boys that even the oldest of us all sometimes resembles, pre-opened and generously sampled your lovely and thoughtful gifts.
The difficulties of life over here are eased quite a bit not only by such welcomed gifts as these but specially by the knowledge that people like you think enough of our struggle, and of us, to go to such a trouble.

We thank you deeply and hope you have had as Merry a Christmas as you have made ours.

God bless you.
The crew of LCU 1617" (and fourteen signatures were written below).

The Jacobsons were understandably touched by the simple gesture of thanks these fighting men expressed and were glad they had taken time to be included with the group effort of "Operation Shoebox." Their box had gone out with the other 30 such gift packages from the "Lucky Strikers," a bowling team who roll at Rinaldi's Plaza Bowl.

Jake is a Navy instructor stationed at NAS Oceana with NAMTD, and he and his wife, Linda, have two little daughters. They know why the Viet Nam war must be fought till victory over communism is assured. . . .

Authority Has No Plans

VIRGINIA BEACH—Frank Kellam, Chairman of the Rudee Inlet Authority said last week the agency has no immediate plans to ask the 1966 General Assembly for a new version of the contested authority.

The Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals has been asked to hand down a ruling on a Virginia Beach Circuit Court decision upholding the property owners of the Inlet area in their contention that the authority should not be permitted to condemn their land for development of a proposed marina, a private development, in the area. The decision was handed down by Circuit Court Judge Robert S. Wabash and is being appealed.

If the Court of Appeals hands down a ruling adverse to the authority when the matter goes before the court next month, it could create a two-year delay. But, the present agency could be kept alive by limiting its condemnation powers to public use.

Plants Grow Without Sun

It was once thought that plants could not be grown in the absence of sunlight. "This line of thinking is obsolete," says Elgia L. Easter, Ornamental Horticulturist at Virginia Beach. "Now people can grow beautiful flowering and foliage plants in complete absence of natural light." This can be done by using fluorescent lamps. The best artificial lighting for growing plants is a mixture of incandescent light and fluorescent light, with only about 10 percent of the light coming from the incandescent lamp. Many flowering plants are known to grow well with fluorescent lamps as the sole source of light. However, plants grown under incandescent lamps alone are inclined to be spindly and pale in color.

According to Easter, incandescent lamps are rich in red light which makes plants grow tall and leggy. Fluorescent lights on the other hand, are rich in blue light which can cause low, stocky growth. A proper balance between red and blue light produces plants that have normal growth and shape.

"Without light of sufficient intensity for photosynthesis, plants cannot survive. The intensity required to do this varies with the particular plant being grown. For example, an African violet does well with about 600 foot-candles of light, while a dumb cane or a rubber plant will do well with 50 to 100 footcandles of light," Easter said.

The light intensity can be measured by means of a photographic light meter.

Leading Cause Of Death

Diseases of the heart and blood vessels were responsible for 253 of 613 deaths in Virginia Beach during the last calendar year for which statistics are available, it was disclosed today by Hugh Lynn Cayce, local chairman of the 1965 Heart Fund Campaign. This was 41 percent of the total of all deaths, he said, and compares with a current national toll of 54 percent attributable to these diseases.

"Nationally," said Mr. Cayce, "the overall economic cost of heart disease has been placed at $4 billion yearly, or about $21 per person. If that average can properly be applied to our own city population of 125,000, it follows that the economic cost of heart disease in this city is somewhere in the neighborhood of $2,605,000."

Mr. Cayce said there is but one way through which the individual can act to reduce the toll in death, disability, suffering and economic cost, namely, by contributing to your Heart Association for its programs of research, education and community service.

"The massive research and supporting programs which began just after the first Heart Fund Campaign in 1948 are now starting to pay off in life-saving advances," he said. "Since 1950 we have seen a decline of 15 percent in the cardiovascular mortality rate for those aged below 65, and an even more drastic reduction in the rate applying to children and young adults. There was an overall decline of 74 percent in the cardiovascular death rate, 1950-1962, for American males aged 45-64."

MR. and MRS. GEO. T. MEERT

Cupid Reigns Supreme

By DOUGLAS ARNOLD BARNES

Within the sheltering walls of The Mayflower are living Mr. and Mrs. George T. Meert, 40-ish and 70-ish recent bride and groom. There they can look upon the ocean with its changing scene and color; the tips of two tall magnolia trees kiss their window sills; a panorama of Atlantic Avenue and south Virginia Beach from 34th Street unfolds into the distance . . . and around and about them are friends and neighbors.

Not long ago, both were guests at the Holmes Convalescent Home at Thalia where among the patients, nurses' and management staff, their pleasant personalities and cooperation made them favorite people.

And so . . . with your permission we quote from a bit of Virginian fugitive verse written many years ago by T. W. Duke: "A rainy night, a windswept shadowy street; Crowds on the pavement, hurrying to and fro; When suddenly—a waft of perfume, divinely sweet—a voice that whispered: 'Whither dost thou go?'—and at thy feet, I knelt and worshipped. Was it long ago?"

. . . and into the convalescent home came love! Soon after, secret plans were made and these two lovers got their license, blood tests, and were married at Princes Anne Court House—all in one day—and returned as innocent as two little lambs. Two lonely hearts were made as one, and love and companionship rule the domain . . .

Mrs. George T. Meert was formerly Mrs. Irene Freeman of Princess Anne County. She has two grown sons, one of whom is a Methodist minister in Richmond. He is the Rev. Clifton W. Freeman, youth director for the Virginia Methodist Conference Board of Christian Education. The other son, James M. Freeman, is married and has one son, David. He is a civil engineer. Both have served in the armed services and approve highly of their mother's marriage, as does Mr. Meert's children in Virginia and Pennsylvania.

At the nursing home, since the secret of the runaway marriage was kept so well by the entire staff who thought they had merely gone for a day's outing, discovered the truth and retaliated by playing several wedding night tricks upon the unsuspecting new-lives.

All have read the story of the couple in Chicago who met in and were married on Christmas Day by Santa Claus in an elevator, and of other romantic weddings. To us, this story is one of the most heart-warming to appear during this happy season.

Personals

Among the various hostesses of many holiday parties in the Mayflower were Mrs. W. B. Edmunds, Mrs. Laura Tucker, Mrs. Vivian Moore, and Mrs. Doris Makinson.

Miss Clarinda Hathorn of Boston and her twin brother, Pvt. V. L. Hathorn, Jr., of Ft. Gordon, Ga. were visiting in Virginia Beach over the holidays. Their mother is Mrs. A. Fitch Hathorn of 206 35th Street. Their grandmother, Mrs. F. E. Fitch, lives on 78th Street, and their sister is Mrs. Maynard Allen of 402 Terrace Ave.

Winter Meals Get Lift

Bring fresh new flavor to mid-winter meals with crisp apples and juicy pears. Serve them in cobblers, salads, pies and tarts. Try them baked and topped with a pouring of heavy cream or a scoop of vanilla ice cream.

Consider them, too, as a meat accompaniment. For instance, how about serving uncooked Apple Chutney with your next roast? It goes well with pork, ham, lamb, chicken or turkey.

And for a dessert befitting the season, Baked Crunchy Pears are a happy choice.

Whatever way you fix apples and pears, FRUIT-FRESH will keep the cut surfaces white, prevent darkening and preserve the delicious flavor of the fruit. This is the same convenient product that's so useful in canning and freezing fruit.

Apple Chutney

- 1 tablespoon FRUIT-FRESH (ascorbic acid mixture)
- 3/4 cup water
- 3 apples
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1/2 cup raisins
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 2 tablespoons chopped crystallized ginger

For a honey of a roast accompaniment, you can't top this uncooked Apple Chutney. FRUIT-FRESH will keep the chopped apples from turning dark.

- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
  - 2 tablespoons honey
- Combine FRUIT-FRESH and water. Peel, core and chop apples. Toss with ascorbic acid and water mixture to coat pieces. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Cover and place in the refrigerator several hours so flavors will blend. Makes 3 1/2 cups. This relish will keep in the refrigerator for about a week.

- Baked Crunchy Pears
- 3 pears
- 1 teaspoon FRUIT-FRESH (ascorbic acid mixture)
- 1/2 cup water
- 4 tablespoons bread crumbs
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 tablespoon butter
- Strawberry jam

Cut pears in half and core. Place cut side up in a shallow baking dish. Dissolve FRUIT-FRESH in water and pour over pears, making sure all pears are moistened. Combine bread crumbs, sugar, cinnamon, and butter until crumbly. Fill centers with crumb mixture and top with a teaspoon of jam. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) until tender, about 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

VACATIONING — Capt. and Mrs. Ed. E. Shelby of 1520 Watersedge Drive are shown on the deck of the Furness luxury liner, "S. S. Ocean Monarch" before sailing from New York on an ocean cruise to the sunny Bermuda Isles, St. Thomas, Barbados, and Martinique. (Furness Bermuda line photo)

Mason. He is married and has four children.

Holton, 41-year-old Roanoke attorney, polled over 190,000 votes in last November's gubernatorial election to become the GOP's No. 1 votegetter in all its races for the Governor's chair. He has been mentioned, also, as a possible candidate for the U. S. Senate later this year.

The banquet is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. with a cocktail hour at 6:30 p.m. Wayne C. Thiessen, First District chairman, will serve as master of ceremonies.

VNB Shareholders Will Meet

NORFOLK — "A year marked by significant growth and progress in the two and a half year history of Virginia National Bank" was reported today by R. Ooby Moore, chairman of the board and W. Wright Harrison, president as they released a preliminary statement on the bank's condition on Dec. 31, 1965.

Virginia Nationals' complete annual report is currently being prepared for the regular shareholders meeting scheduled for noon on January 25th.

Moore and Harrison stated that Virginia National's net operating earnings, after taxes in 1965, increased to a record $4,494,722, equal to $2.44 per share on 1,841,915 shares outstanding — an increase of 9% over the previous year. At the close of 1964, VNB's net operating earnings were $4,122,301, equal to $2.24 a share.

Total deposits of Virginia National's sixty-two offices, an increase of sixteen since December 31, 1964, amounted to $483,524,030 at the end of this year as compared with $445,050,050, the total as of one year ago—an increase of 9.9 percent.

Loans and discounts totaled $233,557,394 at the end of 1965, a gain of 11.7 percent over the $208,713,300 shown at the end of 1964.

At their annual meeting, the bank's shareholders will be asked to vote on two additional mergers already approved by the boards of directors of Virginia National, Peoples National Bank of Victoria and Wythe County National Bank. When finally approved, Virginia National will operate sixty-six offices in thirty-three communities in the Commonwealth.

The two officials expect the bank's growth in 1966 to increase the relative standing of VNB among the nation's first one hundred commercial banks. At mid-1965 Virginia National ranked ninety-eighth in size.

In November, 1965 Virginia National Bank passed the half-billion dollar mark in total resources. By year end the total had reached $546,433,831.

New Rector Named

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Rev. Leonard Robert Graves, Jr. has accepted the call to be rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church in Kempsville. He comes to Emmanuel after serving for two and one-half years as assistant minister at St. Paul's Church, Petersburg, Virginia.

Graves graduated with distinction from Virginia Military Institute in the class of 1960, and graduated from the Virginia Theological Seminary in Alexandria in 1963. His name is included in "Who's Who" among students in American Colleges and Universities. In June of 1963, Graves was ordained to the Sacred Order of Deacons at St. Michael's Church in Bon Air. While assistant minister at St. Paul's in Petersburg, Graves accomplished special work in Christian education, Christian social relations, pastoral ministry and preaching.

Graves, born in Norfolk May 11, 1938, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Graves, Sr. of Richmond. He is married to the former Lorraine Marion Milleot of Wilmington, Delaware and has a daughter, Elizabeth Byrne.

Construction To Start

Coast Guard Report

quite a variety of activity: he helped herd buffalo to safety; vaccinated flood victims; transported workers, medicine and food; and helped one set of distraught parents salvage their children's Easter basket.

When describing some of the Coast Guard's objectives and advances, Admiral Roland gave prominent mention to the Automated Merchant Vessel Report (AMVER) program. This computerized search and rescue operation, centered in New York City, and little known to persons outside the maritime industry, saved additional scores of persons in 1965. By using a computer to plot merchant vessels at sea the AMVER Center can quickly tell a search and rescue coordinator where help is located in case of an emergency. The program, in operation in the Atlantic since 1968, was expanded in 1965 to include the Pacific Ocean.

As part of the Coast Guard's expanding oceanographic program, the Coast Guard Cutter NORTHWIND carried out a five-month study of the Kara and Barents Seas north of the Soviet Union. The cutter carried marine scientists of the Coast Guard's Oceanographic Unit in Washington, D. C. Data obtained during the cruise will be made available to marine research centers of the world. This is the first opportunity scientists have had to secure important information on the nature, structure, and history of this remote part of the world.

A big addition to the Coast Guard fleet and to its responsibilities was made when an agreement between the U. S. Navy and Treasury Department transferred five Navy icebreakers to the Coast Guard. The agreement makes the Coast Guard the chief icebreaking agency for the Federal Government. The ship transfers will be carried out over a 18-month period having begun with the transfer of the EDWIN in October, 1965, and will conclude with the transfer of the BURTON ISLAND in November, 1966.

The launching of the 210-foot medium endurance cutter ACTIVE and three new 157-foot buoy tenders in 1965 kept the Coast Guard's fleet modernization program moving briskly ahead.

While most of the Commandant's report pertained to operations at home, he told, also, of the Service's 83-foot patrol boats now operating at the other side of the world in Vietnam. Seventeen of these boats are on duty helping to choke off the flow of supplies by water from North Vietnam to Viet Cong units in the south. They have given a good account of themselves in action against the enemy, sinking several Viet Cong junks and supporting ground action by South Vietnamese and U. S. troops.

Two of these cutters, the POINT GARNET and POINT GREY, are from the Fifth District where they were involved in search and rescue work in the Norfolk area before being called on to serve in Vietnam.

The Commandant summarized his report by calling 1965 "a memorable year" for this small service of 32,000 men. Perhaps on a local Fifth District level the Coast Guard's service to the American public during 1965 can best be expressed by a Norfolk fisherman who was recently lost overnight in his boat on Chesapeake Bay. When found and brought to safety by the Coast Guard Cutter CHEROKEE, the fisherman stated to a newspaper reporter: "Next year when I pay my taxes I'll do it with a smile."

Bandits Net Over $30,000 In Sun. Robbery At Farm

VIRGINIA BEACH — A 13-state alarm has been sent out for the two gunmen who held up an elderly farmer at his farm near Pungo Sunday morning and escaped with more than $30,000.

Derwood Lee Whitehurst, 88, was at home alone while his son and daughter-in-law were attending church when the robbery took place.

Whitehurst said the men drove up to the house about 11:00 a.m., and thinking they were visitors, he invited them into the house.

One of the men, neatly dressed in a suit and tie, told Whitehurst to open the safe, but when the elderly man said he didn't know how, the bandit said he could.

His accomplice, dressed in dirty, shabby clothes then pulled a gun and told Whitehurst to sit down.

The neatly dressed bandit grabbed a bag of tools, opened the door to the hall, and walked directly to Whitehurst's bedroom where the safe was.

Whitehurst said the men bent on the safe for approximately 15 minutes, while the gunman sat there just wanted some papers, not his money.

When the safe was finally broken into, the two bandits left the house without any further conversation. After they had left the house, Whitehurst called the police. He placed the call at 12:06 p.m.

Virginia Beach police quickly sealed off the city on all routes leading to Chesapeake, Norfolk, and North Carolina, within 30 minutes of the call. They found a tie clip and screwdriver that the safecracker left in the bedroom.

Police officers who investigated the robbery said the bandits made off with between $30,000 and $40,000 in $5 to $100 bills and some personal papers. They said the money had accumulated over an 8 to 10 year period because the elder Whitehurst has not been able to get around well the past few years.

Whitehurst's son, O. Elroy Whitehurst, said the bandits probably never thought that they would get more than two or three thousand dollars in their robbery.

The younger Whitehurst said he saw a car pull from the farm's driveway as he was returning from church and passed it about 200 yards from the driveway.

OVERPASS SUPPORTS — This construction on the toll road at Plaza Trail is a major bottleneck for traffic. The building of the supports is nearing completion and should be finished within two weeks. At present traffic is being routed through one side of the divided road. (See Additional Pictures on Page 5A). (Staff Photo by Moore)

NIGHT WORK INVOLVED

Va. Beach Toll Road Work On Schedule

VIRGINIA BEACH — Construction on the Virginia Beach Toll Road appears to be moving smoothly and possibly a little ahead of schedule.

Work on several portions, the London Bridge-Ocean section in particular, is being done into the late hours. One person reported that grading, at the planned overpass at South Great Neck Road at London Bridge was being done at 12:10 a.m. as he passed the area on his way home.

This night work is being conducted to assure the grading and packing of the dirt is completed before the rainy season comes.

Approximately 85 per cent of the toll road's right-of-way has been purchased, and except where it has not yet been obtained, work is moving rapidly.

In some areas motorists are troubled by the tie-ups and traffic snarls that come with highway construction.

One of these areas that give motorists headaches is the construction of the overpass at Plaza Trail. At this point, traffic is funneled through one side of the divided road, and the distance between passing automobiles is just a few inches.

However, this snag at Plaza trail will be done away with as soon as the overpass's support columns are raised. The obstructions to traffic should be moved in about two weeks.

The toll road is scheduled for completion in December 1967, but if work continues as it is now, the highway may be completed before that date.

The Virginia Beach Toll Road will be a limited-access, high-speed highway which will connect the resort area of Virginia Beach with Interstate 64 in Norfolk. The Interstate system in Tidewater is scheduled for completion at approximately the same time as the toll road.

It should prove to be a great asset to the resort city when it is completed.

The toll road was not only planned for high-speed travel between Virginia Beach and Norfolk. It was also planned to give some relief to the heavily traveled Virginia Beach Boulevard. When the toll road is completed a motorist can

Dial 'T' for Trouble With Telephone Directory

By H. JOSEPH LOWENTHAL, JR.

VIRGINIA BEACH — Until recently the current edition of the Norfolk Portsmouth-Chesapeake-Virginia Beach telephone directory has never been much of a conversation piece. Perhaps some persons addressing Christmas cards caused the situation to change, and perhaps not. But whatever caused the change, the book with the white and yellow pages is now causing quite a bit of conversation.

Virginia Beach City Manager Russell Hatchett says problems concerning the book were brought to him by several interested citizens.

Money Big On Docket

VIRGINIA BEACH — City Council not only made numerous appointments at its meeting Monday, but also appropriated more than $61,000 for various departments.

City Manager Russell Hatchett, in his report to council asked the governing body to appropriate $3948.34 to buy an office machine. He said the money could be transferred from one fund to another, to allow the purchase.

He then asked council to approve an appropriation of $22,615.79 for drainage work at Princess Anne Plaza. Hatchett said the problem of flooding is still a major point in that area.

Council approved a loan of $3,000 to the Oceana Fire Department for the purchase of new equipment. Hatchett said the Alan B. Shepard Civic Center had incurred a debt of over $19,000 in promoting entertainment. He also said that since the Civic Center has put more than $50,000 into the city coffers he suggested paying off the debt from that. Council approved the move.

In other action, council:

- Approved taking $4408 from the general fund for payment on the Sandbridge purchase.
- Voted to pay $5,000 for a study into the possibilities and problems of supplying city water to Princess Anne and Sandbridge.
- Gave final approval of the sale of $1.9 million worth of the 1965-B series of school bonds.
- Approved of the sale of the City Code for $30 per set. (Previously the Codes of Virginia Beach were free of charge.

Reply Is Forthcoming

L. F. Patrick, Manager of the Virginia Beach office of the C & P Telephone Company, presented the problem to the home office in Richmond, along with his thoughts. And, in a few days the company was ready to come up with an answer. The answer is not, at best, a favorable reply to Hatchett's suggestions, but it does clearly spell out the problem.

In Patrick's answer to Hatchett, Patrick points out that the present telephone directory is based on an exhaustive market survey prepared two years ago, which he says proved the great majority of Virginia Beach subscribers favored the present version of the book. He adds that he does not believe a sectionalized phone book would be in the best interests of all the customers, since four sections would have to be scanned when looking for a number and would present the same problem for "information" operators.

From the Company's standpoint, Patrick goes on to say, the sectionalization cost would be proportionate.

Police Seek Hit And Run Driver In Boy's Death

ARAGONA VILLAGE — A 14-year old newspaper carrier boy became Virginia Beach's first traffic fatality of 1966 early Tuesday morning. According to Virginia Beach Police records, Charles Preston Paramore, of 4808 Sullivan Boulevard, was struck and killed about 5:30 A. M., while delivering newspapers.

Investigation showed that he was riding a bicycle, and was apparently crossing Sullivan Boulevard near Holiday Road, when he was struck by an unknown vehicle. The boy was dragged nearly seventy feet after the impact. According to police officials, there were no witnesses to the accident, and it is not known whether speed of the automobile was a factor. The speed limit in that area is 25 m.p.h.

Police do not know how long the boy lay in the street before another motorist came along, found him and notified police, but they feel it was only a few minutes. Paramore died at the scene of the accident shortly after he was found. Preliminary cause of death is listed as massive internal injuries.

Charges of hit and run and manslaughter are pending. Police say the car which struck the boy was either light blue or light green, and would probably be damaged on the right front. Anyone having any information concerning the car or its driver is asked to notify Virginia police immediately.

Norfolk Newspapers, Inc., has offered a reward of $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the responsible person or persons.

Council Denies Trailer Park Applications

VIRGINIA BEACH — City Council faced a full docket Monday afternoon when it held its meeting in the Circuit Court House at Princess Anne Court House.

The biggest argument of the afternoon evolved when Ferrell Farms, Inc. requested a zoning change and use permit for a trailer park with sewage lagoon on a 92-acre tract of land in Kempsville.

Several residents of the area protested the plan as they had previously done on numerous occasions since the request first came up in April 1963.

David J. Morris told council residents of the area surrounding the site have been to the Planning Commission five times and to the City Council three times to oppose the application over the past three years. He commented that they were still opposed and wanted a decision when Robert Searcy, President of Ferrell Farms asked to withdraw the application for about nine months.

Councilman Albert Bonney, who asked council to deny the request, said his partnership in the County View Trailer Park did not influence his decision to do so.

The Planning Commission also recommended denial of the application and said the large's best use would be for construction of single-family and duplex residences.

F&M Plans To Merge With Chesapeake Bank

RICHMOND — First & Merchants National Bank and the Bank of Chesapeake have announced merger plans. The proposal was disclosed last yesterday by Robert T. Marsh, Jr., chairman, and J. Phillips Coleman, president of First & Merchants along with Judge Major M. Hillard, chairman, and Otto N. Ballance, president of the Bank of Chesapeake.

The boards of directors of both banks have approved the action. The consolidation of the two banks is subject to approval by the stockholders of both banks and by regulatory authorities.

The announcement came at most simultaneously with news of First & Merchants record-setting revenues, earnings, deposits and assets for the year 1965. Last week the Richmond-based bank reported 1965 operating revenues of $25,837,000 up 14.3 percent over last year and net earnings of $4,468,000, 12.4 percent above the 1964 figures.

As of January 1, 1966 combined deposits for the two banks would be $337,000,000 and combined assets would be $592,000,000. Of the totals, the Bank of Chesapeake shows $13,500,000 in deposits and $14,600,000 in total assets. The combined banks would reflect total capital funds of $42,874,400.

The Bank of Chesapeake has four offices; three in the city of Chesapeake and one in Portsmouth. First & Merchants has fifty-two offices in seventeen Virginia cities and communities.

The merger proposal would give the Bank of Chesapeake stockholders one-and-one-quarter (1 1/4) shares of First & Merchants stock for each share held. The board of directors would become the Chesapeake Board of First & Merchants and one of that board would be named an honorary director of First & Merchants. Officers and employees of the Bank of Chesapeake would be retained as members of the combined staff of First & Merchants, and Ballance would be senior vice president of the bank in charge of the Chesapeake area.

In commenting on the proposed merger, Hillard said "it is the affiliation would further the

23 Are Appointed By Council

VIRGINIA BEACH — City Council appointed 23 Virginia Beach residents to boards and commissions Monday at its regular meeting.

The City Planning Commission and the Virginia Beach School Board both had two members appointed to their ranks.

Spencer Lott, a 35-year-old business executive living in Birdneck Point, and Ralph Lee Frost, a 41-year-old farmer from Blackwater, were appointed to the School Board for the first time. Lott will replace Charles J. Owens who moved to Norfolk, and Frost will replace L. E. Gilbert.

Those reappointed to the school board are: George R. Ferrell of Kempsville; Kenneth L. Jarr of Virginia Beach Borough; J. W. Buffington of Princess Anne Court House; George Lyon of Bayside; and Frank Williams of Pungo.

This now gives the city seven members on the School Board, as required by the City Charter. The Charter stipulated the change from 11 to seven members and that seven to be appointed on a staggered-term basis.

Newly appointed to the Planning Commission are Charles W. Beard Jr., a 46-year-old hardware store operator and J. Curtis Payne, a 37-year-old insurance man from Princess Anne Courthouse. Beard is replacing Dorice W. Gregory

Her Honor — The Judge

VIRGINIA BEACH — Circuit Court Judge Robert S. Wahab has appointed Miss Mary R. Speight, 33, as a substitute judge of both Municipal Court and Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court. The appointment was made Tuesday morning.

Miss Speight is the first woman to hold a judicial position in Virginia Beach and may be the first woman judge in the Tidewater area.

Judge Wahab made the appointment as he was shifting assignments to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Judge Robert B. Cromwell, Jr.

Miss Speight, who was born in Richmond, has been practicing law in Norfolk since 1963. At that time she moved to Virginia Beach and is presently living in the 200 block of 68th Street.

She received her law degree from William and Mary in 1962. In other judicial appointments, Judge Wahab appointed Associate Judge Phillip Russo to fill Cromwell's unexpired term in the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court, and George Valon was appointed associate judge for both city courts.

Henry Leslie Lam, a Virginia Beach attorney commented prior to Caton's resignation, that "Ned Caton has been an outstanding member of council."

Owen's appointment to council came as somewhat of a surprise. Roger L. (Buddy) Riggs had been mentioned as a possible successor to Caton. Petitions were circulated last year shortly after Caton's election to the House of Delegates nominating Riggs for Caton's unexpired term. It seems that Owens was one of the prime supporters of Riggs.

What A Tangled Web . . .

By H. JOSEPH LOWENTHAL, JR.

VIRGINIA BEACH — In the hands of Virginia Beach Police traffic officers, radar is a powerful weapon and does not respect the old adage . . . "Rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief . . ." It was used Monday in Virginia Beach Borough on Pacific Avenue, and apprehended a woman who was almost charged as being a thief.

But the story does not begin last Monday. It begins in mid-December when a woman bought a 1964 convertible from a Virginia Beach automobile dealer. For payment of the car, she gave a check made out to Bonita Rustchak. The check, drawn on a well-known insurance company, was for $2,068.66, but the car did not cost that much, and the dealer gave the woman a company check for the difference of about $600. That should have been the end of it, but it wasn't.

The check came back to the automobile dealer several days later, as being no good. Investigation showed that the dealer's company check was cashed immediately at a bank on First Colonial Road, not in the bank on which the check was drawn. By that time the woman had become a tag, a registration certificate, and a clear title to the car, and was not to be found.

The ownership papers, made out to Bonita Rustchak, had been sent to a Portsmouth hospital, where

LET'S TALK FASHION

By ALICE BREWER WHITE

NEW YORK — This past week we've been viewing the exciting New York Couture Group's forty-sixth Fashion Press Week's showings of the new Spring 1966 fashions at the Hotel Astor. Kittle Campbell, director, has already presented some forty different fashion showings and events since last Sunday, with ten more to go today! Who ever said these Press Weeks were easy what with attending, filing stories and taping interviews for our WKVW program and keeping up with the extra pleasurable events? Kittle is a sly little blonde who keeps things moving in a Big-Pro manner!

ON THE RUNWAY
Some of our favorites this week have been: the jacket and dress designed by Marie McCarthy for the Larry Aldrich Collection. It's a long, lean, to-the-hip, back-belted pea jacket in white double-faced Angio twill, double-buttoned over a sleeveless navy wool crepe dress, with a swirl of pleats to its long torso skirt. . . . Terrific! David suit, "as English as Shepherds' pie," according to Kittle Campbell.

Brancell uses Staron's "Etanmon" in navy for this three-part suit for Spring '66. The curved neckline of the sleeveless white overblouse is repeated in the jacket above the easy skirt. The newest in pap-hats is of bright flower-figured silk.

the suit is in black and white. Shepherds-check with a cut-away jacket with curving flap pockets over a trim, box pleated short skirt. A real Springy look about it and definitely a so-right Davidow suit! . . . Monte-Sano & Pruzan, the very tops in tailoring, presented a stunning group of fashions and we especially liked a tailored blue and white checked twill coat with a stand-up notched collar and simply enormous patch pockets which was shown with a navy sheer wool crepe dress with a low waist and a smart front-paneled skirt. A very dapper outfit for Spring and such elegant tailoring! . . . You'd know that Junior Sophistates would turn out a cutie somewhere in its new Collection. Sure enough, it was a shifty little pink chiffon cage with long full sleeves and glittery bands racing round the hem and cuffs. And short? Naturally, just above the knee but for the very young-of-heart to wear! . . . We saw several ribbon lace creations but Sam Friedlander's got your Alisbee's vote for the best. A beautiful deep-throated black ribbon lace dinner dress, gently shaped, tied at the high Empire midriff, with a huge satin bow of white ribbon! . . . Such beautiful hats, on the models! We'll tell you about them next week.

An icy cool blue silk skirt, long and floor-sweeping, paired with deep cobalt blue lace, re-emphasized for emphasis, in a hip-length overblouse, very dignified and delectable! One of Nat Kaplan's beauties. The long earrings and high collar add to the formal dignity of the costume.

DESIGNER QUOTES

Adele Simpson: "It's absolutely dowdy to wear long skirts and low heels! Low-heels should be worn with walking skirts, above the knee to prettify the knee!" . . . John Weltz: "Even four-year-old youngsters who wear my children's raincoats want a waistline belt effect. Showing the feminine instinct at that age!" . . . Oscar de la Renta designing for Virginia's late Jane Derby: "The most important evening dresses are strapless!" . . . Harry Freshet: "Tattersal check will be important with many designers this Spring!" . . . Jerry Silverman: "We love the Western holstered look so with our low sash we've finished it off with a slantwise bow, a la holster like!" . . . Geoffrey Beene: "Evening and dinner gowns in gingham, matterless ticking and damasks show lavish beading, masterful cut and showing emphatic prints make for dazzling and contradicting fashion!" . . . Donald Brooks: "Color combinations are new and wonderful. Mango yellow with chartreuse and purple, hot pink with purple and lime green. Frosted chiffons, pearlized paillettes in short evening gowns, pajamas for home parties and long dresses in tones of pale yellow, mauve, pink, lime, apricot, and opaline give out the glit-est look. It's great!" . . . Hal-

A Million For Tourism

We are absolutely delighted that a State study commission has seen fit to recommend a million dollar annual accelerated effort to promote additional tourism in Virginia. It may be just the spark that is needed to put the name of Virginia Beach even more before the national public. We are also delighted that the powers-that-be have fully recognized the importance of the tourist industry to Virginia, and that the promotion of that industry will be accelerated if the General Assembly concurs.

The 19-page report of the commission spelled out for Governor Harrison just what should be done. The program is ambitious and important, and we hope that the General Assembly sees fit to enact legislation that will help the tourist industry. After all, Virginia Beach for years has been trying to become a major nationwide resort city. Most of its efforts have been accomplished on its own. We hope the state will now help.

Two of the Commissioners who prepared the report took exception to one major part of the report and issued their own minority report as a supplement to the other one. The two, Sidney Kellam of Virginia Beach and Del. J. Warren White, Jr., of Norfolk, felt that the section in the tourism report that was not strong enough dealt with liquor-by-the-drink.

The Commission report skirted the liquor and tourist issue quite well, using enough mumbo-jumbo to confound even the experts. The report said, in essence, that without exception representatives of tourist-connected businesses brought it to the attention of the commissioners that local option liquor by the drink would help provide better tourist facilities and perhaps prolong a tourist's stay in Virginia. The Commissioners stated, however, that they did not feel that the implications and ramifications of that subject could be included in that report, except in passing. In other words, they said they could not make a recommendation on the liquor by the drink questions.

Kellam and White were not satisfied with the dismissal of the subject in that manner, and let it be known, by saying in the supplemental report that "the sale of alcoholic beverages in less than bottle quantities is definitely related to the tourist industry." They also endorsed a local option liquor by the drink bill.

We say, "Three cheers for Kellam and White." We endorse the local option bill and suggest strongly that our legislators take a long look at the matter and pass it for the good of the tourist industry in Virginia, and for the good of progress in the state.

The time has finally come for our legislators and the general public to stand up and be counted in the local option matter. We hope it is this year. The question of local option has never been discussed. It has been pushed under the rug by factions fighting liquor in any way. What those "dry" factions fail to recognize is that liquor is already with us, and that the laws need modification and modernizing.

The unholy alliance against liquor by the drink is a real enigma. Those opposing it include not only the "dry" factions and religious groups but also the elusive bootleggers who would lose a lot of business.

We want to see all efforts to promote tourism in Virginia and Virginia Beach exploited, and we feel that liquor by the drink is one of those efforts. We endorse the Commission's tourism report, and we endorse a local option bill. All we really want to see is Virginia Beach taking its rightful place in the list of tourist capitals of the world.

It Almost Happened

A small news item which went unnoticed in many quarters caused us quite a bit of concern during the week. We have been urging the quick completion of the second span over Lynnhaven Inlet on the Shore Drive. Approval of such a bridge was a long time in coming, but it finally came, and we were quite happy. Advertisement for bids went out, and we breathed a heavy sigh of relief. We figured the end was now in sight, and that the long awaited bridge and the removal of a major traffic bottleneck was finally in the works.

Then came the steel price controversy. Through Federal directive the bids were called back in. We knew this, but did not even consider it would affect our dearly-needed bridge. It did. Before anyone really realized that our bridge was once again in jeopardy, the order from Washington was rescinded, and the bids are out again. So the Department of Highways can now go ahead once more.

If we had known the steel price hike mess in Washington had affected our bridge, we would probably have been up in arms. But we didn't know it until it was over.

Please, no more close calls like that. Let's get that bridge built.

CHECK -- AND DOUBLE CHECK !

The Week Of Change

A new Virginia General Assembly has taken on mammoth problems in Richmond this week. The outgoing Governor has made his recommendations. The new Governor takes over on Saturday, and will no doubt have a few recommendations of his own.

Our Virginia Beach representatives are in Richmond fighting for our rights. Virginia Beach has a Senator there now, as well as two Delegates, giving us an additional voice in the governing of the State.

We look forward to this session of the General Assembly with great anticipation and hope it is a productive one as far as Virginia Beach is concerned. We have already made it clear that we feel cities and towns should get more attention; that we endorse such programs as increased aid to education, liquor by the drink, a statewide sales tax under proper conditions, and increased aid to tourism; that we feel Virginia Beach Charter changes should be affected immediately; and that we fully support Governor Godwin's "program for progress." We would like to see all of the programs we support passed into law, and we will continue to argue for them. But we need a little help.

It is up to all the citizens of Virginia Beach to keep a sharp eye on the happenings in Richmond, and to let our elected representatives know how we feel about any and all of the issues. A letter or a telephone call to any of our representatives will suffice, and we hope they get lots of both. In that way, they can present to the General Assembly the true picture of what Virginia Beach residents really want.

Since last week, the VALC has recommended a three per cent state sales

From New York To Florida

Good news from the Ocean Highway Association is certainly welcome in Virginia Beach. And that good news was forthcoming recently. Business and resort areas along the Ocean highway, which stretches from New York to Jacksonville, Florida reported almost unanimously that 1965 was a record year and predicted that 1966 will be even better. We hope that prediction holds true, since the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel on the Ocean Highway funnels tourist traffic into Virginia Beach.

We like to hear news like that, because we like to see as many people as possible come to Virginia Beach. By way of the Ocean Highway, of course, and we like them to stay awhile. Our hat is off to the Ocean Highway Association for the fine promotion job it is doing in spreading the good word about the route which brings the travelers to Virginia Beach. Keep up the good work.

tax, but is not agreed on the distribution of the funds from it. One report shows that under present conditions, the recommended allocations would give Virginia Beach a much larger share of State funds. On the surface, that looks fine, but we wonder how this will work out in the future. The amount could be cut considerably, the way we see it. We recommend more study before anything is done.

We have been ready for this session of the General Assembly for a long time, because we feel so many things need to be done. Although we want to see the best interests of the State served, we definitely will be especially for the programs that will benefit Virginia Beach.

1965 Was A Banner Year

It is somewhat hard to believe that $63.5 million in construction values was written in Virginia Beach last year, setting a new record and even topping the values of a four-state area. Ten years ago, it all really began. At that time more than 35 hundred building permits were issued in a single year. Last year, there were 64 more permits issued than in 1955. According to the rules of the game, this should not be. The construction fever should have cooled off, but thankfully it has not, and is even growing larger all the time.

Taking a larger look at the construction last year in Virginia Beach, we note that residential construction was down, but that commercial construction was almost double that of 1964. To us, this is wonderful. It shows that Virginia Beach is really coming of age and that more and more commercial needs are being met, now that the homes are already here. Additions and alterations to existing commercial structures were also up in 1965, showing that the needs of our citizens are greater than ever before, that business is good, and the demands are definitely being met by businessmen certain of the economical climate here.

Construction figures show an air of permanence. New schools and churches, as well as garages and utility sheds showed a great increase. Looks like our citizens are planning to stay awhile and raise their families here in comfort. Incidentally, it should also be pointed out that Federal construction, of which there was quite a bit in 1965, is not included in the total construction figures.

The way we see it, Virginia Beach is maturing quickly. We look forward to even more construction in 1966, and we are proud of the fact that we have the advantages to offer. We think we have a fine city here and one that is growing all the time. And by golly, we're proud of the new construction record.

THE VIRGINIA BEACH OPEN FORUM

Our Virginia State Department of Education has decided to do something about one of the most common educational defects in the training program. "Teacher misplacement" has long been known as one of the weak links in our training program.

For too long a time, our foundation grades in our schools have represented a "catch-all area," getting many teachers who have failed to make good in other areas for which they were trained. The students in these beginning grades have suffered much due to this misplacement practice. It is vitally important that our beginning students get a good start and develop an educational momentum. Only the specially trained, well screened, foundation-grade teachers are capable of starting these young students with any assurance of success.

In our secondary schools we find our exceptional student groups handicapped too. The personnel department, in too many instances, is pressured into hiring athletic coaches and calling them academic teachers. There is a wide gap between the well-trained coach and the highly professionally trained academic teacher.

Now that our State Department has decided to remedy this weakness, the citizenry of our state should encourage these leaders to carry on to a finish.

The public will get from our schools only what they demand and are willing to pay for.

Lakeside Residents May Get Control Of Land Strip

VIRGINIA BEACH — Residents whose property front Lake Joyce and Lake Bradford may be afforded control of a 20-foot strip of land around the lakes in the event Norfolk should sell it.

City Manager W. Russell Hatchett said last week he will recommend City Council draw up such an ordinance if the city acquires the lakes from Norfolk.

Hatchett said the city's chief aim is to protect the interests of the people who live around the lakes.

He said he had talked with Bay-side councilman Larry Marshall and said Marshall is in favor of such an ordinance. Hatchett said the council should immediately adopt the measure.

According to Hatchett, the city of Norfolk has been offered $2000 by Virginia Beach for the lakes, but no negotiations over the lakes is presently under way.

The lakes were originally used by Norfolk as a surplus water supply, but the city has not used them since the 1940's. A large portion of Lake Bradford lies within the boundaries of the Naval Amphibious Base at Little Creek, but the rest of the shoreline is bordered by private homes. Lake Joyce is completely surrounded by private homes.

At first the area residents of both lakes attempted to bargain with Norfolk for the land, but then Virginia Beach entered the stalled negotiations.

Hatchett, last fall, sent a letter to city officials in Norfolk asking them to help in the matter.

Lake Joyce, located east of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel access road, covers approximately 75 acres, and Lake Bradford, located on the west side of the Bridge-Tunnel access road covers a little more than 100 acres.

Last summer, Lake Bradford was closed to all use because of a water pollution problem. The lake was recently opened to use by residents of the area.

Two Women Die In Beach Blaze

VIRGINIA BEACH — A woman, who lived alone in a small house in the 300 block of 28th Street, died early Saturday morning when fire swept her home.

Firemen entered the building and found the woman's body lying on a couch in the living room. She was tentatively identified by police as Mrs. Elizabeth Altman, about 45, a waitress at The Americana Motor Lodge. Police said the woman lived alone.

Fire officials list the probable cause of the fire as a faulty oil circulating space heater in the living room or an electrical short circuit.

A friend of the woman said Mrs. Altman had been complaining of a faulty heater. It is believed the woman was sleeping on the couch to be nearer the heat and died of suffocation while she slept.

The fire was first reported about 6:30 a.m., and when firemen arrived the house was in flames. The woman's body was found after firemen had extinguished the blaze.

Fire Inspector Milton Holland said the one-story wood and masonry dwelling was located behind an old brick apartment building located near Pacific Avenue.

According to Constantine Marty the woman had worked for him for the past three years at the Country Club Motel on Military highway and recently at his restaurant at The Americana.

Marty said Mrs. Altman lived in Portsmouth until the death of her husband last summer. He said the couple had six children.

The body was taken to Maestas Funeral Home, pending funeral arrangements.

A second woman burned to death Wednesday morning when fire broke out in a house in the 1800 block of Darnell Road in the Diamond Springs section.

Fire units from Chesapeake Beach and Davis Corner answered the call. Davis Corner Volunteer Fire Department also sent two ambulances to the scene.

Police have not yet identified the victim, pending notification of next of kin.

Beach Dentist President Of Association

PORTSMOUTH — Dr. L. O. Clark, Jr., of Virginia Beach was elected President-Elect at the annual meeting of the Virginia Tidewater Dental Association, held on Friday, January 7, at the Suburban Country Club, Portsmouth.

Other officers who will serve in 1966 are: Dr. Herbert H. Bonnie, President; Dr. L. Oden, Secretary; and Dr. Arthur Siegel, Treasurer.

Dr. Eugene H. Eskay of Norfolk presided at the meeting and announced the formation of the Tidewater Dental Association Foundation, a non-profit corporation with the purpose of assisting and contributing to worthwhile scientific and educational projects related to the profession of dentistry. The corporation begins with approximately $30,000.00. It is believed to be the first such corporation established in the country.

Approximately 130 dentists attended the meeting.

Beach Man Sentenced

NORFOLK — David Leroy Pallett, 36, of the 300 block of Minute man Road, Virginia Beach, has been sentenced to 25 years in prison for a series of ice cream store robberies.

Pallett was sentenced to five years each of five robbery convictions Tuesday morning in Norfolk Superior Court.

One of the five-year sentences will run concurrently with one of the other four, giving him 20 years to serve.

Pallett previously received eight years in prison from Portsmouth courts for an ice cream store robbery charge and six charges of forgery and uttering there, and still faces sentencing on two ice cream store robbery convictions in Virginia Beach.

Pallett said he committed the offenses to obtain money for his wife and eight children.

the woman had said she was a nurse. More investigation showed she did not work there, but had picked up the papers there, after calling and asking that any mail for her be held until she picked it up. She allegedly explained that some mail would be forthcoming through an error.

So until last Monday, an unidentified woman was driving a 1964 automobile to which she had all the ownership papers. Then radar entered the picture. With a companion, the woman drove too fast through radar and was arrested.

Police had been alerted to be on the lookout for the car. Upon investigation, it was found it was the same car, with a registration made out to Bonita Rustchak.

The woman, later identified as Betty Liedel, 28, was taken to police headquarters. The keys, title and registration were taken away from her, and booking procedures began. According to Virginia Beach police, the woman was also wanted for questioning in another matter.

She reportedly asked to go to a rest room, and was escorted there by a secretary in the Detective Bureau office. When she was brought back, she was left alone for a time just long enough for her to disappear from the office. She is still at large.

According to Virginia Beach police, she is now wanted on charges of obtaining property fraudulently, and on several counts of forgery, as well as for walking out of the police station.

Police also say Bonita Rustchak is reported to be a neighbor of Mrs. Liedel, whose address is listed as 960 Old Dam Neck Road, but it is still not clear how the original check came into the possession of Mrs. Liedel.

The automobile dealer has his car back. The money situation is partly taken care of, and radar has struck again. But Betty Liedel is still missing.

hibitive, about $200 thousand, and that it would involve work orders to change 225,000 listings. This, says Patrick, would necessitate a line by line resetting of the directory by the printer, a job which could take some years. Another argument presented by Patrick stated that sectionalized listings would require businesses to advertise in more than one section.

Alternate Solution

Patrick then proposed an alternate solution which can be affected in the next edition of the book. The proposal would improve the design of and enlarge the map on page 3 of the present book. Patrick says the information concerning exchanges by city in this map are "90% accurate, and should prove helpful to the general public in deciding which city the listing is actually in. In addition a reference to the improved map would be made on each page, along with the information it would contain. Patrick implied that these changes will definitely be incorporated in the 1966 edition, and that the new features would be called to the attention of telephone customers in news releases, accompanying release of the book.

The reply to Hatchett also included assurance by the telephone company of the best service possible, consistent with sound economic and expense problems relating to directory publication.

City Manager Hatchett, in talking with the Virginia Beach Sun, indicated that the new map identification will help satisfy needs for improved city identification, but maintained the position that he thought the directory should eventually be sectionalized by individual cities.

Thus the saga of the telephone directory is ended, at least for a while. The new directory will have an improved identification map, but the final chapter in the telephone book may not be written for some time.

MEET THE CANDIDATE

By JACK MOORE

Mayor Frank Dusch — A Profile

Mayor Frank Dusch

Frank A. Dusch began his service to the citizens of Virginia Beach in 1952 when he was elected to City Council. His election led to a 14-year career as a public servant.

Dusch served on City Council from 1952 to 1963 and was elected Mayor in 1964. He has served as mayor of Virginia Beach since then.

He is one of the four organizational candidates which will run "at-large" in the Democratic primary April 5, and in the general council elections in June. Commenting on the planned reappointment of City Council, Dusch said, "It was a bit too heavy with five councilmen from Virginia Beach Borough, but we (the Virginia Beach Borough Councilmen) never exercised that in any way. I feel that with the re-districting the four larger boroughs should have two men and the lesser have one each." He said, "It is the best plan for equal representation."

Dusch said he had no definite campaign plans as of yet, but he does plan to "meet with people in each borough" to gain support.

In looking toward the future, Dusch said he would like to see distributing and small manufacturing plants come into the area.

He said the city also has a lot of room for more motels and hotels. Dusch said the Virginia Beach Toll Road, now under construction will have a marked effect on local citizenry and in the future may tend to bring more tourism into the area.

He said the area around Sandbridge is growing so rapidly that in the future it might become a borough all its itself.

Dusch served 17 years in the Navy, active and in the reserves, and is a member of the Hampton Roads Retired Officers Association.

Va. Beach Sales Tax Table

PRINCESS ANNE — This quick reference table has been furnished for the convenience of taxpayers in Virginia Beach by the Commissioner of Revenue's office. It shows what an average taxpayer has paid since June 1, 1965, in Virginia Beach Sales tax, depending upon income and size of family. It may be used as a guide in completing Federal and State Income tax forms. The computed amount in the table can be claimed in the "taxes" portion of the forms.

and Payne is replacing B. A. Manning.

City Council, reappointed J. W. Wood Sr., Peter B. Holland Jr., and Roy Alphin to the commission for four-year terms.

Council also appointed: Edmund Morgan, James Kilchin and L. Stanley Holland to the Civic Center Committee; N. G. Wilson III to the steering committee of South-eastern Tidewater Opportunity Project (STOP); and Mrs. Louise E. Allen, Mrs. Robert B. Tynes, Herman O. Freeman, C. W. Cashman Jr., James G. Kontopoulos, H. Bates Reese and C. O. Freeman again to the City Welfare Board.

Council did not say how long the terms would be for each appointee. This matter will come up at a later date, but the terms will range from one to three years.

In 1879 the St. James Hotel stood on the site of what is now the Main Street Seaboard Citizens Bank.

... Then H. D. Oliver had been established for 14 years ...

The St. James was one of the city's finest hotels for many years. It stood on Main Street, in the heart of the business and commercial center of Norfolk. H. D. Oliver was already a well-established name in the community, providing the finest in burial and funeral services.

Today, the St. James is but a memory, and Main Street has given way to other sections as the center of business activities. H. D. Oliver has continued to grow, though, and is still considered the finest in its field. Two fine homes, one in Virginia Beach, and an experienced staff enable them to serve with complete assurance of providing the best. Call on H. D. Oliver to serve your needs.

seeing a car leave the driveway at the same time, but no one got its license number.

Whitehurst told police he had seen the man who held the gun on him somewhere before the robbery, but could not recall when or where.

Police said the FBI in Norfolk is in close liaison with them and agents are prepared to enter the case if it appears there is an interstate or federal violation involved.

Police speculate the two men were from out-of-state, possibly out-of-state and might have had a contact man in the city who knew about the safe. They also said that only Whitehurst and his son knew there was that much money in the safe.

The Whitehurst's 40-acre farm is located on Charity Neck Road just off Muddy Creek Road, about two miles southeast of Pungo.

You'll be amazed how much prettier your home can be by adding color to the floors. We suggest EXCELON® Tile. Because it is made of vinyl plastic, and asbestos, the colors are clearer, brighter, and long lasting. It is available in straight grain, speckle, and Doy signor styles.

Toll Road

travel between the two cities without the problems of signal lights, traffic snarls and rush-hour traffic, but will be faced with intermittent toll booths along the way.

Highway and city officials had the foresight to provide for six lanes of roadway should the traffic warrant such an expansion. As it now stands the toll road will have four lanes with a grass median strip.

Feeder roads along the construction just east of London Bridge have been closed to traffic because of roadwork machinery and the 11-year-old landmark, the Laskin Road overpass will soon be no more. The interchange at the intersection of Laskin Road and Virginia Beach has been a thorn in the side of the driving populace since its beginning.

Blood Needed

VIRGINIA BEACH — An appeal has gone out for all types of blood to be donated to the American Red Cross Bloodmobile. Blood supplies are very low due to the holiday season. Much was lost on the highways and other accidents while prospective donors have been just too busy with other tasks over the holidays.

The blood bank must have more deposits as it is becoming overdrawn. The Bloodmobile will be set up at the General Hospital of Virginia Beach in the Cafeteria on Friday, January 14, from noon till 6 p.m.

Canine Country Club sounds ritz... and it is. Pets boarded at the kennel's on Little Neck road in Lynnhaven borough get high class individual attention overflowing with genuine love.

Cowned and operated by Capt. and Mrs. A. L. Nicholson since 1955, the boarding kennel for dogs is set back from the road amid tall trees down a short winding lane, and overseeing the dog's welfare is Astrid Welsh who has been the manager for 9 years. She is ably assisted by John Lamb and Charlie Miller.

Mrs. Walsh loves every dog that comes under her care and the animals are instinctively drawn to her. "Dogs are people!", she maintains. "Each one is a special individual."

But Canine Country Club is not snobbish. Those of uncertain parentage are given the same attention as one's with a long list of pedigrees. Each dog has its own bed, blankets and toys... and is fed according to the owner's prescribed menu, no matter how strange. If he gets a donut for breakfast at home, he gets a donut for breakfast at the kennel; if he prefers perked coffee to instant, he gets it perked!

Their personal vet is named on the chart clipped to the cage as well as its name, the owner's name, and the menu and other pertinent facts to insure the dog's feeling "at home." And Astrid Welsh caters to their every need for affection. She talks to them, she cuddles them, she listens to them.

At the kennels are 60 oversized cages with outside runs. Everything is clean... including the dogs themselves. They are given a bath in a waist high bathtub size sink and are dried in a special room which features a machine from which flows, very gently, warm air—much like a hairdryer. They are bathed as often as necessary and always before being returned to the owner.

Dogs are boarded by the day or the week or longer and at a very reasonable fee. Some have stayed as long as three years, and a few are waiting-out their last days in comfort.

The military make up a large percentage of Canine Country Club's clientele, and Astrid often finds herself meeting planes at wee hours of the morning for a dog which has been shipped to her... or air-freighting one to its owner across the country or across the ocean.

Among the more prominent pets which have enjoyed vacations at Canine Country Club are both of former Virginia Beach astronaut's dogs—Shepard's and Love's. Mayor Dusch often boards his where he knows it will be contented and we'll taken care of and loved.

And pictured below is "Judy," the Doberman Pinscher belonging to Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Dickson, Jr., of North Atlantic. "This is a much maligned breed," declared Mrs. Walsh. "The Doberman is one of the most affectionate dogs there are. Police do not use them in their work because of their gentle peace-loving nature."

VIRGINIA BEACH—Postmaster J. T. Crosswhite, Jr., announced two promotions this week to fill vacancies in his postal supervisory staff created by recent retirement of the Assistant Postmaster and Superintendent of Mails.

Leonard Hope Ansell moved to the position of Assistant Postmaster; he formerly served as Accounting Assistant. Ansell was first employed in the local post office as a substitute clerk in 1934. He has served in all phases of the local postal operation in either a clerical or supervisory capacity.

Mr. Leonard Miller, Assistant Superintendent of Mails since 1955, was elevated to the position of Superintendent of Mails. His postal service began in 1942 and has progressed through operational areas dealing mainly with processing and delivery of mail. He served a tour of duty as a member of a regional survey team engaged in the improvement of mail service in post offices throughout the Washington postal region.

Postmaster Crosswhite stated that both men are well known for postal ability and dedication in Washington Regional headquarters. He expressed his belief that Virginia Beach postal service would continue to grow and improve through the joint efforts of the newly appointed officials.

Bayside Lions Hear Farrell

BAYSIDE — The Bayside Lions Club met recently at Shore Drive Inn with the president, E. Howard Pauley, presiding.

Guest speaker for the meeting was Rev. Earl Farrell, club member and Lions Information Chairman. In observance of "Founder's Month," he spoke on "The Spirit of Lionism." Lions International was founded in 1917 in Chicago by Melvin Jones and a small group of public spirited men who saw the need for an organization that could serve the unfortunate citizens throughout the area.

From this small beginning, the movement has grown by leaps and bounds until there are now over 750,000 members of Lions International spread over the Free World.

Farrell referred to the Lions Magazine and the many fine articles to be found in it. Each monthly edition features an account of many activities of the Lions Clubs throughout the United States and many other countries. Farrell reminded the club members of the many ways in which Bayside Lions have contributed to the welfare of our area and will continue to help spread the spirit of Lionism by working together on club projects and by carrying out the various committee assignments.

Lion Bates Reese reported on the club's annual Christmas project — the Bayside Joy Fund. This Christmas about 100 needy families were given food, clothes and toys. The Navy Personnel at Little Creek gave a large part of the money needed to purchase the food and clothing. The Firemen at Little Creek Amphibious Base repaired and painted the toys. Various church groups, especially Old Donation Church, Civic Groups and individuals made cash contributions.

Reese commended "Kelly" Davis, Chief of the Little Creek Fire Department and an active member of the Bayside Lions Club for his fine work. In fact, Reese said, "without Davis there would be no Joy Fund."

Each year Davis starts about September 1st gathering the toys that are repaired by the firemen. He also collects large sums of money from men attached to the ships at Little Creek. On behalf of the Bayside Lions Club, Reese thanked all those who helped make the Joy Fund a success.

"Mac" Wilkins, Sight Conservation Chairman, spoke briefly about the "Eye Bank" and asked all those who had not done so, to fill out pledge cards. Anyone wishing to pledge their eyes to the Eye Bank may secure a pledge card from D. J. "Mac" Wilkins, or any other member of the Bayside Lions Club.

P. A. Jaycees
Favor Increase

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Princess Anne Jaycees adopted at their business meeting a project to support a proposed increase in the number of Virginia State Policemen. This project was originated by the Charlottesville-Albemarle Jaycees, and due to its apparent great need, has spread to most of the Jaycee Chapters in the State.

After a careful study, it is felt that this is one of the most effective means to decrease the rising death toll and property damage on Virginia's highways. The objective is to increase the force by 500 men.

The National Safety Council has recommended to the State Legislature an increase of 500 men for Virginia; at this time an increase of only 200 men is planned.

According to information compiled by the Jaycees, the Virginia State Police Department returns to the State in fines and confiscated materials, 90 percent of what it takes to run their organization. The cost per man is approximately $11,000 for the first year on the force, and $8,000 for each year of service thereafter. The State Policeman is our greatest single deterrent for speeding, which is involved in 37 percent of all fatal accidents.

The Jaycees hope to bring this information to the attention of the public, and to solicit their help in the form of letters to their representatives in the General Assembly. This matter should be acted upon when the General Assembly convenes in January. In the City of Virginia Beach, your elected representatives are: Delegates P. B. White and Edward T. Caton, III, and State Senator William P. Kelham.

MAYOR PROCLAIMS JAYCEE WEEK — Mayor Frank A. Dusch has proclaimed January 16 through 22 as Jaycee Week in recognition of the service to the community by the Bayside/Princess Anne and Virginia Beach Jaycees. Princess Anne Jaycees president J. T. Buck, Jr., receives the newly signed proclamation from Mayor Dusch. The P. A. Jaycees plan to start the week off by attending Calvary Temple Church in Kempville as the chapter. During the week, the P. A. Jaycees will hold a business meeting at the White Heron Monday night, and hold their annual Distinguished Citizens Award banquet at Dow Creek with State Senator William P. Kelham as guest speaker. (For reservations call Vic Simile at 490-7718 or Jim Lassiter at 497-3153.) Also during the week, Princess Anne's Junior Miss Rhonda Stoddert will compete in the Junior-Miss State contest to be held January 20-22 in Roanoke. All young men between 21 and 35 are urged to visit a Jaycee chapter during Jaycee Week.

Sent Out

RICHMOND — Stockholders of First & Merchants National Bank are receiving a report of record-setting 1965 revenues, earnings, deposits and assets for the bank.

Robert T. Marsh, Jr., chairman, and J. Phillip Coleman, president of the bank, said in a message to stockholders, that gross earnings rose to $25,037,000 from $21,995,000 and net operating earnings to $4,468,000 from $3,961,000. On a per share basis earnings were $2.23, 10 percent above the $2.03 of 1964.

Also revealed were figures showing the effect of the bank's January 1 merger with the Bank of Virginia Beach. Combined deposits on January 1, 1965 were $32,255,570 and total assets were $77,270,137. On January 3, 1965 after the first day of business for the combined banks, total assets were $308,643,000 marking another all-time high for a Virginia bank. Just one year ago First & Merchants announced it had exceeded the half-billion dollar mark in total assets.

In the January 1 figures, $23,975,327 of deposits and $26,371,959 assets were resultant from the merger with the Bank of Virginia Beach. With the merger First & Merchants now has fifty two offices in seventeen Virginia cities and communities.

Combat Aircraft Receives
Overhaul At NAS Norfolk

NORFOLK — A war weary A-1A Intruder, hot off the combat line in Viet Nam, quietly arrives for a visit at the Norfolk Naval Air Station.

The purpose of the flak-damaged plane's visit is a complete checkup in the new A-1A Progressive Aircraft Rework (PAR) Program which was recently awarded the NAS overhaul and Repair Department. It is the first of the combat tested aircraft to be sent here for the program.

The battle damaged Intruder logged 67 sorties during 95 days of combat missions flown by pilots of Attack Squadron 75, the "Sunday Punchers," from the attack carrier USS Independence (CVA-62). More than 223 thousand pounds of bombs were dropped on enemy targets by this A-1A during the 67 sorties. The squadron's home base is Oceana Naval Air Station in Virginia Beach.

The PAR check-up will include a complete disassembly, inspection, repair, reassembly and flight test of the aircraft. The whole operation is expected to be completed in approximately 15 days, after which the plane will rejoin her sister aircraft at Oceana Naval Air Station.

The A-1A is the Navy's newest all-weather attack aircraft, designed to deliver its destructive punch on enemy targets completely obscured by weather or darkness. Its overhaul necessitated extensive training of military and civilian overhaul and Repair personnel at the Air Station.

Other aircraft presently being overhauled under the PAR program are F-4 Crusaders, F-4 Cougars, and P-2 Neptunes.

A Dream Comes True

VIRGINIA BEACH — Last week a dream of many people came true. Spirited by the fertile mind of Mrs. Gilmore Lee Tilbrook, chairman of the Beautification Committee of the hospital, and realized by the hard work of the Council of Garden Clubs of Virginia Beach, with Mrs. August Culpepper, president, the project was carried out by the donations of interested private citizens, patrons, private and civic clubs and culminated in a tree and shrub-planting ceremony on the grounds of the new hospital.

Frederick K. Huette, formerly director of Norfolk Botanical Gardens, now with Winn Nursery, and Wendall Winn, president of the nursery, combined their artistry to bring about present and future beauty wherever one might look.

Mrs. Tilbrook spoke to the spectators on behalf of her committee, stating the fact that even more landscaping is in the future, depending upon donations received. Speaking briefly, also, and expressing thanks to everybody, was Mrs. Culpepper.

Among the interested onlookers were Mrs. Levi Old; Mrs. Jan Fenzell, Earl Willis, Mrs.

Have You Winterized Yet?

VIRGINIA BEACH — Have you winterized yourself for bad weather driving? That question was asked today by Chief Reeves E. Johnson. Speaking on behalf of the Virginia Beach Safety Bureau and the current Beach Attack on Traffic Crashes campaign, Mr. Johnson said: "When driving on ice and snow, it's important to soft pedal the gas pedal. Increase the engine speed only enough to handle the load. Too much gas will spin the wheels and lose traction."

He reminded motorists who have cars with manual gear shift not to engage the clutch with a jerk. When traction is poor, smooth starts are easier in second. Cars with automatic transmissions start smoothly on ice when not over accelerated.

Once started, a driver must keep aware of the conditions of the road by trying the brakes occasionally.

Mr. Johnson urged drivers to help Virginia Beach start the new year right by backing the Attack on Traffic Crashes. The skillful driver, he advised, does not change speeds or direction abruptly, takes it easy on slippery roads. Sudden spurts of speed or a heavy foot on the brake may send a car into a dangerous slide.

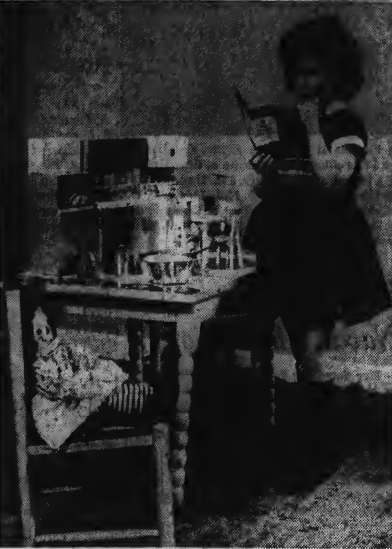

"If you should get caught in a skid, turn the front wheels of the car in the direction of the skid," Mr. Johnson said. "Stay off the brakes—and don't accelerate!"

Winter driving also demands more following distance. It's important to drive well back of the car ahead in order to have plenty of room to come to an easy stop. Chief Johnson appealed to motorists to give other drivers a chance in the traffic lines, and to make allowance for the added difficulties all drivers run into in dark, rainy, snowy weather.

STRONG CHURCHES...

make STRONG COMMUNITIES

What's A G I N E H

SUSAN'S mother is a wonderful cook. She'll teach her little girl all about garnishes and dumplings and conserves... and about dozens of other skills that will help Susan to be a talented homemaker herself, one day.

As we pass our own store of knowledge on to our children because we want to make things easier for them in the future. They will need all the preparation we can give them in order to cope with a life that grows ever more complex.

ABOVE all, we owe our children the opportunity to learn about their best Friend, God. Awareness of His loving presence will give them confidence and courage whatever they do, wherever they go. Through regular church attendance, they can absorb the inspiring principles of Christianity... the most valuable recipes for modern living that exist.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is the source of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The heart you save may be your husband's.

Now, even more than in your courting days, you hold the key to his heart, and to the health of his heart.

This is not meant to put wives on the spot, nor to saddle them with guilt complexes about their responsibility for their husband's well-being. But our new and ever-growing knowledge of the correlation between certain environmental factors and the likelihood of getting a heart attack presents us with the opportunity to control these factors to some extent, and thereby reduce the risk.

For example, you can't do very much about the tensions and pressures your husband encounters in his work environment. But you can make a point not to add to them when he comes home.

And home is where the heart is—about 70 percent of the time.

Then there's the question of what he eats—for which you are primarily responsible. The pundit who said the surest way to a man's heart is via his stomach did not have heart attacks in mind, but you should.

For evidence is growing that the diet of the American people is a major factor contributing to the high coronary heart disease death rate in our country—chiefly our consumption of foods high in saturated (animal) fats and cholesterol. And statistics show that American men at age 50 have a heart attack death rate five times as high as that for women of the same age. You can help lower these odds for your husband.

While you're substituting vegetable oils and other polyunsaturated fats for animal fats in cooking and at the table, you and your children will reap long-range benefits: lower blood levels of cholesterol and other fats and a lower risk of developing coronary atherosclerosis—the disease that clogs the arteries feeding the heart muscle and sets the stage for heart attacks.

Your husband may be risking a heart attack on other fronts as well. Does he hold down a swivel chair at a desk all day, or an arm chair in front of the TV set all evening? Does he drive to the corner store for a pack of cigarettes? And how many packs a day does he smoke?

There are at least two high-risk elements in that picture, and a third if he is smoking heavily because of tension.

And there may be another hidden risk or two, not visible to the naked eye: for example, high blood pressure or diabetes. Only a medical examination can disclose these and other significant conditions; regular checkups can catch them early enough to treat before they do serious damage.

So, if your husband hasn't been feeling up to par lately, or even if he has, a wisely suggestion might be in order. You might hint gently that the time has come for him to get a complete medical checkup; or better yet, take matters into your own hands and make an appointment for him. It's good insurance.

Studies Abroad Exciting

LOUIS SNYDER
(Padrick Photo)

By DORIS PADRICK

"Cold cuts for Thanksgiving dinner, and no bacon and eggs for breakfast" were the only complaints from 14-year-old Louis Snyder who is a student at Aiglon College in Chesières-Villars, Switzerland. The oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Snyder of Birdneck Point, Louis decided to get his education abroad while on a summer European tour with his father last year.

Aiglon College is a British school in Switzerland, situated 4,000 feet above Lake Geneva. The 170 boys, more than 65 percent from England, are housed and are educated in three hostels converted into the private school system opened 16 years ago by British headmaster John Corlette, an Oxford graduate who began with just one pupil. Its high standards have contributed to its growth. In the English-speaking school are 5 other boys from Virginia, 7 from various states in U. S. and 10 to 15 Canadians as well as the European boys. All teachers are British.

The school closes down for a month at Christmas and at Easter and the hotels are open to vacationers during the student's absence.

Louis has been home over the holidays entertaining family and friends with his tales of school abroad. But it hasn't been all fun and games for the mature-thinking teenager. He has been busy working with his father with U. S. Sales which is a manufacturers representative to all the military bases' post exchanges, navy exchanges, and the like, throughout the United States.

He thoroughly enjoys the business world, having begun learning at the tender age of 7 by going to his grandfather's (Ben Paul Snyder) department store which has been in business 71 years in Norfolk—L. Snyder's. He has been literally learning all the facets of business from the ground up. "I take advantage of every opportunity to learn," says Louis, and further commented that he has put up stock, cashed, talked with customers and salesmen, and finds it all fascinating to his inquiring mind.

About his disappointment with the Thanksgiving menu, he said wryly, "I could almost taste all that delicious turkey and stuffing. . . and what did we get served but plain old cold cuts!" And he got hungry all over again when he received a letter from home telling about feasts he missed.

But he made up for all the bacon and eggs absent from the usual European breakfast menu. "I really ate and ate as much bacon and eggs and pancakes and sausage as I could hold while at home. The continental breakfast of brown bread and jam and coffee (without caffeine) or cocoa isn't very satisfying to an American!"

Louis has no complaints about the strict regimen at the school though it is much more austere than what he had been used to at Virginia Beach High School.

"We must get up before 7 a.m., put on our sweatsuits and go outside in the snow for 15 minutes. . . and is it cold! We have a long run, then come in and take an ice cold shower." Then they have breakfast. He admitted that very few of the boys got colds or were sick in any way.

Classes are held a half a day on Saturday as well as the usual five, and Louis studies chemistry, physics, general math (which includes geometry and trigonometry), English grammar and literature, geography, history, and has two French classes.

Aiglon College is well-known for its athletic program; its soccer team, basketball team, hockey team and ski team rank high throughout the area. Louis is on the basketball team, and will be learning to ski. He has done some mountain climbing, and planned for next semester is a long expedition into the German section of Switzerland where they will have four days visiting factories, museums, Rhineport and the Falls, and other attractions.

If being a boys' school, they must travel away from their home base to a girls' school for the social stimulation of a dance. Louis said the young people are about the same as American teenagers and of course, the Beatles are still the greatest as far as all the English boys are concerned. And they all wear the Beatles haircut which, after all, is an English tradition even before the longer hair became fashionable in other parts of the world.

Though he misses his parents, his brother, Gary, 13, and sisters, Terrie, 11, and Patti, 10, and the family poodle "Garcon," Louis says he doesn't have time to get homesick. "I'm much too busy." However, he would enjoy receiving letters from people back home.

His address is: Louis Snyder, Aiglon College, Chesières-Villars, Switzerland.

Notes from Your Agricultural Agent

E. R. "DICK" COCKRELL, JR.

IMPROVING OPERATING EFFICIENCY ON FARMS

It used to be that some land, a willingness to work, and plenty of strong backs was about all a farmer needed to do a good job. Today, however, the strong backs are hard to come by — and operating efficiently is as much a great importance.

Here are some suggestions to help improve efficiency on your farm. Handle materials as little as possible. Locate and arrange storage of feed and supplies as convenient as possible to their place of use. If they must be moved, move them short distances.

Plan movement of materials from point of origin to place of use in an orderly manner to prevent unnecessary work and travel. Avoid backtracking and duplication of effort. Handle large amounts, rather than small amounts, and make every trip count!

Use conveying equipment to move materials when economically feasible. Electrical energy is far less costly than labor. Augers and chain conveyers can move large volumes in relatively short periods of time.

Change the form of some materials to make them less bulky and easier to handle. Much progress has been made with corn, silage and hay.

Concrete pavement adjacent to silage and hay racks in dairy and cattle feeding units eliminates use of bedding material. However, the manure must be removed at certain intervals throughout the feeding period. This can be done with tractor-mounted scraper. A manure loading ramp or tractor mounted front end loader helps get manure on the spreader.

Animal shelters for resting areas can be arranged to prevent through traffic. This lessens bedding requirements and the amount of manure to be hauled. Ground level hay storage reduces equipment and labor for storing and feeding. Feed racks provided adjacent to hay storage shortens distance for moving hay to racks. Hydraulically operated dump bodies on trucks lessen work in unloading bulk material. Silage wagons with side unloading attachment and beaters at exit end are ideal labor savers in unloading silage into the silage blower at silo or silage troughs.

Using chain or auger conveyers to move grain and ground feed minimizes labor considerably. Mercury switches properly placed in storage bins will automatically stop the system when bins are full. This eliminates the need for an attendant.

Electric feed grinders and mixers can be installed to operate automatically according to demand in feed storage bins. An attendant is needed only to change adjustments for different rations that may be required.

When planning new facilities, careful thought should be given to every detail in selection and use of equipment, location of each building or facility relative to other elements in the system, building materials and construction methods.

Use of general and detailed sketches and plans will enable you to arrive at the best arrangement for your farm. Errors made on paper are easily corrected. Errors made during construction and installing equipment can cause inconveniences thereafter. Changes are costly and time consuming.

PROGRESS
The first use of a wheel marked progress in man's continuing effort to make life easier and more pleasant. We've come a long way and it seems the sky is no longer the limit.
The fellow who put the first stone wheel on a log cart was undoubtedly proud of his accomplishment. He was probably something of a celebrity around the local caves.
Today, we moderns give the appearance of taking many of our modern conveniences for granted. We never give much thought to electricity until a bulb goes out or the family clothes dryer fails to function. We get into our automobiles and go merrily on our way — unless the car fails to start.
When things go wrong, we're fortunate. We can find someone in the local community who specializes in fixit or repair services. Or, if we want something new, we can go to a nearby retail outlet and make a selection from a variety of sizes, colors and prices.
And, things are getting better all the time. Stores carry a wider variety and you can get just about any kind of service you need merely by picking up the telephone.

Ocean Hiway Business Up

VIRGINIA BEACH — Ocean Hiway communities, resort areas and businesses enjoyed a record year of business in 1965, according to 100 questionnaire returns received from members of the non-profit Ocean Hiway Association.

A bright outlook for continued business growth is also seen in 1966 for all areas of the Ocean Hiway between New York and Florida, according to Association President Sidney S. Kellam of Virginia Beach.

Comparing 1965 with 1964, 85.7 percent of the survey respondents said their business showed an increase. A total of 4.3 percent reported a decrease and 10 percent indicated that 1965 business was about the same as 1964.

Looking to the future, 79.3 percent of the Ocean Hiway community leaders and business people predict their 1966 business will be greater than 1965. Decreased business was forecast by 2.6 percent of the survey participants, while 18 percent believe their 1966 business will be on a par with 1965.

The optimistic predictions for 1966 are backed by hundreds of expansion programs and millions of dollars worth of new investments in travel-serving facilities in the coastal areas of the seven Ocean Hiway states.

A free color map-folder and motorists guide for the scenic north-south travel route may be obtained from Ocean Hiway Association, P. O. Box 167, Dept. MF, Virginia Beach, Va. 23458.

A Review

'Ready When You Are, C. B.'

READY WHEN YOU ARE, C. B., by Susan Sade; directed by Paul C. Iddings; setting by Alan Joel; with Marj Gasner, Timothy L. Jones, Arden Staroba, Carolee Silcox, and Sandra McClung; playing at the Wedgewood Dinner Theatre, Toano, Virginia.

Wedgewood Dinner Theatre has opened its 1966 season with an interesting comedy. There are five cast members, but the story really concerns only two of them. The other three are there only as "icing on the cake." The play is very funny in spots, but lacks a great deal of lustre in more places than it is funny. The laugh lines are really funny, but there are not enough of them. And when they come, they are gone too quickly. Bear in mind that this is a comedy, because the story leaves a little doubt.

Annie is a young and talented actress living in New York, but she is frightened nearly out of her wits by auditions. She covers this fear by dressing in bad taste and by not letting anyone see her natural attributes. At an audition she creates a bad image and never gets a job. She then makes her living by subletting her apartment to actors and actresses coming into New York. For this she gets a good premium and spends her night on the sofa of one of her girl friends. It is a rather profitable arrangement until Jonas enters her life. Jonas is a good actor and director, but one who does bad Hollywood movies simply to continue living in the style to which he has become accustomed. But Jonas makes the break. He runs away from Hollywood to New York. In truth, he is in hiding from process servers who are chasing him to serve him with papers for breach of contract. Through a mutual "friend," he winds up in Annie's apartment. But part of the deal is that Annie must stay there (on the sofa, of course) since Jonas professes to be a sleepwalker. His real intentions become known later.

Annie's friend, Felicia, who arranged the deal, is one of the most outrageous characters ever seen in any play. She complicates matters through her past and present association with Jonas. There is also another friend, Fran, who pops in two or three times. She is a psychiatrist's dream. Her nervous condition is just unbelievable. Then there is Jonas' mother, Sadie, who is thrown into the plot to fill time. The entire plot revolves around Jonas' efforts to change Annie into what she really is, an attractive and talented actress and woman. She manages to change him too, but only enough to complicate matters a little more. The title of the play has very little to do with the play, and it seems that the author was looking for a play to write around a title. And that is the story of the comedy. Remember, we still say it is a comedy.

What the Wedgewood players have done with this mediocre offering is the next thing to a miracle. They have taken a wordy, sometimes funny, sometimes unfunny group of situations and turned it into a most enjoyable evening in the theatre. In short, they have outdone the script itself. And the way they have done it is by turning in excellent individual and collective performances.

As Annie, Marj Gasner, Wedgewood newcomer, is a delight to watch. She makes an inconsistent character consistent. We believed her all the time, when she was being coy, when she was being naive, when she was being worldly. She moves well through the action and attracts all the sympathy from the audience that is needed. Perhaps the playwright was not too sure about Annie's characterization, but Marj Gasner was.

This is the best performance we have ever seen Tim Jones turn in. His interpretation of the sometimes lecherous and sometimes little boy Jonas is just plain good. We alternately hated him and sympathized with him. First and foremost Jonas is an actor and Tim Jones is too. Tim Jones obviously enjoys the role and we enjoyed watching him play it.

We are finding it increasingly difficult to find words strong enough to compliment any portrayal by Arden Staroba. As the uninhibited Felicia, she outdoes herself. Felicia is worldly and wise and very funny. Arden Staroba plays her to perfection, adding little movements and innuendos that make her role, as usual, a standout, even for Wedgewood, where it is difficult to be a standout. Arden Staroba is at home on a stage and this role simply adds another notch to her rapid-fire pistol like performances.

The role of Fran, which could have been left out altogether, is adeptly handled by Carolee Silcox. As Annie's neurotic friend, Fran, she is quite amusing, and plays the crazy mixed-up model well. It is unfortunate the character of Fran is not more developed by the playwright. She could have added much to the play.

Another completely unnecessary role is that of Sadie, but Sandra McClung plays the role as it should be played — with all the finesse of a freight train wreck. Seeing is believing, but we still have trouble believing that Miss McClung really pulled this one off. Sadie is lovable and a typical lower East Side New York mother with definite ethnic characteristics. Sandra McClung captures all of the characteristics so beautifully and at the same time adds much spice to an otherwise dull scene or two. While she is onstage, the play is really funny.

It is obvious that Director Paul Iddings did not completely trust the script, and he has added some very funny bits of action that turn the show into a nice production. It is not a good play, but it is done so well that the audience forgets about the script and sits back to enjoy one heckuva good production. And this is the mark of the professional players of Wedgewood Theatre — H. J. L.

At 3 p.m. on Sunday a musical program will be presented for the public till 5 p.m. The reception for the Art Association members and artists will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. on Sunday.

The exhibits will be judged by David Nordin, an artist and former art reviewer for the New Haven Sunday Register. Ribbons are to be awarded for best in show, best oil, best watercolor and best in other media.

Art Class Scheduled

VIRGINIA BEACH — A new class in the art of ceramics will begin on January 27th at the Industrial Arts Department of Princess Anne High School.

Sponsored by the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation, this ten week course will be open to adult citizens of Virginia Beach who must register on Thursday, January 27th at 7:30 p.m.

A small fee will be charged for the course, and supplies and greenware will be available at the school.

Instructor for this fascinating art will be James Allen. Classes in ceramics will be held each Thursday night from 7:30 till 9:30 p.m. at Princess Anne High School.

For further information, call the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation office at 497-7454.

RICHMOND — An unusual exhibition of contemporary art that simultaneously assaults the retina and delight the eye is the Virginia Museum's "Op and Pop" show which opened December 31 in the Theatre Gallery.

The exhibition, running through January 14, includes some 60 silkscreen and lithographic prints reflecting these unique art forms of the mid-20th century.

The American Federation of Arts assembled the exhibition of work by 33 artists ranging from Andy Warhol to Josef Albers. The optically gyrating illusions of concentric circles and other geometric forms join forces with such "pop art" representations as dead-pan comic strip panels.

The exhibition might well have been titled "Art of the 60's," for it represents the most recent formalized "school" of art in this country. Both "op" and "pop" forms — from the advancing and receding planes of Benetton's geometric shapes to Warhol's Campbell's Soup cans — are successors of the abstract expressionism of the 1940's and 1950's.

Irving Sandler, former art critic for the New York Post, has called it "cool-art" because of machine-like quality of the art which is often devoid of human emotion. The artists are concerned with a literal translation of the social symbols they see about them.

The "pop" artists utilize popular imagery and symbols in their work — advertisements, signs, pin-ups and comics. Taken out of context, the non-art images — such as the face of a soap carton — suddenly take on a new meaning as reflections of our times.

Concerned with urban life, pop art stems from our highly mechanized society and its monotonous repetition in all phases of life. Opposing critics see it on one hand as critical, negative and destructive while others view it as optimistic, assertive and constructive.

"Op" art, unlike "pop" art, can trace its lineage further back into the history of art. (The "reversible cube" pattern that confuses the viewer as to whether the cubes project upward or downward dates from the second century A.D.)

Today's geometric forms in the new "op" art are not static visual curiosities, but suggest dynamic movement, be it pulsating, vibrating, whirling, flashing or some combination of effects. The artists of these new optical expressions raise the disturbing possibility that things as they really are often have little connection with things as they appear to be.

William Gaines, head of the programs division of the Museum, notes that in the case of "pop" art particularly, those who quibble with its images may really be quibbling with the modern life it depicts. There is no doubt, asserts Gaines, that "op" and "pop" are legitimate art forms of this period, although they must still submit to time's acid test of endurance.

The very nature of this art lends itself to controversy about its place in the art spectrum. Those who more easily appreciate the traditional art forms may rebel at this new expression, but it can be said with near certainty that they will not be bored by it.

Memorial Fund

VIRGINIA BEACH — The American Cancer Society is financed by voluntary gifts and is the only national voluntary agency fighting cancer through research, education and service. Making a contribution to the Society's memorial fund is a fitting and practical way to help save the living and commemorate a loved one.

Memorial Gifts received by the Virginia Beach Unit of the American Cancer Society not only are made in remembrance of those who have died of cancer, but frequently are made in the name of living members of the family or friends in honor of birthdays, anniversaries and other important events.

Mrs. Francis J. Geiger, Memorial Gifts Chairman of the Virginia Beach Unit, said the only information needed for making a Memorial Gift is the name of the person honored and the name and address of the person to whom acknowledgment should be sent.

Special envelopes are available at the American Cancer Society office, Virginia Beach Unit, 958-B Laskin Road, and can be obtained by telephoning 428-4151.

Every Memorial Gift is acknowledged with a dignified card naming the person in whose honor the donation has been made. This card is sent to the person designated by the donor. It does not state the amount of the gift. An acknowledgment and receipt are also sent to the donor.

Diamond Jubilee

Club members will bring prospective new members to the social. Coffee and dessert will be served. Mrs. J. F. Groome is president of the club.

SUNRISE AT THE BEACH — Dawn breaks and a little girl stands entranced with the wonder of the sun and sky and water and sand in symphony with the universe. How little she is... how vast is the ocean... yet how sturdily she stands facing the immensity of unknown worlds beyond her sight and beyond her understanding. Perhaps she symbolizes the hope of the world... a New Year beginning... or maybe just a little girl who likes to get up early. (photo by Cassandra)

For And About Teenagers

THE WICK'S LETTER: "I am not too worried about my problem, but it has been on my mind. Last year, I went to school with a boy that lots of girls tried to get. I knew it was no use for me to consider him, so I put him out of my mind. This summer I was invited to a party he attended. He was asking the rounds with all the girls, but he always came back to me. I didn't want to make him mad, so I just played along and acted as if I didn't care. After the party, there was a hayride. He was with me, which made the other girls mad, and they showed it. Later I went to the skating rink. He and two other boys were there. Two girls and I went riding with them and I wound up with him again. Later, he called and invited me to go to the drive-in. When he got there, he said I had to be back at a certain time. I was late, but she said it was O.K."

SHE LIKES THE BOY. We went to the drive-in Tuesday. This is Friday and I haven't heard from him. I should go steady with him. I wouldn't trust him. Mostly, I don't trust the other girls. What special thing should I do to let him know I really like him without being too obvious?

OUR REPLY: He already knows that you like him. You would not have gone riding with him, or to the drive-in if you didn't care. Don't worry too much about the problem of going steady until you are asked to go steady. The boy may have no intentions of going steady with anyone. You may not continue to be one of his favorite girlfriends if you press the issue.

Of Interest To Veterans

By THOMAS A. MOORE
NORFOLK—Citizens, including veterans, age 65 or over, will probably be eligible for health insurance on July 1, 1966, or soon thereafter. In order to receive the health insurance benefits they may need to take action as indicated below.

If they are receiving any of the following payments — Social Security, Railroad Retirement, or Public Assistance — they do not need to get in touch with their Social Security office.

If they are not receiving any of these payments, they should get in touch with their nearest Social Security office immediately. If they have not already done so, even if they have never worked under Social Security or they are still working full-time for a substantial income. The people at the Social Security office will be pleased for the opportunity of assisting them.

Protection under the "Medicare" program does not start until July 1, 1966, so they should not cancel any other health insurance they now have in force just because they are going to be eligible for "Medicare." Their rights may be impaired if they do not contact the nearest Social Security office immediately. The deadline for applying for those who are now 65 years of age and do not receive any of the above mentioned benefits is March 31, 1966.

Please visit my office on any claims or problems regarding benefits for veterans and their survivors.

Maurice J. Hunger, my associate, visits the Alan B. Shepherd Convention Center, 19th Street and Pacific Avenue, on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month, between the hours of 12:30 p.m. and 4 p.m.

Madame Ballet At French Salon

NORFOLK — A reading from Gustave Cohen's "La Grande Clarte du Moyen Age" (The Bright Light of the Middle Ages) by Madame Leonie Ballet will highlight the January meeting of the French Salon of the Woman's Club to be held January 16, Sunday at 3 p.m., in the Club House at 524 Fairfax Ave.

Madame Ballet is the wife of Captain Pierre Ballet of SACLAN Headquarters. She was born in Shanghai, China, where her Swiss father was in business. She met and married Captain Ballet there, leaving in 1939 to live in France. This is her third year in Norfolk with her husband.

The lecture hour will be followed by the showing of slides of the sculpture of the great Churches of France, commented in French by Mrs. Bertha Fanning Taylor.

The French Salon is open to all interested in the conversational use of the French language. Students of French in high schools and colleges are cordially invited as well as the teachers.

The Salon is sponsored by the Woman's Club and by Pierre Schnitz, French Consul in Norfolk.

SINGING BOYS PUT SMILES ON MEN'S FACES... ## He Was An Escort

By DOUGLAS BARNES

VIRGINIA BEACH — Often the escort of a debutante is bored with the constant formal dress, tea parties, dancing and female chit-chat of fall two weeks during his holiday from studying... but Edwin Clay Kellam, Jr., an A-average pre-law student at William & Mary looked rested and ready to return to his school when we interviewed him on his way to the last party of the Deb season — the original brunch and TV football party given by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Holman and Mr. and Mrs. Ward Cole on New Year's Day at the Ward's residence on Linkhorn Drive.

Officers Installed

LYNNHAVEN — Mrs. Carl Taylor has been installed as president of the Lutheran Church Women of the Good Shepherd at 7:30 Sunday morning service by Dickson W. Taylor, pastor of the church.

Others installed were Mrs. Galen Laird, vice president; Mrs. Philip Hansen, secretary; Mrs. Luther Mills, treasurer; and Mrs. Thomas Bunting, publicity secretary.

Selected to serve as standing committee chairmen were Mrs. Frank Murden, faith and life; Mrs. Monty Hine, outreach and fellowship; Mrs. George Long, Christian action; and Mrs. Carl Foreman, offerings.

Circle leaders are Mrs. James Haigler, "Dorothy"; Mrs. George Long, "Naomi"; and Mrs. Robert Stanley, "Ruth."

Mrs. Hansen will be hostess to the Naomi circle meeting at her home, 1323 Graham Road, on Tuesday evening, January 18, at 8 p.m.

Special committee chairmen are Mrs. Leo Bradley, cancer dressings; Mrs. Ted Butzbach, nursery; and Mrs. John Roberts, coffee hostess.

Informal and different, this gathering was in honor of Ann Dorsay Day, Carter Byrd Hunter and Carol White.

Ed escorted Caroline Reed Spencer one of the Norfolk debutantes whom he has escorted frequently during the deb season. And two nicer more down-to-earth persons we couldn't have interviewed.

Edwin has found time to visit with friends, neighbors and relatives, to attend church, and to help with family matters while on vacation. He must somehow have caught up on sleep, because we noted clear eyes and big grins.

Ed summed it all up with, "How sweet it's been... nobody's gotten sick, nobody's been hurt in any accident. Yes, how sweet it's been."

Right Plants For Hedges

Many plants can be grown as hedges, but some have better qualities than others for this purpose, says Elgia L. Easter, Assistant Agricultural Agent at Virginia Beach.

One first has to decide what he wishes a hedge to accomplish, says Easter. If it is merely to operate one property from another, it may be that you do not need a hedge at all, but a row of rose plants, or a few other flowering shrubs. If it is to give privacy or to give a screen, the hedging material will need to be taller and more dense material.

The typical hedge is a solid or rounded barrier, suitable for shearing to the desired shape, and may be tall or low, depending on the homeowner's choice, but it is always kept more or less "A" shaped.

The hedge should be hardy, suited to local soil conditions and climate. It should be of dense, twiggy nature, branching freely when sheared. It should be low-branched with the foliage right to the ground. Moreover, its foliage should be attractive for a long period of time—preferably all year round. Decorative flowers or fruits make it desirable as does ease of maintenance.

Generally, says Easter, slow growing plants are used for formal sheared hedges, and medium growing plants are used for informal hedges of looser texture.

Corneliancherry Dogwood is dense, compact, rich in coloring and gives the effect of a solid green wall. It needs only two to three clippings a season, and has a cherry-like fruit in summer.

Winged Euonymus, sometimes called Burning Shrub, is dense and well branched to the ground line. The foliage shade is pink or rose in fall.

Clayey's dwarf bush honeysuckle grows fast and a finished-appearing hedge is possible in one season. It is globose in shape, compact, and is a good hedge from two and one half to four feet high.

Other good hedge materials include the Alpine Currant, Chinese lilac, Korean littleleaf boxwood, Japanese Yew, and Pyracantha. Also, the hollies and boxwood make fine low hedges. Privet, also known as Ligustrum, barberries, and broadleaf evergreens are still widely planted.

22 Pembroke Mall Stores Plan March Opening Date

VIRGINIA BEACH — It was announced Tuesday that Miller and Rhodes, is tentatively planning to open its store in Pembroke Mall between February 28 and March 3. 21 other stores are now scheduled to open on or about March 14th.

A strike by one union on the Mall construction force did not seriously delay work and did not set back the schedule.

Despite the opening of these first stores, Pembroke Mall will not hold its grand opening until about September when the Sears store is completed and opens.

Fred Napolitano and Horace A. Cistola, developers of the $12 million complex, have already appointed a manager for Tide-water's only enclosed, air-conditioned mall. He is Gene A. Robens, formerly executive vice-president of Iberia Enterprises, which has headquarters in Madrid, Spain.

During the two years he was with Iberia, Robens laid the groundwork for establishing a network of ice cream stores in Spain, and later opened similar operations in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

During his career, Robens was a top administrative officer with the Veterans Administration in Virginia and Michigan, and was a special assistant to the secetary of the Army for Reserve Forces.

He was living in Roanoke at the time of his appointment.

The stores in Pembroke Mall are scheduled to open in graduated sequences. So far, 65 store units have been rented. Those scheduled to open two weeks after Miller and Rhodes are Lerner's, Peoples Drug Store, F. W. Woolworth, Hoffheim-

Judgeship To Be Filled

VIRGINIA BEACH — The death of Judge Reed, Judge of Virginia Beach Municipal Court, has created another vacancy in the city's judicial system. The selection of a successor to Judge Reed is expected shortly, although there is no confirmation concerning who the new judge will be. According to usually reliable sources, there is strong speculation that former City Attorney George W. Vakos is the leading contender. Vakos resigned from his City job in 1965 to devote more time to personal business interests.

A short time later, Vakos was appointed as a substitute judge, serving both the Municipal and Juvenile and Domestic Relations Courts. At the present time, Vakos will neither confirm nor deny that he is being considered for the vacant judgeship, however, informed sources believe he would accept.

Should Vakos fill the vacancy created by Reed's death, several names have been mentioned as possible successors to Vakos in the job of substitute judge. Those being mentioned include Henry L. Lam, Richard D. Guy, Frank E. Butler III and Donald H. Rhodes. None of the four have commented publicly on the possibility of assuming that job.

Informed sources say that the Municipal Court judgeship and the substitute judgeship will be filled within the next few days.

Kellam On 3 Senate Comm.

RICHMOND — State Senator William P. Kellam has been appointed to three important State committees of the Virginia General Assembly. The appointments were announced when the 1966 session was only three days old by the President pro tem of the Senate.

Kellam will serve as a member of the General Laws Committee, the Privileges and Elections Committee and the Education Committee.

It is somewhat unusual for a freshman senator to be selected for service on three such important committees, however, in the current session, there are fourteen new members of the legislative body and several vacancies existed on the committees.

The General Laws Committee and the Privileges and Elections Committee are generally considered to be the two most important committees within the Virginia General Assembly.

Kellam was elected in the November General Election as one of the three Senators from the newly created Third Senatorial District. The District, including Virginia Beach, Chesapeake and Portsmouth, was drawn under the terms of court-ordered reapportionment of the General Assembly.

Downing To Speak At Feb. Banquet

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Virginia Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce has announced that First District Congressman Thomas N. Downing of Newport News will be the guest speaker at its First Citizen Award Banquet. The First Congressional District of Virginia includes the city of Virginia Beach.

cee spokesman. Nominations for the award are still being accepted by the Chapter until the end of January.

The award banquet will be held at the Black Angus Restaurant on Monday, February 21, at 7 p.m. Anyone wishing to nominate a Virginia Beach citizen for the award is asked to contact any member of the Virginia Beach Jaycees. Any outstanding citizen, male or female, of any age, is eligible to win the award.

CITIES EXPRESS OBJECTIONS

Statewide Sales Tax Faces Many Obstacles

RICHMOND — What Governor Godwin has called the first broad-based tax in a half century in Virginia is already shaping up as the one key issue of the 1966 session of the Virginia General Assembly. The imposition of a statewide sales tax is expected to be the major piece of legislation before the lawmakers now meeting in Richmond.

for the lawmakers now meeting in Richmond.

Discussion of such a tax began long before the session convened, and reached a fever pitch a few days before when the VALC made its recommendations for a 3 percent sales tax, based on 1 percent being returned to localities and certain other distribution relief to urban areas. This was immediately attacked in many quarters of the state, especially by those who worried about the basis for distribution as population increases. Sources at Virginia Beach were among those who cast a wary eye at the VALC recommendations.

Then on the opening day of the Virginia General Assembly, Governor Harrison made an altogether different proposal. His plan would enact a two percent sales tax by the state, with one percent being returned to the localities, based on retail sales and school attendance. With this recommendation, he called for the repeal of already-enacted local sales taxes across the state. Virginia Beach, which has had a 2 percent sales tax since June 1, 1965, is among 13 cities in the state having such a levy. Harrison's proposal would take away the power of cities to enact a sales tax of their own.

This met with a flurry of activity last weekend during the inaugural activities. The objections to this plan came from far and wide, especially from urban areas.

Virginia Beach Reaction
Virginia Beach City Manager Russell Hatchett said that Virginia

Beach would be crippled if the local tax were done away with. He also criticized Harrison's proposed distribution formula. Other officials in Virginia Beach said they feared the real estate tax in Virginia Beach would have to be raised if the power to impose a sales tax were denied. One informed source expressed fear for the beach reclamation project, now paid for by a 3 percent tax on hotels, amusements, etc., in Virginia Beach Borough.

State Senator William P. Kellam of Virginia Beach, said his principal concern in the enactment of a statewide sales tax is that Virginia Beach receives from distribution as much as it is now getting at the present time, and as much

Judge J. D. Reed Dies From Heart Attack Saturday

JUDGE J. D. REED

(VIRGINIA BEACH — Judge Jefferson Davis Reed, Jr., 57, of the Virginia Beach Municipal Court died at 1:40 a.m. Saturday morning in the General Hospital of Virginia Beach.

Judge Reed was admitted to the hospital Jan. 1 after suffering a mild heart attack.

A native of Portsmouth, Judge Reed was educated in Portsmouth public schools and was a graduate of Washington and Lee University and the Harvard University Law School. He began his law practice in 1931, following his graduation from Harvard.

Prior to the merger of Princess Anne County and the city of Virginia Beach, Reed was judge of Princess Anne County Court and the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court.

He was appointed to his sixth four-year term as Judge of the court in 1962.

During his service as a Judge in Virginia Beach, Judge Reed maintained a law practice in Norfolk.

Besides his wife, he is survived by his son, Jefferson Davis Reed III; two daughters, Mrs. Martha Ann Ellis of Virginia Beach, and Miss Pembroke W. Reed; a brother, Robert M. Reed of Portsmouth and a granddaughter.

He was buried in Eastern Shore Chapel cemetery.

Ticket May Be Formed

VIRGINIA BEACH — A move is reported underway in Virginia Beach to form an 11-man ticket of independent candidates for the June City Council election.

Several beach independent organizations have held meetings, but as of yet the groups have been unsuccessful in forming a ticket to oppose the 11 Democratic candidates in the council race.

The Citizens Council for Better Government in Virginia Beach, members of the Republican Party and a few Negro citizens have reportedly held several meetings on the matter.

It is not yet known whether or not the Republican Party will field any candidates in the June election.

CAPTURED BY FEEDER ROAD

The Monster Of Linkhorn Bay

VIRGINIA BEACH — Laskin Road traffic was tied up for several hours Wednesday afternoon when a 200-thousand pound crane, enroute from South Carolina, for use in construction of the new Toll Road, sank through the feeder lane of the Boulevard just west of the White Heron Motel.

The mammoth crane, owned by Dickenson, Incorporated, one of the contractors working on the new toll road, was floated to Virginia Beach from Hatterasville, South Carolina, on a barge. It was unloaded from the barge at Linkhorn Bay and Laskin Road. Under its own power, the crane was "walking" toward the highway, when the feeder road gave way, almost sending the crane back into Linkhorn Bay, without the benefit of a barge.

The mishap occurred at 1:45 p.m., and it was not known when the crane would be freed and on its way again. Westbound traffic had to be routed onto the east-bound lanes for nearly three hours, and Virginia Beach Police directed traffic.

Additional heavy equipment was brought to the scene and lines were attached to the top of the crane from all sides. It was then unloaded of all its regular counterweights. The plan was to pull all lines taught, and to "walk" it away, leaving a big hole in the road.

The construction engineer on the job said, "We were doing all right, all the way from South Carolina, until we got right here." As he directed the pulling out operations, he told reporters, "This is not so bad. I've seen them worse than this."

No one was injured in the mishap, but Virginia Beach residents traveling along Laskin Road saw an unusual sight.

WHOOPIING BIG CRANE—This heavy piece of construction equipment was too heavy for the feeder road of Laskin Road. It almost landed in Linkhorn Bay when the road collapsed tying up traffic for several hours, while efforts were made to extricate it.

Bye, Bye - Bottleneck; Contract For Bridge Awarded Monday

VIRGINIA BEACH — A contract for the construction of the second two-lane span across Lynnhaven Inlet was awarded Monday by the city.

Charles S. Kiley, Virginia Beach City Engineer said the contract was awarded to a Baltimore, Md., firm, McLean Construction Co.

Kiley said the firm's bid was for $201,416.70.

The new bridge will be identical to the present Lesner bridge which has caused a major bottleneck to traffic during the tourist season for the past few years. Four lanes of traffic must merge into two lanes on either side of the bridge, sometimes causing tie-ups for miles.

The city has been seeking such an addition for some time, but minor problems always held them up in one way or another.

BOTTLENECK TO BE OVERCOME — Area residents and tourists alike will no longer be troubled with the bottleneck now caused by the two-lane Lesner Bridge that spans Lynnhaven Inlet. The contract for an additional bridge, identical to Lesner Bridge, was awarded to McLean Const. Co., of Baltimore, Md., Monday. Surviving work has already commenced on the east end of the approach for the new bridge. (Staff photo by Moore)

LET'S TALK FASHION

By ALICE BREWER WHITE

The Claret folks have hit upon a dandy idea of bringing beauty and hair fashions almost to your very door! They have taken the famous Claret Carousel which was so popular for the two years of the New York World's Fair and revamped the building, putting it on a huge truck which will travel about the country bringing beauty, hairstyles and hair coloring ideas to the women of our land. Its public debut will be in Miami on March first and will later proceed throughout the states, stopping at shopping centers.

Incidentally, their big feature at the recent Fashion Press Week in Manhattan was the appearance of Vidal Sassoon, the London-born hair stylist who looks twenty-one and is thirty-eight. He was flown in from Europe's Vidal's European salons, on loan from Charles-of-the-Hills. Most attractive and enthusiastic about the way American women have accepted this close-to-the-head Sassoon hair cut which is really something to see when Vidal actually cuts a head of hair before your very eyes. He has some neat, new tricks in cutting the back locks and styling them to look as part of the outline of milady's head!

SASSOON HELMETS
Helmets designed with haircuts by Vidal Sassoon in mind are the newest in the Younger Set's millinery creations. One with a center peaked crown, hugging the head, was in white felt. Another was a side-split cloche of white antelope felt and another combined the bumper brim and helmet in white antelope felt. At Bloomingdale's in New York the Deb Millinery department, we saw "underworld fedoras" inspired by immortal gangsters and spies like Greta Garbo, Humphrey Bogart & Jimmy Cagney. Also the white vinyl or treated chintz rain hats designed by Reed Crawford of London which most certainly would help a lass beat the weather. Oh yes! Those amusing new fun shades of plastic, destined to replace sun glasses on the ski slope, were all over the place. Of course, Tidewater teens are already clamoring for them to just wear everywhere when the sun is out. They're real fun and all decorated with fancy red daisies!

This beautiful Scottish plaid suit, teamed with its lovely cut companion coat and sporting silvery-over-anything raglan sleeves, is just one of many famous David-Down ensembles from the popular-in-Tidewater House of David. The scoop-brim neat head-bugling hat completes the picture for the Total Look for Spring '66.

FASHIONABLES
Seen in Manhattan: Polly Bergen, attending the Burke-Amy Spring fashion showing, wearing a giant black and white hounds tooth coat, lined in brown suede with turned over collar of the same and with a saucy, tailored tilted fedora of the same shade of brown. At the same showing, beautiful blonde socialite Dina Merrill (of the Best-Dressed Firsts and the movies as well) in a pale blue double-breasted tweed suit with an interesting rolled notched collar and tucked-in scarf of azure blue and green. No hat but mid-calf soft cocoa suede boots. . . . Singer Jane Morgan, drawing lucky numbers for the Accessorama show, wearing a gorgeous above-line white mink full length coat, white wool dress and with her platinum-white high hair style was a dream walking. She made apologies for being hatless but admitted she owned 450 hats! (That's our girl!) . . . Popular designer Celi Chapman in a stunning black American Designers' Eleanor Lambert, a stunning and gracious hostess in her Fifth Avenue apartment, entertaining some of the press gals, wearing an unusual emerald green silk Chinese pajama-at-home costume with interesting green sandals to match! . . . Norfolk's own Carol Knox, now Mrs. Sam Digges of Stamford, Connecticut, taking time out from her many CBS television duties to hostess for the Max Felscher party and sending her best to all her many friends in Tidewater. She looked as radiant as ever wearing her hair high, topped with curly chignon, and in black with a splashy-black and white scarf about her neck. Remember Carol on WAVY-TV a few years back?

BARE MARKET
Ruth Preston, New York Post's fashion editor, summed it up when she wrote: "Skirts high as possible, tops low as possible and the most wildly unexpected cutouts wherever possible have thrown fashion into a state of bareness that would make the cave woman, wrapped extravagantly in a whole leopard skin, look positively fuddy-duddy, as today's nature girls go."

The Voice Of The People

There are early indications in the current session of the Virginia General Assembly that the voice of the majority of the citizens of the state will be heard much louder than ever before. Both retiring Governor Harrison and the new Governor, Mills Godwin, have emphasized the importance of urban areas and have suggested ways out of urban problems. At least we can stand assured that those at the pinnacle of state government are aware of urban areas, which of course, includes Virginia Beach.

Another indication of stress on urban problems has come with the selection of Virginia Beach's own freshman state Senator to serve on three of the most important committees in the General Assembly. Kellam will serve on the General Laws Committee, the Privileges and Elections Committee and the Education Committee. Such bills as local option liquor by the drink may come before the General Laws Committee. Future reapportionment bills will come before the Privileges and Elections Committee. And probably the most important bills of the Godwin administration, those concerning public and higher education statewide, will be scrutinized by the Education Committee.

Although it is somewhat unusual that a freshman senator is immediately placed on three such important committees, we are pleased that Kellam has been so placed. He certainly is aware of the problems of cities and metropolitan areas, and we believe his presence on those committees will not only be beneficial to Virginia Beach but also to urban areas statewide.

At the present time, sixty per cent of Virginia's population reside in cities or metropolitan complexes, and by 1980, that figure is destined to exceed eighty per cent. We are pleased to see that urban representation on major committees within the framework of our legislative process is finally receiving the proper recognition. For too long, rural areas dominated the makeup of major committees. We honestly believe that the Virginia General Assembly can now take great steps forward within Governor Godwin's program, in aiding Virginia Beach and other urban areas.

In the House of Delegates, P. B. White of Virginia Beach serves on several committees, and is a member of the single most important committee in that body. The Appropriations Committee of which White is a member, will consider the giant two billion dollar budget, and will have the final say as to what sort of sales tax bill reaches the floor of the Assembly. White's presence on that committee will certainly aid Virginia Beach and all metropolitan areas.

The state of Virginia is definitely at a crossroads. It can develop by leaps and bounds in the next few years, but only if the legislators from the urban complexes of the state are given their rightful voice and vote. So far, in this 1966 session, it appears that our problems are being recognized, and we hope that this urban progress will continue for the good of the entire state.

A Tragic Affair

One of the worst crimes that man can commit against society in our opinion is the taking of another man's life. It happens, however, with alarming regularity, either with malice or without. It also happens in another manner—accidentally. Such probably is the situation in a case now pending at Virginia Beach.

On a wintry morning recently, the life of a fourteen year-old newspaper carrier boy was snuffed out a few blocks from his home, as he was making his pre-dawn deliveries. He was knocked from his bicycle in a heavily populated area of Aragona Village and was dragged for seventy feet. The driver of the automobile remains unidentified. After hitting the innocent victim, he left the scene of the accident without offering any assistance. The young boy died of multiple internal injuries a short time later, after he was found by another motorist and after police had been called. It is doubtful that his life could have been saved even with immediate medical aid, but the driver who took his life and went his way could not have known this.

The driver, whoever he may be, when he is found, and he will be, will be charged with hit and run, as well as involuntary manslaughter. He faces a stiffer penalty than had he stopped immediately and reported the incident. Perhaps he panicked. Perhaps he simply hoped to elude police. Whatever the circumstances, he did leave after taking a human life. Time has now intervened. Police have few clues. The driver is a fugitive. We would first hope that he will eventually feel that twinge of conscience that must come and turn himself in, but if not, we hope he will be caught and caught soon.

No matter what his crimes, he must still be afforded a fair trial. That is our way. We simply hope he is apprehended. The life of one person has been lost, probably quite needlessly. Now we wish to see justice served.

All we can do is offer our complete sympathy to the victim's family, and our support to those investigating the matter and to those who have offered a reward for the arrest and conviction of the responsible driver.

JUST WHAT THE DOCTOR ORDERED !

Two Little Words

In themselves, the words "sales" and "tax" are not necessarily significant, but put together, as they are these days, the combination is causing a bit of furor from Virginia Beach to Bristol to Arlington and especially to Richmond.

The 1966 Virginia General Assembly is just a week old, but already much has been said on the subject of a statewide sales tax, and several lines of battle are already clearly drawn. In addition much of importance has been left unsaid.

Governor Harrison in his final address called for a two per cent state sales tax with one per cent being returned to the localities on a reasonably fair distribution basis. Probably the worst feature would be that larger areas would have to carry the smaller areas, and that metropolitan areas would suffer. Governor Godwin, in his first address to the Assembly recommended the same tax under the same distribution formula, but left unsaid one major face of Harrison's recommendation. Harrison called for the repeal of local sales taxes and denial of the right to improve them. Godwin did not, and his failure to do so is taken to be silent intractable way. The only other way Virginia Beach, for instance, could raise necessary funds, would be to increase real estate taxes. This certainly would not be looked upon by homeowners, approval of a compromise, allowing local taxes to continue. We hope our interpretation is correct, and so do most of the metropolitan area legislators.

The problem is that Virginia Beach, like so many other large cities, has already been forced to adopt a two per cent sales tax, and would definitely lose important revenue, should its right to impose tax be denied. If this should happen, it appears there would only be one place to go, and it is not an attractive one.

He Will Be Missed

For nearly a quarter of a century, Jefferson Davis Reed, Jr., served Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach with a stern hand and a mild manner. His untimely death last weekend has not only ended a fine legal career, but has created a void in the legal machinery of Virginia Beach.

Before Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County merged, Judge Reed presided over the County Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court. Afterward he served as Judge of the Virginia Beach Municipal Court. He was known as a fair man with endless patience, as a steady stream of cases passed before him. And he was known as one who meted out justice, in its first sense.

Besides his judicial duties and his law practice, he found time to involve himself in religious affairs and even his trial affairs of the area. Whatever it was that he did, he plunged in with dedication.

The judicial system that he was a part of has lost a good man, and Virginia Beach has lost a fine citizen. He will be missed.

favorably, nor would it be equitable, since only about thirty per cent of the population would bear the brunt of the tax. As a homeowner, we would protest loudly.

Virginia Beach City Manager W. Russell Hatchett has already attacked the Harrison plan, and now many others are doing the same. Senator William Kellam has been named Virginia Beach's representative on a special legislative committee, which will report to Governor Godwin and suggest alternatives. We feel certain that the new Governor will take their ideas under advisement. The Tidewater area, which already has local sales taxes, constitutes a large area of the state, and is quite important to the state economy.

What we would like to see is a statewide two per cent sales tax, with the option for cities and counties to adopt an additional one per cent and still receiving one per cent from the state. That way, Virginia Beach would not lose funds it is already collecting and using.

Virginia Beach Borough, for instance, has been collecting for several years a special tax, used for reclamation of beach front property. We do not wish to lose that source of revenue.

Governor Godwin has said the legislators must place the good of Virginia above the good of one area. We agree, but we will not be satisfied unless Virginia Beach still has the right to impose local taxes and to continue growing. We accept the state sales tax, but also want local flexibility.

Toward Deeper Roots

For some time we have been greatly interested in the rapid development of the entire City of Virginia Beach. We have guessed accurately that the record amount of construction in this city would continue, and we have examined previously that construction.

Residential construction, while still making up the bulk of money spent, is lower, and industrial and commercial construction is up. We have said this points to the maturity of our city and the deeper roots being planted by business and professional men. In addition, we can see that deeper roots are being planted by homeowners, and by those moving here from surrounding areas.

During 1965, the trend toward higher-priced homes continued in Virginia Beach. Apparently more and more families are building houses in Virginia Beach with the full intention of staying here indefinitely. It is a remarkable statistic that one third of all homes built here last year cost more than twenty thousand dollars. The average cost of new homes here is rapidly approaching that same figure, while only five years ago, the figure was a little more than twelve thousand.

Virginia Beach is growing up, and the residents, old and new, seem to know it. We welcome the trend toward better houses and those who will live in them.

SPECIAL WASHINGTON REPORT

For Full Employment

By W. WILLARD WIRTZ
Secretary of Labor

The nation's current unemployment rate—4.3 percent—is the lowest in eight years.

In human terms, this means that nearly ten thousand more people — on the average — go to work each morning than left the night before; the unemployment list drops about 40,000 persons a month; and ninety-eight out of every hundred married men available for work have jobs.

An active manpower policy has stimulated increased employment opportunities, upgraded the work force's skills and adaptability, and linked the two — jobs and men — more effectively.

PRESIDENT'S COMMITMENT
This improvement clearly reflects a President and a people's commitment to the establishment and implementation of a policy of complete and full employment opportunity in this country.

More than a million Americans will benefit directly this year from the Manpower Development and Training Act, area redevelopment, Neighborhood Youth Corps, Job Corps, vocational education, apprenticeship, work-experience, and work-training programs.

Despite this, unemployment and underemployment are intolerably high, particularly for those lacking education, skills or opportunity because of poverty and discrimination. We are still far from the Great Society's goal where all men have the self-respect and economic security which flow from full use of their talents.

HUMAN RESOURCES DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM
To supplement existing programs, I have recently suggested a Human Resources Development Program.

This approach calls for the block-to-block, door-to-door searching out and registering of unemployed persons, finding out their capabilities and providing needed assistance, including training for employment. It also calls for launching a major job development program through which industry will provide job opportunities for the unemployed, either through Federally assisted programs or under their own auspices.

Initial programs will be launched before the end of the year.

Such effort requires the full support of all Americans because the program must develop in the communities where the people live.

Attainment of this goal — the fullest possible employment — will bring us one major step nearer the goals of a Great Society.

The Public Be Served

Late in the 19th Century, a well-known industrialist barked out four words that echoed across America and took root, like a bad seed, in the nation's consciousness.

The words, of course, were "The Public Be Damned."

In the years since then, however, substantial change has blotted out that message. Nowadays business cares a great deal about what the public thinks and wants. What's more, considerable time, effort, skill and hard cash reflect this modern business attitude.

Just recently, a leading business organization took another eventful step in the direction of further protecting the interests of corporations and their public stockholders. In a new booklet entitled "The Corporate Director and The Investing Public," the New York Stock Exchange outlined the many responsibilities of corporate management.

Among other things, for example, the booklet urges corporate executives to announce promptly important company news to the public, avoid premature announcements of new products not yet realistically tested and include outside directors on the company's board.

The new Stock Exchange publication also recommended that corporate officials ought to wait until the news of company earnings, dividends and other important developments has first appeared in the press before making a purchase or sale of the stock. Quite plainly, this would avoid the inference that officials had an inside advantage over the public.

Under the circumstances, it isn't surprising that America's 20 million investors have access to more and better information than ever before. Over a period of many years the Stock Exchange and other organizations have contributed much to this climate of disclosure. As partners in our free enterprise economy, investors deserve to be served instead of damned.

American business, in other words, has come a long way since the time when public opinion could be ignored with those four scaring words. As President Keith Fuston of the Stock Exchange says in the booklet, "The interests of stockholders, employees, customers, and the general public must all be recognized by corporations and their directors."

Your Faith and You

ROBERT H. GARNER

Minister, Tabernacle Methodist Church

By new men of us have made all our New Year's Resolutions. It is important to get off to a good start, and the new year presents us with 373 brand-new shiny penny days—it's almost like a second chance, a new lease on life.

But getting off to a good start is not nearly so important as coming to a good finish, for no matter how bright the start might be, it will be bitterly remembered if we make a bad finish. That points out to all of us that it is one thing to start well but quite another matter to stick by our resolution daily throughout the year.

Life is like splitting a log. The first blow of the ax is important, and every subsequent blow makes its contribution toward the end result of splitting the log. But that final blow is all-important, for that one brings to a successful conclusion all our previous efforts. As we face a new year together, may our prayer be for the fortitude and courage to come to a good finish.

Board Names Principals

VIRGINIA BEACH — At its regular monthly meeting held at Princess Anne Courthouse, the School Board named secondary school principals elected for next year.

They are N. W. Morris, principal of Bayside High to the new Kempsville High School; Letcher, Hill, principal of Kempsville Junior High to Bayside; James Mounie, principal of Virginia Beach High to the new edifice on First Colonial Road; and Charles Perkins, assistant principal of Bayside High to Virginia Beach Junior High.

Principals reelected were Walter N. Carroll, Cox; Jefferson Davis, Kellam; J. W. Littleton, Princess Anne; and J. V. Boykin, Union Kempsville High.

George Ferrell, Board chairman, named three committees from the new seven-man board which was meeting for the first time. For budget, J. W. Buffington and Spencer Lott; policy, Kenned Jar and Ralph Frost; and building and grounds, George Lyon and Frank Williams.

Supt. W. Frank Cox discussed finances and stated that last March the board had agreed to the Council's decision to curtail funds at its request, but "We're coming back and the time is upon us. We continue to grow; everything points to continued growth; we have 60,000 acres of open land available for housing."

Last year $5 million were sold in school bonds which financed five building projects now in progress.

The perennial concern that federal laws which provide impact fund money for schools heavily attended by children of military and federal employees might be altered was touched on by Cox. "We stand to lose as much as $125 million in federal funds if there is alteration of the procedure," Cox said.

Have a safe place to store guns and ammunition in the home and be sure they are always put there, cautions the Virginia Game Commission. A few seconds of carelessness when you return tired from a hunting trip may cost the life of one of your loved ones. Make safety a habit!

Beach Soldier Killed In Viet Nam Action

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Defense Department announced last week that a 19-year-old Virginia Beach soldier was killed in action in South Viet Nam last Tuesday.

He was identified as Army Spec. 4 Marvin Bonney Smith Jr., of the 700 block of 13th Street. He died from gunshot wounds received while on a combat mission.

He was the son of Marvin B. Smith Sr. and Mrs. Margie Spence Hickey, and was a native of Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach.

Smith enlisted in the Army two years ago and was trained as a paratrooper at Ft. Benning, Ga. He was sent to South Viet Nam last November with the 101st Transportation Airborne Co.

Trend Still On The Rise

VIRGINIA BEACH — City Inspector John Gibbs said last week that a trend toward higher priced homes in Virginia Beach continued to rise last year.

Gibbs said custom building caused the rise.

This continued rise was revealed in an analysis of the building permits issued in the city for residential construction during 1965.

32 percent of the new homes built in Virginia Beach last year were valued at $20,000 and more. The percentage for homes in that price range in 1964 was 26 percent.

The average cost of a new house in 1965 was $18,647 — some $250 above the 1964 average home price.

Percentages of other residential construction was $15,000-$20,000, 30 percent; $10,000-$15,000, 37 percent; and up to $10,000, one percent.

70 percent of the new homes were constructed in Lynnhaven and Kempsville Boroughs.

Man Dies Of Injuries

VIRGINIA BEACH — William A. Carneal, 44, of the 600 block of Raleigh Ave., Norfolk, died Monday in a Norfolk hospital from injuries received in a car-truck collision on Virginia Beach Boulevard late last Thursday afternoon.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Bonney Road and the Boulevard, when Carneal's car struck a truck that was making a left turn onto the Boulevard.

Police said Carneal's car, traveling west on the boulevard, hit the front bumper of the car and rolled over four times.

The driver of the truck, Robert D. Wade, 61, of the 300 block of Bank Street, Suffolk, has been charged with involuntary manslaughter.

Carneal is Virginia Beach's second traffic fatality of the year. A resident of Norfolk for the past four years, Carneal was employed at the Verona Pacing Co.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Helen Virginia MacDonald Carneal, he is survived by a daughter, Miss Beverly Carneal of Louisiana; two step-daughters; Mrs. Scott A. McKown and Miss Margaret Porter, both of Norfolk; two step-sons, Robert H. Porter II and MacDonald Porter, both of Norfolk; six sisters, Mrs. Edward Sorensen, Mrs. James McKinney and Mrs. Evelyn Parish, all of Richmond; Mrs. Louis Sanders of Washington; and Mrs. Margorie Cooke of Newport News; and three brothers, Kenneth Carneal, James Carneal and Roy Carneal, all of Richmond.

Burial was at Forest Lawn Cemetery.

Three Norfolk Men Charged

VIRGINIA BEACH — Three Norfolk men have been charged with taking 17 pistols from Buddy's Field & Stream Shop on 5785 Northampton Blvd. after being apprehended by police who engaged in a high speed chase of the suspects Monday night.

James Lafayette Williams of 133 Hough Street, Ernest Royster of 1012 Wilson Road, and Narrio Gibbs of 740 Chapel Street were caught by Patrolman Edward Adams who was on patrol on U. S. 13 near Baker Road when he noticed that a glass front door on the sports store was broken. Seeing a car nearby, he began the chase.

One man, Gibbs, fled the car when it stopped, but the other two sped off in the car with Patrolman Adams in pursuit. Forced to a stop on Gretna Road, Williams and Royster then took off in different directions.

Adams fired a shot into the air and ordered the man to halt, but Williams was not stopped until he tried to jump a fence at the Glen home, 1157 Baker Road.

Meanwhile, Royster went to the home of R. T. Birdsong on 1104 W. Sanford Road, saying he had been assaulted by two men. When Birdsong went to call the police, Royster ran into L. & J. Gardens and was picked up by Officer W. W. Baker.

Gibbs was arrested later. Royster was on parole on a

Seatack Wins Over Newlight

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Seatack Devils took advantage of the broken defense of the Newlight Basketball team of Newlight Saturday, and rolled to an easy 65-36 victory.

Seatack is now sporting a record of one win and one defeat at the hands of C & K last Saturday. Seatack held a twenty point advantage over Newlight at the half 37-17. Newlight was unable to come back in the second half and Seatack won by a score of 65-37.

In the second Sr. High contest of the day, C & K outscored Lynhaven 40-35 in the most exciting contest of the day. At the half, C & K held a four (4) point lead, 20-18. The second half was a hard fought battle which Lynhaven came within one point of tying the score but were unsuccessful in their attempt. Final score, C & K 40, Lynhaven 35.

In the Jr. High League, in a close contest between Lynhaven and C & K, C & K managed to squeeze by Lynhaven 44-37, to post their second win of the 1966 season.

In the second contest of the day, Seatack's Jr. High team defeated Newlight by the score of 45-35.

Deer Kill Up

RICHMOND — Nearly complete returns from check stations west of the Blue Ridge indicate that over 12,300 deer were killed in that section during the 1965 two week season, the Game Commission reports. This amounts to about a 6 percent increase over last year's total of 11,564 and marks the third straight year that the kill has gone up in this section.

Most counties in this area experienced substantial increases in deer kill. Bath County again had the highest total kill with 1,442 deer checked. Rockingham was a close second with 1,425 and Augusta again ranked third with 1,201. Most of the increases occurred in southwest Virginia counties where kills averaged slightly below last year's totals.

Damage stamp sales in those counties from which complete figures are available showed a 4.7 percent increase, indicating that these were more hunters west of the Blue Ridge this year. In Craig, Botetourt and Giles, the only counties for which complete data is available, the hunter success ratio was 1 deer for each 8.4 hunters.

In the High Girls League, Bayside girls suffered defeat by the hands of Seaboard 28-20.

Girls Basketball

VIRGINIA BEACH — January 12th was the opening day for Recreation Basketball in the Elementary and High Girls Leagues, under the supervision of the Union Kempsville Division of the City Recreation Department.

In the opening action, Seatack Elementary Girls edged out C & K 6-5. Seatack held the lead the entire game. At half time, the score was 4-1 in favor of Seatack. In the second half, C & K outscored Seatack 4-2. However, Seatack's lone 2 points was enough to put the game on ice for the Devilettes of Seatack.

The game's top scorers were Sharlene Hume of Seatack with four points and Dale Anthony of C & K with four points.

In the High Girls action, C & K and Seatack did battle, with C & K emerging the winner in close low scoring contest.

Foul shots proved to be the most important weapon of the game. C & K made three foul shots out of six attempts, while Seatack went 0 for two at the line. The final score was C & K 13, Seatack 12.

Top offensive players of the game were: Janice Macer of Seatack with six points, Jacqueline Skinner of Seatack with four points, and Jeanette Cornick with two points. Top guns for C & K were: Jane Wiggins five points, Beverly Grimstead four points, Juanita Etheridge three points and Laverne Diddy with one point.

Virginia Hunt Fees Lagging

RICHMOND — Virginia fees for a hunting license rank about 13th above the lowest in the nation, based on a 1964 survey, according to the Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries. Actual comparison is difficult since most states have a small game hunting license priced about the same as Virginia's, but require a separate license for big game costing as much as the basic license. In over half of the 50 states it costs $5 or over to get licensed for both big game and small game, and in 15 states it costs $6 or over for licenses and tags to hunt deer.

Of the 5 states nearest to Virginia, four have hunting license fees higher than Virginia's and two have fishing license fees that are higher. Resident big game license fees vary from Virginia's $10.00 to a $25.00 fee in one of the midwestern states. The national average big game license fee at the time of this survey was $6.88. The average small game and big game license package was about $10.00. Although the survey did not include the number of licenses similar to Virginia's $2.00 county hunting and fishing combination, apparently many states do not have an equivalent low-priced option.

Virginia's resident hunting license fee was fixed at its current $3.50 level in 1948, and the fishing license was increased to $3.50 in 1958. To meet rising operating costs the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries will recommend that the 1966 General Assembly increase hunting and fishing license fees to $5.00 each, and establish a $9.00 state hunting and fishing combination license. Under this proposal, the sportsman who now buys both a hunting and fishing license would pay $2.00 more annually if he chose to purchase the new combination.

THE SPEED SHOP

By JACK MOORE

Did Chrysler Corp. learn an important lesson in the inaugural American 500 stock car race?

Seven Ford-sponsored machines and four Chrysler-backed autos entered this last big race of the 1965 season. Wrecks, mechanical and tire trouble sidelined four entries from each manufacturer. And that allowed the three trouble-free Fords to finish 1-3-3 in the only super-speedway skirmish of the season between the two Detroit giants.

From all indications Ford and Chrysler will be more evenly matched numerically when North Carolina Motor Speedway stages the Peach Blossom 500-miler on March 13.

Except for the replacement of Junior Johnson with Bobby Isaac, Ford will field the solid seven that scored an unprecedented 10 straight wins in 1965 races of more than 250 miles. They are American 500 winner Curtis Turner, runner-up Cale Yarborough, third place Marvin Panch, Ned Jarrett, Fred Lorenzen and Dick Hutcherson.

Chrysler returnees will be David Pearson in a Dodge, Richard Petty in a Plymouth and Jim Paschal in a Plymouth that will be prepared by Bill Ellis and not Lee Petty. Sam McQuaggy replacing Isaac in a Ray Nichols Dodge. And the return of Plymouth-driving Paul Goldsmith to NASCAR brings to life the sure-fire list of drivers that Chrysler will back in the March 13 race at the one-mile Rockingham track.

While Pearson, Petty, Paschal, McQuaggy and Goldsmith will definitely be backed by Chrysler, Lee Roy Yarborough is another top-flight chauffeur who may wind up on the Chrysler team. Yarborough reportedly has a rich sponsor lined up and is only waiting for Chrysler to supply the goodies for a Dodge. Addition of Yarborough would mean three Dodges and three Plymouths for the Rockingham race. And manufacturer-wise, that adds up to the possibility of seven Ford and six Chrysler products for the first annual Peach Blossom 500.

TORNADO PRODUCTION BOOSTED

To meet a constantly strengthening demand for the new Toronado, Oldsmobile Division has increased production of its front-wheel-drive car by 20 percent.

With this increase in production, customers will no longer need to wait for extended periods of time for delivery of their new Toronado. With this shortened customer waiting time, many more people who want to own this new vehicle will be able to place their orders and expect delivery within a reasonable period.

Oldsmobile has already produced over 20,000 Toronados. Oldsmobile dealers are making retail deliveries of these vehicles as quickly as they are received at their dealerships.

Introduced last October 14, the wide public acceptance of the Toronado made a major contribution toward Oldsmobile's shattering every sales record in its 66-year history. The division established a new record sales total of 614,937 units for calendar year 1965.

Powers Reminds Va Veterans

ROANOKE—Approximately 21,000 disabled veterans and widows of some 14,000 deceased veterans in Virginia who receive monthly pension payments were reminded today to report their annual income promptly to the Veterans Administration to avoid having their payments stopped.

William J. Powers, Manager of the VA Regional Office at Roanoke, Virginia, said that the VA has mailed to all pension recipients a punched card upon which the income report must be made. Pensioners cease under the law if the income of a pension recipient rises above an established amount.

Dependent parents who receive dependency and indemnity compensation also receive income questionnaires and their payments are similarly regulated by the amount of their income, Powers added.

Beach Man Selected

NORFOLK — Louis H. Peterson, owner and president of radio station WNOR and of Colonial Outdoor Advertising Corporation, has been selected as "Advertising Man of the Year" by the Advertising Club of Norfolk.

The award will be presented at a formal dinner meeting of the Club at the Golden Triangle ballroom on March 5.

Peterson started his long career in advertising with D'Arcy Advertising Agency in St. Louis, Mo. With that firm he was in charge of the national outdoor advertising program of Coca-Cola.

He started WNOR in 1940, after several years in Petersburg, Virginia, where he had formed an outdoor advertising company and also had started radio station WBSV.

He acquired Colonial Outdoor Advertising of Norfolk in 1958, and has expanded its operations to include North Carolina, Maryland and other sections of Virginia.

For many years, Peterson was secretary of the Outdoor Advertising Association of Virginia. He was on the original Board of Directors of the First National Bank of Norfolk.

He resides with his wife at 4902 Ocean Front, Virginia Beach.

Bond Refund Again Offered

Of Interest To Veterans

By THOMAS A. MOORE

VIRGINIA BEACH — Savings Bonds Chairman for "Virginia Beach, Earl V. Slatum, today reminded taxpayers that the Treasury Department will once again offer them the opportunity of taking income tax refunds in United States Savings Bonds.

The savings option, introduced in 1963, is in addition to the two standard options of taking tax refunds in cash or applying them to next year's tax.

"When a taxpayer elects to take his refund in Series E Bonds," Mr. Slatum said, "his money goes to work immediately on two jobs. It begins to build his financial security. At the same time, it contributes to our country's economic strength. Those who elect the U. S. Savings Bond option join millions of Americans who are investing in their country's future in this way."

"When you check the Savings Bond line on your 1963 tax form," Mr. Slatum continued, "you automatically assure yourself of two advantages: You provide yourself with an easy method of holding on to your tax refund dollars and a sure way of making it grow one-third larger at maturity. When your mark is made, the rest is automatic. For example, if you're entitled to a refund of $42, you'll get a $50 face-value Series E Bond (cost $37.50), plus a check for $4.50."

"This 25th Anniversary year of the E Bond is a good time for more taxpayers to get in on this opportunity," Mr. Slatum said. "Choosing Bonds is the surest way I know of to make your tax refund really mean something to you."

Women veterans are entitled to benefits administered by the VA under the same laws that provide benefits to the men. Women do not receive favored treatment anywhere within the range of these benefits.

Women veterans are permitted, however, to receive treatment for nonservice connected conditions in non-VA hospitals because VA facilities are not always adequate to care for female patients. This exception to the general rule; that nonservice connected conditions can be treated only in VA hospitals, is intended to provide equal opportunity for women veterans to receive medical care authorized by law.

Women veterans who served during a period of war, needing treatment for a nonservice connected condition in a medical emergency, or otherwise, may be authorized admission to a private, state or municipal hospital, provided a VA or other government facility is not reasonably available. The condition involving the availability of VA hospital facilities does not tend to imply that women veterans are not expected to travel to the VA hospital. If a bed is available, a VA hospital may be considered reasonably available even though it is necessary to travel some distance to reach the hospital location, unless, of course, the condition of the patient is such as to make travel inadvisable for medical reasons. (The only VA Hospital accepting women veterans in Virginia is Richmond, Va., "McGuire.")

The effective date of the authorization will be the date of admission, if the request for such authorization is sent to the VA within 72 hours of the time of admission. In all other cases the effective date of the authorization will be set by the time and date of the communication to the VA of the request, whatever the form. No payment can be made by the VA for hospital services rendered prior to the effective date of the authorization.

Authorization cannot be given for hospital services for pregnancy or parturition unless complicated by a pathological condition. In any case the female veteran must make the usual certification regarding inability to bear the expense of the medical services.

Complete information on this or any other phase of veterans' benefits is available at any office of the Virginia Division of War Veterans' Claims.

MEET THE CANDIDATE

Lawrence E. Marshall — A Profile

Larry Marshall was appointed to the Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors to fill the unexpired term of Carroll Clough. Marshall's appointment came four days prior to the merger of Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach. He was appointed to the board Dec. 27, 1962.

He was Bayside's representative on the Board of Supervisors only four days before becoming Bayside's representative on City Council.

As to plans for the coming campaign, Marshall said, "I'll get out and meet as many people as I can in the other boroughs and let them see me."

When he was asked about Council's reapportionment plan and the minor dissent to it, Marshall said, "I think the people at the public hearing made it plain how they felt. They were not in favor of an at-large election." This "at-large" plan was presented by several different organizations. He said if an at-large election were held, it would be possible to have all eleven men on the council elected from one of the larger boroughs.

Marshall said, "Farming is a major industry in Virginia Beach and there should be representatives from those areas. And, the tourist industry should be represented too."

"This new plan is the finest form of representation we could give the city," he said.

Marshall, commenting on the Sandbridge purchase, said the area "will provide a great area of enjoyment" for the people of Virginia Beach, Tidewater and tourists. He said it is "one of the best purchases since I have been on council, and it is one of the last, large open-land areas."

He said the construction of the Virginia Beach Toll Road and Independence and Gen. Booth Boulevards will enable the residents of Virginia Beach to get about the area easier than ever before.

Marshall said although the Industrial Commission is doing well in getting industry into the area the city "should do more to stimulate industrial growth in our city." In closing, Marshall said he will fight for the continued growth of the school system. He said, "We have one of the top school systems in the state. The schools must continue to grow." He said with the excellent school system we have it has been possible to maintain a good selection of teachers.

Marshall first came to the city in 1967 as its presently in the appliance sales department at Sears, Roebuck & Co. in Norfolk.

From 1960-62 Marshall served on the Princess Anne County Police and Trial Board.

Deer Removal Started

RICHMOND—A program of live trapping deer scheduled to begin January 12 on Jamestown Island, Colonial National Historical Park, was announced today by Chester F. Phelps, Executive Director of the Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries and Elbert Cox, Regional Director of the National Park Service, Southeast Region, Richmond. The purpose of this program is two-fold: (1) to reduce the deer population on the Island to a level compatible with prudent management of the range and, (2) to make available to the Commission surplus deer for use in connection with the management of Virginia wildlife resources.

Game Managers and U. S. Park Rangers, working cooperatively on this project expect to trap about 50 deer. The Commission has provided twelve box traps which have been placed in strategic locations on the Island. They are baited with field corn and acorns. After the deer are captured, they will be hauled by the Commission to a 6,000 acre tract near Smith Mountain Dam and Leesville Reservoir, southeast of Roanoke, where new deer herds will be established.

Studies by biologists the past several years indicate the deer population on Jamestown Island, presently estimated to be about 200, has resulted in overgrazing and a shortage of suitable food stuffs. It is believed also that this overabundance has resulted in smaller size deer and probably less reproduction than in a healthy deer herd.

The live trapping program will be continued until about 50 deer are trapped and removed from the Island. Subsequently, observations will be made to determine if it is necessary to remove additional animals.

Cardinal Garden Club

VIRGINIA BEACH — Mrs. Betty Jo Curran, home advisor for Vepco gave an interesting demonstration on "Foods with a Flair" for the January meeting of the Cardinal Garden Club. This was held in the Vepco building.

Among the foods featured were crab meat au gratin, Italian meat loaf, Italian green beans, raspberry apple salad, and apricot cake.

Before the demonstration, Mrs. Walter Beaman, president, called for a short business meeting. She welcomed guests, Mrs. Arnold Dill and Mrs. E. L. Johnson Jr.

Two new members, Mrs. J. L. Kirklighter and Mrs. Ray Downing, were formally received into the club.

Mrs. Beaman and Mrs. Donald Dollens were selected to attend the Virginia Beach Council of Garden Clubs on January 12 and they presented the yearly donation to the General Hospital of Virginia Beach at this meeting.

The February meeting of Cardinal Garden Club will be held in the home of Mrs. Harold Webb. Guest speaker will be Mrs. Virginia Hendrickson, who will talk on "Hobbies and Crafts."

Sgt. Scott

Scott of 6640 Kempsville Road, is deployed to the Naval Air Station at Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico with Marine Fighter/Attack Squadron 531. ## Game Warden Salaries Low

RICHMOND — Top salaries for Virginia Game Wardens rank 15th from the bottom among the 50 states and are some $800 below the national average, according to John H. McLaughlin, Game Commission Law Enforcement Chief. In the 10 southeastern states, four have higher warden pay scales than Virginia and 5 have equal or lower salaries based on the most recent available figures.

Virginia game wardens currently have a top salary of $5,640. Two neighboring states, Maryland and North Carolina, have much higher warden pay scales, while Tennessee has the same. Salaries of other Virginia State employees in roughly similar job categories are generally much higher than current game warden salary scales. A 15 percent pay hike for Virginia's game warden force would raise their salary scale to 27th rank from the bottom among the 50 states. Game wardens and most other Game Commission field positions are unique to this organization and have not been included in recent pay increases which have been granted other state employees.

Proposed salary increases along with a stepped up program of outdoor recreation facility acquisition and development, as recommended by the Outdoor Recreation Study Commission, have prompted the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries to request an increase in basic hunting and fishing license fees from the current $3.50 to $5.00 each. A $9.00 combination license was also recommended, making the total increase for the sportsman who buys both licenses $2.00 per year.

A retired Navy man who likes to eat his own cooking has taken over the ownership of a "working man's" restaurant in the heart of London Bridge. Cambric Inn was opened last August after Felix Wayne Acklen found the location he wanted, and after a lot of cleaning up and some remodeling, he opened his doors to the general public.

"I specialize in generous-size portions of good country food served piping hot," says Mr. Wayne, as he became known to the local patrons who depend on his place for hearty meals. Cambric Inn is open seven days a week — weekdays 8 a.m. till midnight, and Sundays from 10 a.m. to midnight. Summer-time he opens an hour earlier.

About his interest in cooking, he revealed that it stemmed from "not being able to find what he wanted to eat!" During his naval career, he often brought aboard ship such items as black-eyed peas, collards, and real smoked hams . . . and was given the run of the galley to cook them though he did not have the cook's rating. And wherever he was, he was able to enjoy the change from meals usually served in the mess halls . . . and so did his many buddies. He has mastered many dishes, but he says, though he has struggled hard with his mother's corn bread recipe, hers is still the best. But his is mouth-watering good, as will testify his many satisfied customers.

Felix Wayne Acklen was born and raised in Mangham, Louisiana, as was his wife, Joan, who is employed by the Navy Exchange in Little Creek. They live with their two children, Sharon, 16, and Buckey, 15, in Norfolk at the present time, but hope to move to the Beach in the near future. "Here we have found people like the country folk back home," he said, "and I like doing business with them. They are friendly, neighborly, and hard working. And like the meals we put out."

He is assisted in the kitchen by Louise Griffin, another expert in the art of "good country cooking."

Hoping to create the image of a family restaurant, Wayne is planning to sponsor special "nights" for neighborhood gatherings. Soon to be introduced will be a Shrimp Night . . . and others of similar nature will follow.

While he has become an expert with many dishes, the owner of Cambric Inn is interested in receiving recipes for other specialties he might try. He feels with there being so many good country cooks in the area, they might like to share some of their family favorites with him. So, look through your recipe files and send them on to: Felix Wayne Acklen, Cambric Inn, 2212 Virginia Beach Blvd., V. B. 23464.

About the name Cambric Inn . . . you'll have to ask Mr. Wayne. It's a highly amusing reason . . .

THE BIG MAN behind the counter will host your family gatherings and serve you meals like "mother wished she could make" . . .

Report Presented In Richmond

RICHMOND — The Virginia State Chamber of Commerce's Department of Industrial Development in presenting its year-end report to the Chamber's board of directors, which met last week in Richmond, made 12 recommendations for the future economic growth of Virginia.

The recommendations, along with the Chamber's Loan Guarantee Plan for financing new and existing industry which will be introduced in the current session of the General Assembly were discussed by William L. Heartwell, Jr., director of Industrial Development. The Chamber called for:

- The control through orderly planning of the development of the sprawling encroaching urban corridor and a more positive orientation to the metropolitan northeast.
- The development of new business ties with western Europe by actively promoting the location in Virginia of compatible European-based industry and the promotion of Virginia products of manufacture for sale in Western Europe.
- The full support of the Virginia Ports Authority in meeting its needs to develop the potential of Hampton Roads and our other ports.
- The proper awareness and control of the impact of Federal payrolls and new Federal programs on our economy.
- The continuing support of the Chamber's Management Relations program to protect our healthy labor climate.
- The all-out promotion of Dulles airport and a continuing effort to upgrade air service in Virginia.
- The acceleration of the building program of new technical institutions to meet the demand for more skills of our existing industry and prospective industry.

• The promotion of sales, services, distribution, and warehousing facilities.

• Additional research on the need for "satellite" industries in Virginia to better serve existing industry.

• Research and closer liaison with the Department of Agriculture to promote more actively food processing and related industry for rural sections.

• Continuing work to locate compatible industry in certain isolated pockets of the state that are lagging in economic growth.

• To promote a coordinated effort by all agencies and organizations in the state working full time in industrial development.

The report outlined the State Chamber's role in plant location community development promotion and special studies. He noted that in the past four years industry has invested more than $300,000,000 in new or expanded plants in the Commonwealth. Over 600 new manufacturing facilities have helped in providing a net gain of over 120,000 new jobs with a subsequent net gain of $500,000,000 in payrolls during the same period.

Heartwell, in releasing his report stated, "The Virginia State Chamber of Commerce is proud to have played a vital role in this new growth during 1965 and fully recognizes its continuing responsibilities to the business community of the state in meeting further challenges for economic achievement. The State Chamber has attempted at all times to coordinate its role in industrial development with that of other state agencies, utilities, railroads, financing institutions, and regional and local industrial development corporations and chambers of commerce."

Jaycees Celebrating This Week

VIRGINIA BEACH — In 1948, a group of young Virginia Beach men formed an organization called the Virginia Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce, better known as the "Virginia Beach Jaycees." It exists as a part of a large national and international organization whose membership is open only to young men between the ages of 21 and 35 years. Jaycees are young men with a common desire to succeed in their respective fields and to make a greater contribution to the welfare of their communities, the nation, and the world. Thus, leadership training through community service is the goal of the Virginia Beach Jaycees.

In attempting to attain these objectives, the Jaycees conduct various "projects" during the year, designed to improve the community in which we live and work. As an example, for the past few years, the Jaycees have sponsored the Miss Virginia Beach Pageant as a preliminary to the Miss Virginia and the Miss America Contests.

Miss Virginia Beach, 1965-66, is Miss Kathy Carson. Kathy is 18 years of age, is a 1965 graduate of Princess Anne High School, and is now attending Frederick College where she is majoring in biology. Becoming Miss Virginia Beach is no easy task. It requires exceptional talent, poise, and beauty, but to the girl possessing these attributes, the rewards are high. Kathy is truly exceptional in all three areas. She will compete for the title of Miss Virginia in Roanoke, July 29th. The Jaycees believe that they are sending to Roanoke the next Miss Virginia. Other projects of importance to our city which are run by the Jaycees include:

Welcome New Teachers — A project conducted to make the new teachers of your children welcome in our community.

Teacher Appreciation — A vote of thanks for helping our children to learn.

Policeman of the Year — An exceptional member of our police force is recognized for his contribution to our welfare and safety.

Jaycee Christmas — A Christmas for underprivileged children.

First Citizen — Recognition of an individual annually who does the most to make our community a better place in which to live.

Surfing Carnival — A national and east coast contest designed to afford competition in a fast-growing sport, and to publicize our city as a water resort area. Handicapped Boy Scouts — The Jaycees help handicapped boys to become useful citizens through the Boy Scouts.

Sports—Many projects including football, golf, tennis, and wrestling are conducted to help teach young citizens to become better competitors.

These are but a few of the ways in which our Jaycees are working daily and usually behind the scene to make your city a better community in which to work, play, and live.

The Virginia Beach Jaycees make this pledge to you for the future: We will continue to utilize the young manpower of Virginia Beach for public service, and continue to maintain the conviction that youth is not a handicap for participation in municipal affairs. We believe that "service to humanity is the best work of life."

VIRGINIA BEACH — A retired businessman who died in his Virginia Beach home last month has left gifts totaling $44,000 to charitable organizations.

James B. White, 62, retired vice-president of Columbian Peanut Co. of Norfolk, resided in the 300 block of 51st St.

The General Hospital of Virginia Beach and the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd on Laskin Road were each left $10,000.

The Virginia Beach Rescue Squad received $2,000.

White left the majority of his personal estate to his widow, Mrs. Carrie T. White and other relatives. The Virginia National Bank was named executor of the will, which was probated in Virginia Beach Circuit Court.

White, who died last Dec. 4, was born in Gates County, N. C. but had been living in the area for 77 years.

Other bequests of the will included Norfolk General Hospital, $5,000; DePaul Hospital, $5,000; St. Mary's Infant Home in Norfolk, $2,000; Temple University Hospital Tumor Clinic in Philadelphia, $5,000; and Sloan Kettering Institute for Cancer Research in New York, $5,000.

VNB Is Now Ranked 95th

NORFOLK — Virginia National Bank now ranks 95th in size among all the commercial banks in the United States, which number some 13,000.

The advance and new rank were made known to VNB officials by Upton E. Liptrott, president of American Banker, the daily banking newspaper in New York. Liptrott further advised that a complete and official listing of the qualified institutions will appear soon in his publication.

Receipt of the official notification was received by R. Cosby Moore, chairman of the board. At the end of 1955 the state-wide banking institution revealed an increase in assets to more than $945 million as contrasted with $499 million at the end of 1954. Net earnings for Virginia National, after taxes, were $4,494,732 or $2.44 per share, an increase of nine per cent over the previous year.

On December 31, VNB listed sixty-two offices in twenty-nine Virginia communities.

Vandals Hurt Boys' Vessel

VIRGINIA BEACH — Sometime between 1 a.m. and 8 a.m. Saturday, vandals reared destruction on the Sea Scout Ship 67, a 56-ft. ex-minesweeper being renovated by the Sea Scouts, and may have put an end to the dreams of the boys who have been working hard at fitting her out since salvaging the old ship from the beach at Charleston, S. C. last Easter.

Skipper Ron Hines said that four half-inch holes were found in the hull of the boat after he and another Navy man, Engineer LC Seward Anderson, pumped out the one and one-half feet of water found in the sinking craft.

It is beyond their ability to repair the two diesel engines which were soaked with salt water, but Hines is hopeful that the Navy will help them.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank A. Dusch, Mayor of the City of Virginia Beach, Va., do proclaim February to be Heart Month within the jurisdiction of my office, and call upon all our citizens to support this important drive with their gifts and volunteer service.

NEW BRIDGE — Construction is reported on schedule in the rebuilding of Cox's bridge that spans London Bridge Creek on South Lynnhaven Road. The old bridge hardly had enough room for two automobiles to pass each other, and the way it was constructed made a serious curve in the road. The new bridge will be 36 feet wide, and land is being cleared on either side of it in an effort to straighten out the curve. The bridge is scheduled for completion later this month. ### AREA'S BIGGEST BUSINESS

Naval Spending Was More Than $2 Billion In 1965

TIDEWATER — The Navy promises to remain Tidewater's biggest business during the forthcoming year despite an indefinite postponement of $20 million of military construction recently ordered by the Secretary of Defense.

A slow but continuing upward trend of navy spending in Tidewater in the past twelve months offsets the building delay and, in all but the construction field, indicates that prosperity will continue to be the theme both here and nationwide.

The total Navy contribution to the local economy passed $2 billion, $5 million dollars in 1965, an increase of $345 million over expenditures in 1964.

Navy spending locally for goods and services in an average month reached $104 million during November, the last months for which statistics are available. This represents an increase of $25.5 million over the same monthly period in 1964. Not included in this figure is a monthly civilian payroll of $16.9 million and a military payroll of $8.5 million. The military payroll figure is slightly lower than the same figure in 1964, probably due to the absence of major warships from Hampton Roads in November.

There was a drop in the total number of military personnel and dependents in the Tidewater area during 1965, but the dollar payrolls for military did not reduce in the same proportion because of a 10.7 percent pay increase in September.

There was a small drop in the active duty military population of about 4,000 since 1964; a drop in the number of civilian employees by 400, and a reduction in the dependent population of 2,200. The number of retired persons in the area has increased slightly since 1964.

With this reduction in the number of personnel serving in Tidewater has come a reduction in the total annual military payroll. Contributing to this lower military payroll has also been a shift in the proportion of senior enlisted personnel to the total military population. There has been roughly a 30 percent reduction in senior enlisted men in the area with a corresponding increase in the number of young, lower-paid enlisted personnel.

Travel Sets New Record

CAPE CHARLES, VA. — More than one million vehicles crossed Virginia's Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel in 1965 during its first full calendar year of operation.

Commission Chairman Lucius J. Kelham said the 17.6-mile facility served 1,167,602 vehicles and took in $7,561,302 in toll revenue. He reported at the monthly Commission meeting.

The figures represent an increase of 13 per cent in traffic and 10.3 per cent in revenue over 1964 Kelham said. Figures for 1964, which included three months of ferry operation before the Bridge-Tunnel opened on April 15, were 1,033,237 vehicles and $6,873,708 in revenue.

Predictably, the heaviest traffic flow occurred during the six months of April through September, peaking in July and August. The year's traffic included 950,227 automobiles, 193,195 trucks and 24,299 buses. Together they carried 2,138,038 paying passengers (six years old and above) in addition to the drivers. They rolled up more than 22,000,000 miles of travel between the toll terminals in Virginia Beach and in Northampton County on the opposite side of Chesapeake Bay.

By vehicle category, 1965 traffic showed a percentage increase over 1964 of 13.9 for automobiles, 10.4 for trucks and 1.5 for buses.

While the number of dependents has decreased, allotment figures remained constant because of military pay raises.

Expenditures for goods and services (public vouchers) show an increase of $13.5 million over 1964 and of $387 million over 1963. Civilian payrolls continue this trend with an increase of $33.5 million over last year and 91.1 million over 1963.

Navy expenditures for goods and services in 1965 amounted to $1,021,000,000; civilian pay totaled $187,202,987 in that year. Although military pay ashore decreased by $5 million over the 1964 figure, it still shows a significant increase over the 1963 pay figure of $38,782,847.

The combined total of public vouchers, pay to active and retired personnel, and allotments bring the Navy contribution to the Tidewater economy to $3,045,182,000. That figure for 1964 was $1,800,000,000.

Not included in these figures are payrolls of fleet units while deployed, since they receive funds from other military pay sources when not operating in the Hampton Roads area. Much of this money returns to Norfolk as support for dependents residing here and to pay installment, charge and bank accounts maintained in the home port city.

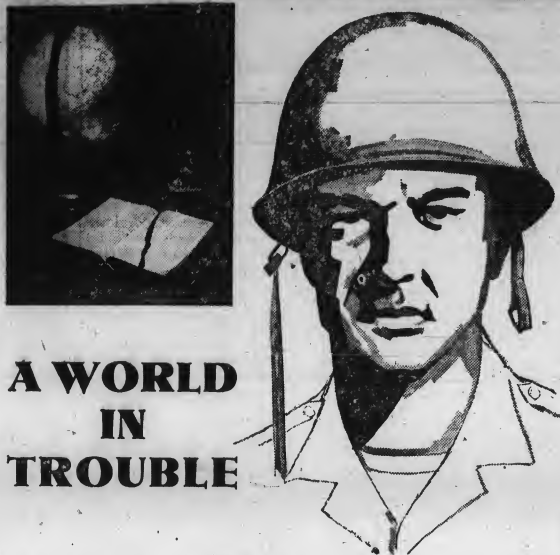

PINK LADY GIVES RED BLOOD — Mrs. Ried F. Erwin, known to her many friends as "Punkie," works in the Coffee shop and in other capacities twice a week at the General Hospital of Virginia Beach. Last week she also gave blood when the Bloodmobile arrived. The Red Cross office announced that 11 productive plasma was collected at this visit. (photo by Cassandra)

STRONG CHURCHES...

A WORLD IN TROUBLE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend service regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

What has happened to this marvelous world of ours in this twentieth century of God's grace? Mankind seems to be passing through a sea of troubles which has no counterpart in human history.

There are wars and rumors of wars among the nations, and many of the nations themselves are split into warring factions, each faction striving for supremacy, and each intolerant of the views, hopes, and rights of others.

The great trouble with the world is that men have forgotten God. They no longer seek spiritual guidance, but follow the vain ways of the modern world. We have become a cynical, materialistic generation.

If this drift toward world tragedy and chaos is ever stopped, the churches of the world must do it. The world's hope — our hope — is in God and His Church. He alone can save mankind from a sorrowful fate.

The Church seeks to turn the hearts of men from the ways of war and hate to the ways of peace and love.

Tours Begun At Museum

RICHMUND — The Council of the Virginia Museum has begun regularly scheduled tours of the galleries.

Members of the Council, the volunteer women's organization of the Virginia Museum, will conduct the tours on a non-scheduled basis at 1:30 and 3 p.m. Tuesday through Friday.

This new service permits casual visitors to the Museum to avail themselves of a tour without scheduling it beforehand. The Council began three years ago conducting tours through the galleries on a prior-scheduling basis.

The new general tour schedule parallels the special morning tours conducted for Richmond school children by the docents of the Junior League.

Mrs. Charles H. Phillips, Jr., Council chairman of the new tour guides program, said there are 38 Council volunteers participating in the program initially.

She said that many of the tour guides have educational backgrounds in art history and that all have taken a special 36-hour orientation course on the art in the Museum's collections.

Harry Robertson, supervisor of art services for the Museum, said the guides last year took some 12,000 adults and school children through the Museum's 19 galleries on pre-scheduled tours that — like the new ones — were each of about an hour's duration.

News Item Calls Actress

By DORIS PADRICK
A world traveler, who calls Italy home, has settled in Virginia Beach for the winter. Anita Parks is a sculptor who enjoys acting... and vice versa. Seeing a news article calling for try-outs in the Virginia Beach Little Theatre, she read and won the part of "Maxine" in the upcoming "Night of the Igguana."

"I didn't know anyone here," said Mrs. Parks, "except my friend from whom we rent the house." But her many-sided interest in creative expression proved an asset in gaining both the part and new friends.

Proof of her talent with the hammer and chisel is her winning of "The Butler" — a national award presented once a year by the Butler Museum in Youngstown, Ohio. She works mainly with marble, and finds its challenge fascinating. Sculpting's three-dimensional approach to art expression brings forth a study and creativity of ideas different from other phases.

Having found she prefers the big pieces of stone, she revealed that she begins with an idea, seeks the stone most suitable to the project, makes a few sketches, then starts "banging away." The air hammer is used at first to get the main "outline, then the simple hammer and chisel goes to work for the more intricate details. Every angle must be right, says Mrs. Parks, or you may end up with a nothing.

Born in Paris of American parents, she was educated in a Spanish convent and was 45 years old before setting foot on her native land. They lived in New York for a while. She got her art training in Cleveland, but was an actress before becoming a sculptor, having played in the Cleveland Playhouse and with a little theatre group in Athens, Greece, among others.

Her children are Denise, age 11, whom she describes as a "funny little girl," meaning that she keeps them all entertained with her off-beat sense of humor; and Addison, 12, who shows signs of being a rather talented painter for a boy his age. A mural which he painted now hangs in Rome. She admits

Play Change In Norfolk

NORFOLK — Romanoff and Juliet, by playwright-director, actor Peter Ustinov has replaced the originally scheduled Shakespearean production, "Much Ado About Nothing," as the third offering of the Norfolk Little Theatre's 1965-1966 season.

Romanoff and Juliet will play at the Norfolk Little Theatre February 4-12 and February 23-25. The theatre's box office will be open daily from 3 to 7 PM beginning Monday, January 31 for reservations and tickets. Those organizations, clubs or groups interested in "theatre parties," blocs of seats and "benefit performances" are urged to telephone the director's office at the theatre, MA 5-4085 for special arrangements. A "Theatre Party" is a good means to raise funds for your favorite charity or organization.

Starring in the Ustinov comedy will be Norfolk Little Theatre veteran Joe Frieden. Rounding out the cast are Lina Tyler, Hugh Bergeron, Ty Silbert, Sandy Blake-Gray, Susan Epstein, Charles Bailey, Tom Mathews, Gordon Creevy, Virginia Coltrane and Dean Britco.

The plot of Romanoff and Juliet is a sort of jovial daydream in which a Russian ambassador's son and a U.S. ambassador's daughter fall in love. Before her meets girl, Ustinov pokes fun at U.S. ambassadors who grow on Princeton crews and boards of directors, and at Russians who mouth their jargon while wishing they could be done with all Soviet folderol. The author apparently likes people and believes they'd be pretty decent if it weren't for the world they have to live in.

Peter Ustinov wrote, directed and starred in Romanoff and Juliet when it played successfully for long runs to both London and American audiences a number of seasons ago. Wolcott Gibbs of the New Yorker magazine called the play — "A delight—as funny as anything you will see this season." The General (Ustinov) is superb as a shuffles from one embassy to the other, disclosing terribly complex diplomatic secrets ("Do you know that they know that you know that they have broken your code?"). And while telling his tale of a make-believe country where love is more important than guided missiles, playwright Ustinov pokes a lot of fun at the Russians, the Americans and at small European nations—indeed, at all man-made boundary lines.

Band Will Play Sat.

VIRGINIA BEACH — "The Band of Music," sponsored by Colonial Williamsburg, will present a concert of 18th century music Saturday, Jan. 21, from 4-6 p.m. at the Virginia Beach Dome.

The program is a feature of the annual membership exhibit of the Virginia Beach Art Association and is open to the public. There will be no admission charge.

The band was formed to promote an interest in 18th century music, and is led by conductor George Carroll. Carroll is also director of the Williamsburg Drum and Fife Corps.

All instruments in the band are either antiques or exact replicas of the 1700's.

"Nutcracker" Sun

VIRGINIA BEACH — "The Nutcracker," a story of a little German girl who receives a nutcracker as a gift which gets broken by her brother and her attempts to mend it, will be portrayed by the Children's Theater of Performing Arts at Virginia Beach High School on Sunday afternoon. Two performances will be presented; one at 1:30 and the other at 4 p.m.

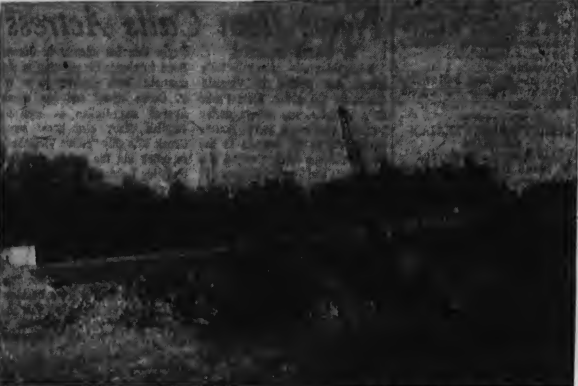

She falls asleep and in her dreams the Nutcracker comes alive and leads her through a world of fantasy. Good and evil are both experienced on her dream travels.

The cast is comprised of 45 members ranging from ages 6 to 20 and the production is a combination of both drama and dance.

Guest artists will be the members of the Norfolk Civic Ballet. Tickets at $1 for children and $1.50 for adults are available at Peoples Drug Stores.

Bridge is moving along rapidly. On several nights work has continued until past midnight in an effort to complete the grading and paving before the rainy season. Crews have almost completed the grading for one side of the overpass at South Great Neck Road. Feeder roads in the area have been closed to traffic. (Staff Photo by Moore)

CELEBRATION OF THE LASKIN ROAD OVERPASS — Work on the building of an underpass where the present overpass is now located is progressing well. The old bridge, 11 years old, will be removed and an unobstructive underpass will take its place. The Laskin road section of the exchange will be lowered to ground level and Virginia Beach Boulevard will go through the underpass. (Staff photo by Moore)

New Acquisitions Now On Display

RICHMOND — The Virginia Museum's most recent art acquisitions went on view to the public for the first time in an exhibition which opened last week.

The expression, "all dressed up with no place to go," tells the story of the art in this diversified exhibition comprised of art objects the Museum has been unable to display in its permanent installations because of lack of gallery space.

Everything from third century Roman jewelry to a painting by contemporary artist Andrew Wyeth is included in the exhibition, appropriately titled, "Arts Unseen." Many of the items, most of which have been acquired within the last 18 months, have been in dark storage rooms hidden from view because of the space problem.

This special exhibition, to be housed at the Museum's temporary exhibitions gallery during its showing through February 6, will be seen in tandem with a visual exposition of the cultural center's proposed plans for a $5.6 million expansion of its headquarters facility.

Called "Building for the Arts," this part of the exhibition will include a model of the expanded structure, written and pictorial descriptions of the Museum's work and explanations of how the art on display will be accommodated in the proposed enlarged building.

The General Assembly, which convened this month, will be asked for $3.5 million to begin the initial phase of the project—a new south wing to house galleries and administrative functions.

Included in the "Arts Unseen" portion of the exhibition will be a variety of objects — jewelry, statuary, furniture, paintings, prints, tapestries, rugs and other decorative arts.

The space problem will be visually apparent when visitors see such objects as the 9 by 12 foot 18th century French tapestry depicting a scene from Don Quixote. It is one of the six matched tapestries which originally hung in Louis XIV's palace at Marly and which eventually will be placed in the entrance pavilion of the proposed new north wing.

Space limitations also have prevented adequate exhibition of the Museum's growing collections of rugs and furniture. The acquisition of paintings alone has long since consumed available wall space in the galleries.

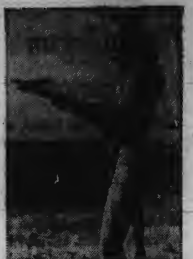

The continuing acquisition of fine original art is the function of a growing institution like Virginia's 30-year-old Museum, but it can be a discouraging experience when there is no place to exhibit it.

The cause of this satisfying, though frustration, state of affairs has been the generosity of private citizens who have given the Museum works of art or grants of money with which to make purchases. (The State, which appropriates money for the operation and maintenance of the headquarters building, does not finance or exercise any authority over the acquisition of art objects.)

Besides bequests and endowments of money to purchase art, many friends of the Museum have chosen to bequeath personal collections of art. In recent years, the Council — the volunteer women's organization of the Museum — has sponsored a fund for the purchase of graphic arts. Meanwhile, the Collectors' Circle of the Museum has voted an annual donation given to the Museum to be used for art purchases.

Private interest in the development of the Museum's collections preceded even the building itself with Judge John Barton Payne's gift of paintings in 1919. Generous endowments given by Adolph D. and Wilkins C. Williams, and Arthur and Margaret Glasgow in the early 1950's substantially strengthened ened the Museum's purchasing resources.

Claudine Auger plays "Domino," the new James Bond girl in "Thunderball," opening Wednesday, January 26 at the Princess Theatre, through United Artists release. In Technicolor and Panavision, this fourth 007 movie again stars Sean Connery as Bond. Miss Auger incidentally is not about to go spear-fishing.

In light of the high prices demanded in today's art market, the Museum's resources are modest. But they have been sufficient to build an intelligently organized and well-rounded collection of art that has earned it a reputation as one of the South's best.

If the General Assembly matches the generosity of private citizens by financially underwriting the expansion plans of the Museum, it will not be long before these newest art treasures can be made constantly available to all.

Heart Ills Drop

There has been a 7½ percent decline in the cardiovascular death rate among U. S. men, aged 45-64, 1960-1962. This overall gain, according to your Heart Association, has been achieved even though the mortality rate due to heart attack is still going up.

Center Opens

VIRGINIA BEACH — Seastack Community Center was the setting for the Christmas Party of the Daughters of St. Mark A. M. E. Church held December 21 and was the first event held at the Center for adults since it has been built.

Among the more than 60 people present were special guests, the Rev. and Mrs. Felton and daughter, the Rev. and Mrs. David Wright of Pleasant Ridge A. M. E. Zion Church, the Rev. and Mrs. Chase of Mt. Olive Baptist Church, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chapp, and many others.

Mrs. Mary Parsons, program chairman, with her committee, Mrs. Curtis and Mrs. Smith, decorated the Center. Gifts were exchanged between members, and special gifts were presented to the Rev. and Mrs. Felton, and to the outgoing president, Mrs. Duella Graves, who held the presidential seat for 9 years, and the Elder Mother of St. Mark.

Gifts were also given to the three men responsible for the original idea of building the center—Aaron Parsons, Preston Watkin, and the Rev. David Wright.

Guarding Your Child's Heart

The heart you save may be the heart of a child, perhaps not yet born.

Or maybe it's a "blue baby," half a child, who will soon be given the gift of a full life by a miraculously complex and delicate open-heart operation.

Or it could be your own healthy youngster, who will be protected from the dreaded rheumatic fever aftermath of a "strep" infection by prompt treatment with penicillin.

All these young hearts and thousands more are the direct and dramatic beneficiaries of a mere two decades of medical progress. Twenty years ago, the outlook for a blue baby — a baby born with certain defects of the heart and blood vessels — was poor. Open-heart surgery was still in the realm of science fiction, and heart-lung machines were only projects on an investigator's drawing board. Before medicine had a sure-fire weapon—penicillin—to knock out streptococcal infections, "strep" throats cast a sinister shadow of rheumatic fever whenever they struck. And because there were no defenses, they might strike again and again, each time carrying the threat of more damage to the victim's heart.

Even the statistics are dramatic. The death rate for rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart disease among children and young adults 5-24 years of age has declined 65 percent over the past 20 years. As many as 100,000 Americans probably owe their lives to heart surgery. And for the thousands of youngsters with a history of rheumatic fever, protection is available against repeat attacks, while the menace of initial onset has been lifted for untold thousands now growing to adulthood.

And then there are the babies who could never have been born before the era of open-heart surgery. Surgical repair of a number of inborn or acquired heart defects has enabled many women to conceive and bear children. Necessary corrective surgery has even been carried out during pregnancy, with survival of both mother and baby.

Each year we gain new knowledge and new weapons, giving more and more children a chance to live and grow normally. As scientists learn more about the manner in which heart defects arise in the developing embryo, even the frontier of life before birth will be breached.

Medical research will one day find the answer to the big rheumatic fever question: how do streptococcal infections trigger an attack of rheumatic fever, why are only a small percentage susceptible, and what causes the heart damage rheumatic fever may leave in its wake? This knowledge can help us to consign rheumatic fever to medical limbo, along with such former scourges as smallpox and polio.

The American Heart Association has been an important motive power in the heart disease research in this country since the First Heart Fund campaign in 1949. The money given by Americans, year after year, has been the sustaining power, making medical progress possible, and also making it possible for the Heart Association to translate this progress into life-saving educational and community service programs.

Sancilio To Head Drive

VIRGINIA BEACH — Lawrence Anthony Sancilio, prominent young local businessman, will head the Annual April Cancer Crusade for the Virginia Beach Unit, American Cancer Society. Mr. Sancilio has been active in civic affairs here for many years, and has been the recipient of several awards for outstanding service to our community.

Mrs. Robert S. Walsh, Jr., president, is extremely enthusiastic about Mr. Sancilio, and is confident that under his able leadership the Crusade will exceed all former goals. All programs of the Unit must continue to function efficiently if the needs of our city are to be met. These programs, consisting of service, education, and research are essential to cancer patients, cancer prevention, and the ultimate goal—the complete eradication of all cancer.

Mr. Sancilio will announce his committee chairman in the very near future, and with their help and the complete support of all residents, the April Cancer Crusade will be an overwhelming success.

EXAMINATION TIME — Only the rustle of papers, the faint scratching of pens, and a few sighs of perplexity broke the stillness of concentration as the 400 would-be real estate salesmen and brokers struggled over technical questions which, hopefully will make them full-fledged licensed agents. This busy scene was taken by Kermit M. Hale, administrator of the registration boards of the Commonwealth of Virginia, on Thursday morning at the Civic Center.

State Wide RE Exams Given

VIRGINIA BEACH — Men and women interested in real estate packed the auditorium of the Civic Center for two days last week to take the examination required to become licensed brokers or salesmen. In the group were 70 taking the broker's exam and 330 to become salesmen, and they came from all over the state.

Exams are given monthly except December, and in various sections of the state. Because of its large auditorium, the Civic Center was chosen for the exam site in January.

The Virginia Real Estate Commission gives the tests in order to protect the public from uninformed salesmen and from unethical practices. It has been a law since 1925 that real estate agents be licensed. The business of buying and selling property can become so involved that it is important for all parties concerned to be protected. This can best be handled by a licensed real estate agent.

While most of the students taking the tests hope to become salesmen or brokers many are homeowners who take courses in order to protect their town interests. Preparation courses are available from the state universities and colleges. The State Association and the local Board of Realtors sponsor an educational program of their own, and lately, the Distributive Education has branched into the real estate field and there are correspond-courses for those too far away to attend classes.

But no matter how they studied or for what reason, 400 of them came to Virginia Beach to take tests.

Wednesday's session was in the form of a seminar in which highly respected men and women who deal in real estate presented informative lectures. J. Burk White, Jr., of the Virginia Beach Real Estate Board introduced the speakers. On the program were Mrs. Juanita S. Dickson of Dickson Realty who spoke on ethics and conduct; James P. McGee, an attorney; and Arthur L. Westcott, financing.

Thursday was exam day, and the time allowed was four hours—

New Brochure Released

RICHMOND — A new brochure "Virginia Annual Events—1967" has been released by the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, according to Irvy H. Hollans, Jr., the Chamber's director of travel development. The small brochure covers 40 major events in 23 Virginia communities. It is published in addition to the quarterly "Calendar of Events" brochure which the State Chamber releases the first of January, April, July and October of each year.

"The new folder covers events that should be of interest to our tourists as well as to Virginians," Hollans said. The theme of the new brochure, which features a photograph of one of the three ships at Jamestown, is "Discover America . . . in Virginia, birthplace of our nation, at Jamestown, 1607." "Discover America" is the theme being used nationally this year to encourage Americans to travel at home rather than abroad. Hollans said. The State of Virginia in its advertising and promotion will enlarge on this theme, he pointed out, by adding " . . . in Virginia, birthplace of our nation."

The brochure, along with others recently published by the State Chamber, will be sent to travel offices across the nation, in Canada and to foreign countries through the U. S. Travel Service. Copies may be secured by contacting any local chamber of commerce or the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce and the Division of Public Relations and Advertising, Department of Conservation and Economic Development in Richmond.

Events Com. Plan Ahead

VIRGINIA BEACH — The newly appointed Special Events committee of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce had its initial meeting recently at the Bay Harbor Club to program events for 1966.

Reappointed chairman Laura Lambie reviewed the 1965 schedule for the nine committee members attending out of the twelve serving. Sitting in on the meeting were Chamber president R. B. Talley and executive vice-president Albin Mathies.

It was agreed that the Easter Boardwalk Parade and Children's Week should be repeated. Chairmen named for the Easter Parade were Charles Marburton, general chairman; Mrs. Lois Nelson and Michael Savides, vice-chairmen, and Mrs. Dave Miller, decorations chairman. Other appointments will be announced later. Harold Whitehurst was named chairman of the Children's Week; Dr. J. M. Williams and Wilbur O'Connell, vice-chairmen, and additional members will be announced later.

Two committees were named to explore the possibility of a Science Week and a Norwegian Independence Day Festival. Mrs. Patricia Bragg, Roger Scott and Sam Scott are to investigate the advisability of a Science Week, and Mrs. George Leary and Mrs. George Davis will report on the proposed Norwegian Independence Day Festival.

The chairman proposed that committee members present additional events for consideration at the next meeting to be held January 23th.

Comprising the Events Committee are: Chairman Laura Lambie of Laura Lambie Advertising, Inc.; Samuel Scott, director of the Civic Center; Roger Scott, assistant to City Manager; Mrs. Lois Nelson, chairman of Public Information, Tidewater Chapter of the Red Cross; Michael Savides, Black Angus Restaurant; Mrs. George Davis, Aetol Motel; Mrs. George Davis, Aetol Motel; Mrs. George Davis, Aetol Motel.

Rheumatic fever, frequent forerunner of rheumatic heart disease, now can be prevented in most instances, according to your Heart Association.

Heart Sunday And You

The heart and blood vessel diseases are now costing this nation about 1,000,000 lives yearly. They account for about 54 percent of all deaths. Latest statistics indicate that about 14,600,000 adult Americans suffer from heart disease, and an additional 6,900,000 are victims of hypertension. In addition to the 14,500,000 persons with definite heart disease, there are 13,000,000 persons with suspect heart disease.

Is the outlook hopeless? Not at all. For those aged below 65, the tide has seemingly begun to turn. Since the onset of massive cardiovascular research programs in 1950 there has been a 15 percent decline in the death rate from heart and blood vessel disease among men and women aged below 65. For men aged 45-64 the overall decline was 7½ percent, 1959-1962, despite an actual increase in the death rate due to heart attack.

Now is the time to remember that this life-or-death fight has one central, spearheading force — your Heart Association. It has been in the thick of the battle since the first Heart Fund Campaign in 1949. It has the support, confidence and direction of 30,000 physicians and scientists — men and women who represent the most authoritative body of opinion on heart disease in the United States.

Now also is the time to remember that you have a very definite stake in this fight, since hearts come only one to a customer. Be generous. When your Heart Sunday volunteer calls at your home, give her a warm welcome. Open your heart, and your pocketbook. Give — so more will live.

COOKING ANIMAL FEEDS

Imagine feeding something like popcorn, corn sticks or puffed breakfast cereals to livestock; seems silly, doesn't it? But who knows what another few years will bring.

A. J. Lambert, agricultural engineer at Virginia Tech, told me of a research report at the recent American Society of Agricultural Engineers meeting that makes this possibility less remote.

The report was on a piece of equipment called an expander. It is used to cook and puff a variety of animal feeds where the porous structure and density of the final product is as important as the cooking. This includes stock feed, small animal feed and some cattle feed.

The expander is a relatively simple piece of equipment that consists of a screw auger with interrupted flights in a tube electrically powered. Water is injected at one valve and steam at two other valves. At the end of the auger, the cooked or expanded grain is extruded through a die plate. The material remains in the expander only 30 seconds; so it cooks a very short time.

Studies were made regarding the action of the expander on food constituents of the grain feed. The paper reported on water, ash, food fiber, fat, protein and nitrogen-free extract.

Right now, it seems to have little application on the farm, but a few years may make a difference!

There's at least one Texas cattle feeding operation that believes cooking improves grains. More than 25,000 steers are fed each year and the manager believes that cooked grain feed offers more pounds of gain per steer per day than uncooked grain feed. Nutritionists undoubtedly agree with this conclusion.

Book Reviewed

VIRGINIA BEACH — Everyone who has time or takes the time to read today realizes how controversial books have become. They may be immortal or immoral but shelves everywhere, in school and home, libraries and book shops, give access to young and old to reading material subject to discussion. A friend said recently: "I read everything I can get my hands on..." Youth has the same privilege.

"To Kill a Mockingbird" has been banned in Hanover schools, "Catcher in the Rye," "Grapes of Wrath" and "1984" by G. Artwell, in some places are prohibited reading, although "1984" contrarily deals with the subject of regimented society being told what to do and what to read by its rulers.

Last week the Book Review Committee of the YWCA, Mrs. Joseph Crawford, chairman, and a large audience of book lovers were privileged to hear Virginia Beach High School principal, James C. Mounie, review James Mitchener's "The Source."

The meeting was held at the First Presbyterian Church on Pacific Avenue, and the talk was followed by lively discussion. When asked by a listener: "Does this book represent a purpose and a concern for the chaotic condition of the world today?" Mr. Mounie hesitated, but replied that anyone who could complete the entire book would certainly discover the purpose. Also, that a writer of books like "Fires of Spring" and the most popular "Hawaii" must have a purpose.

"As for the chaotic world," said Mounie, "any book that deals in the history of the Arabs and the Jews certainly covers a chaotic

Vestry Officers

LYNNHAVEN — At their first Vestry meeting for 1966, held January 10, St. Francis' Episcopal Church Vestry elected the following men to be their officers: Alton P. Stone, Jr., senior warden; William T. Ashworth, junior warden; Charles E. Garrison, treasurer; and Mrs. Lawrence A. James, registrar.

The 9 men Vestry signed the Qualifying Declaration required by Canon Law and then proceeded with the evening's business. A worship service led by Mr. Crigger, the Vicar, opened the meeting.

St. Francis looks to an exciting year and growth enough to become an independent Parish in 1967.

Kellam on IFC

William Garland (Bill) Kellam, Presbyterian College senior, is serving as one of six representatives on the Inter-Fraternity Council at PC during the 1965 session. Bill represents Theta Chi on the Council, which regulates fraternity social activities on the campus. A graduate of VBHS, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William P.

subject and that any book which cleared up more fully the outlook, position and future of this race should stimulate thought."

"The Source" gets its name from the fact that the Jewish people are the spring from which emanated the ideals of Christianity and emphasizes the constant and continuing understanding and patience of their race through persecution and hardships.

League Of Women Voters

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Norfolk-Virginia Beach League of Women Voters welcomes as new members Mrs. Luigi deLassandrin, 5331 Riverwood Road, Norfolk; Mrs. Robert Schaller, 2820 Timber Neck Trail, and Mrs. Roy Smith, 311 48th Street.

The Virginia Beach Day Unit will meet on Tuesday, January 25 from 10 to 12 noon at Eastern Shore Chapel. The Night Unit will meet on Thursday, January 27 at 8 pm in the Fellowship Room of Galilee Episcopal Church.

Both meetings will consider, in accordance with the 64 LAMV National Convention's decision the Development of Human Resources of The Great Society.

Luncheon for Legislators

Eight League board members and eleven of the 15 Norfolk and Virginia Beach General Assembly members had lunch together on December 14. The purpose was to inform these gentlemen of the legislation which the League hopes to see enacted, to hear their views and to obtain advice on how they could work together most effectively.

Abolition of the poll tax, aid to dependent children, increased financial support for mental health needs, statewide compulsory school attendance laws and abolition of tuition grants composed the list of topics discussed.

The legislative chairman, Mary Rose Curtis, phone 623-2973, is with her committee organizing car pools and possibly a chartered bus to observe the state government in action in Richmond.

Be absolutely sure of your target before you pull that trigger this hunting season, cautions the Virginia Game Commission. A missed opportunity for a shot at game is slight indeed when compared to a lifetime of regret that can follow a hasty decision.

The American Heart Association and its affiliates and chapters have channeled more than 110 million Heart Fund dollars into research since 1949, according to your Heart Association.

Young hunters are responsible for a large portion of the hunting accidents which occur in Virginia each fall, says the Game Commission. Don't take a youngster into the woods without a thorough briefing on safe gun handling. Set a good example for him and your other hunting companions.

Virginia Beach Then . . .

OLD HOSPITAL — This old structure was the Virginia Beach General Hospital until July 1965. It served the Virginia Beach Borough well, but could not serve the large city when the county and city merged in 1962, so plans were made to build a new, bigger facility. The old hospital opened its doors in 1948 with a small staff. (Photo by Boice)

. . . And Now

ALMOST A YEAR OLD — The new hospital, located at Hilltop on First Colonial Road will be a year old July 1966. Offering much more space than the old hospital, the new General Hospital of Virginia Beach now can serve all of the "World's Largest Resort City." Patients are no longer faced with the long ambulance trip into Norfolk except in the case of extreme emergency. When the new hospital was opened last July, it was dedicated by Governor Albert S. Harrison. (Photo by Boice)

Hundreds of them . . . every single day. That's what John likes best about his job on the C&P plant floor. That's why he enjoys making sure communications equipment is in good working order, not just with your personal telephone, but all the way down the line. It's a lot of double-checking, on a lot of telephones, and equipment, and lines, and facilities. But John doesn't mind. He knows a lot of people depend on telephones for a lot of reasons.

Opportunity Broadened By 1965 Housing Legislation

NORFOLK — Never before have Americans had such opportunities for home ownership as are now offered through the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965. Some of the best opportunities are provided through expansion and innovation in programs of the Federal Housing Administration, which has been making home ownership possible for millions of Americans who otherwise could not have afforded it since FHA was established in 1934.

FHA does not make loans but insures loans for new and existing homes made to eligible persons by private lending institutions.

A new FHA program now allows military veterans of either war or peacetime and veterans whose eligibility period for loans under the Veterans Administration has expired, but who haven't used their veterans benefits, to obtain loans for new homes at very minimum down payments. Some 14 million veterans are eligible to participate in this program.

A provision of the Housing Act also knocked off up to $1,500 from the down payment required to buy a house under the regular FHA mortgage insurance program. Major purpose of this action was to free money that can be used on the larger, better equipped homes that today's buyers are demanding.

The provision pegs down payments at 30 percent of the amount between $20,000 and $30,000 instead of the previous 25 percent.

Limits and terms of home improvement loans under Title I of the Housing Act have been increased. Home owners can now borrow up to $5,000 for seven years, instead of up to $3,500 for five years, for improving their property.

The Act also authorized FHA and VA to allow home owners under their mortgage insurance programs to postpone mortgage payments if they are unemployed because of the closing of Federal installations.

It authorized rehabilitation grants up to $1,500 for families whose incomes do not exceed $3,000 a year, or a lower amount for home owners with higher incomes, if their properties are required to be improved because of urban renewal programs.

This way the families can remain in their homes rather than being compelled to move into another area.

New financing tools also were provided which are intended to help builders and nonprofit sponsors of projects to erect low-income and moderate-income housing and housing for the elderly and handicapped and displaced families.

Sales Tax Deductions

RICHMOND—James P. Boyle, District Director of Internal Revenue, today announced that the sales tax deduction guide issued by the State Tax Commissioner may be used to determine the amount of deductible sales tax for Federal income tax purposes for the calendar year 1965 by taxpayers who were residents of cities in Virginia which imposed a local 2 percent general retail sales tax with a maximum tax of $4 on any one article. The income shown on Line 1, Page 1 of Form 1040, will apply in using the guide.

The District Director explained that only those taxpayers who itemize their deductions on Page 2 of Form 1040 may deduct the sales tax in determining taxable income.

The guide is prepared for the full year 1965; thus, if the general retail sales tax was in effect in the taxpayer's city of residence for only 4 months of 1965, the deduction would be for one-third of the corresponding amount shown in the guide.

Mr. Boyle said that taxpayers who do not elect to use the guide should be prepared to substantiate the deduction. He cautioned those taxpayers and taxpayers residing outside of the municipalities imposing the 2 percent general retail tax, that they should have accurate records of amounts of tax paid on their purchases.

Vets Receive First Checks

ROANOKE — Nearly 154,000 veterans received checks last week as the first payments were made as the first payments were made in distribution of a 1965 GI insurance dividend totaling $224,200,000.

In reporting this today, William J. Powers, Manager of the Roanoke VA Regional Office, said some 4,606,000 veterans are eligible to receive the dividend payments, which will be made throughout the year on the anniversary dates of the individual policies.

Although the amounts due individual veterans will vary considerably, depending on the veteran's age, the amount and type of insurance in force, and other factors, the amount to be paid in 1966 averages out at $47.50 for World War II policy holders and at $73.75 for World War I policy holders.

Of the total dividend, Powers said, $208,000,000 will be paid to 4,400,000 veterans of World War II who hold National Service Life Insurance policies, and the remaining $15,200,000 will be shared by 206,000 World War I veterans who have U. S. Government Life Insurance policies.

Korean Conflict veterans hold low-cost, non-participating type policies that do not provide for payment of regular annual dividends.

The dividends represent primarily a return to the policy holders of part of their premium payments since the death rate of insured veterans continues to be lower than the mortality rate upon which premium payments are based by law.

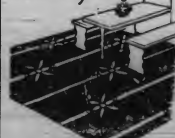

The Veterans Administration head said the payments would be made automatically on monthly anniversary dates, and that no application is required.

Church for Sale

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Rev. L. D. Hudson, pastor of the Church of God, has announced that his church at 620 14th street is for sale. The congregation has voted to relocate and a site has been purchased at Oceana.

The property is 100 by 150 feet and includes the church parsonage, the Sunday School and the sanctuary. The church furnishings may be purchased with the property, and as an added inducement, the minister has pointed out that the church building is air-conditioned and has a central heating unit.

when you convert to flameless electric heating be prepared for lots of questions from your neighbors.

"Make a big mess?" Your installation will convince your most skeptical neighbor that electric heat doesn't tear up the house. Or take up any living space.

"How long did it take to install?" Less than a week for the entire job. And modern electric heat will last as long as the house.

"How do you like it?" They'll be curious about the individual thermostats in every room. Want to know if electric heat is really cleaner, quiet and draft-free.

"How much does it cost?" Show them your yearly heating cost guarantee from your VEPCO-authorized Comfort Conditioning Contractor. If your actual yearly heating cost exceeds his estimate by 10%, he'll pay the difference. (And he can qualify you for VEPCO's $125 cash saving on your residential electric heating installation, too.)

Water Mains To Be Installed In Eleven Beach Areas

VIRGINIA BEACH — City Council, Monday, authorized Public Utilities director Lewis Smith and his department to start work on waterlines in Lynnhaven Colony. It was one of 11 areas included in petitions to the city requesting water service to some 2,000 homes.

Council was presented with a report on the petitions by Smith. His department listed them in the report in the order in which they were received.

Smith said that unless council otherwise directs, installation of the lines will be done on a priority schedule, as outlined in his report.

The $1.2 million project will entail some six miles of water lines. The portion in Lynnhaven Colony is estimated to cost $82,000.

The cost estimates for the other 10 areas in the order in which they appeared on Smith's report are: Chesapeake Beach, $200,000; Baylake Pines, $115,000; Thalia (north side) $150,000; Thalia (south side) $50,000; L & S Gardens $80,000; Bay Colony, $150,000; Toy and Sedgely Avenue, $12,000; Thorughgood, $325,000; Bayville Park, $45,000; and Linlier, $34,000.

Residents of those 11 areas who now have private wells will be required to pay the cost of installing the lines, which will be based on street frontage. A charge of $400 for frontage up to 100 feet will be levied with an additional charge of $4 per foot for anything over that.

Home owners will also have to pay a $50 tap fee to Norfolk and

New Members Attend First Meeting

VIRGINIA BEACH — Fifteen new members of the Virginia Beach Rescue Squad attended their first meeting as active members Monday night.

Bill Phillips said last week that the "new boys" are a good group of men and had completed their first aid course quite successfully.

He said they are presently doing duty with older members of the Rescue Squad in order to acquaint themselves with the functions of the organization.

The 15 new members are Peter Agelasto, III, L. O. Clark, III, J. W. Dickens, C. Talbot Dickson, J. M. Ewell, B. J. Harkins, W. T. Johnson, Jr., D. R. Liles, R. B. Mitchell, Jr., D. R. Trundle, D. L. Ward, R. L. Whitlock, A. C. Woodruff, H. D. Patterson, Jr., and H. D. Patterson, III.

Phillips predicted that this new group of men will do a fine job for the Virginia Beach Rescue Squad.

Policemen To Meet Sat.

VIRGINIA BEACH — Members of the Police Association of Virginia will meet in the Norfolk F. O. P. Club in Kempsville at the association's annual meeting January 29.

Approximately 400 police officers from across the state will attend the 1 p.m. meeting.

James Holland, police chief at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard will be installed as President of the association at the meeting.

Chesapeake police chief Wilbur Sears will be installed as the association's vice-president.

Sidney M. Owanan, a faculty member of the Norfolk and Chesapeake police schools and director of Twiford Funeral Home in Chesapeake, will be the principle speaker at the meeting.

City Charter Changes Bill Presented Monday

RICHMOND — Dels. Edward T. Caton, III and P. B. White presented a bill in the House of Delegates Monday that would amend the Virginia Beach City Charter so as to provide an 11-member city council to be elected in a city-wide election.

The bill was the first piece of legislation presented by the freshman Delegate, and requests a change in the composition of the Beach council as the result of a reapportionment suit in the U. S. District Court.

Under the requested change, seven councilmen would come from the seven boroughs and the other four would come from any section of the city, but all 11 men would be elected in a city-wide election in June.

The charter change will not only affect the makeup of the city council. It would also provide for an increase in membership from seven to 11 on the Virginia Beach School Board, and give the city increased authority in the issuance of bonds.

Shortly after the Federal Court in Norfolk was presented with the reapportionment suit last year, the Virginia Beach City Council took steps to reapportion itself. The suit asked that the council be reapportioned along the "one-man vote" principle.

In a hearing on the suit, Judge Walter Hoffman said the case would be continued until March 14 to allow the city and the General Assembly enough time to settle the matter. But, if the governing bodies do not accomplish this task before that date, Hoffman said the Federal court will take action on the reapportionment.

Presently, the council is made up of five representatives from Virginia Beach Borough and one from each of the remaining six boroughs. Three of these six boroughs are the most heavily populated of the seven, causing an extreme unbalance in representation.

Rudee Inlet Authority Plans To Build Jetties

VIRGINIA BEACH — The six-year-old Rudee Inlet Authority, organized to develop the south end of the beachfront area of Virginia Beach Borough, has taken another giant step, and has moved closer to its goal.

The Rudee Inlet Authority has made application in a letter to the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers for a permit to construct new channel protective works or jetties at the inlet. The application seeks permission to build an extension of the present jetty on the north side of the inlet, and to build a new jetty on the south side also projecting into the Atlantic Ocean. Both the extension and the new jetty would be constructed of timbers and covered with rubble or rocks.

In addition, the sand brought in by the flow of the ocean currents would be trapped, stored and pumped hydraulically northward from Rudee Inlet to 4th or 5th streets to further build up the oceanfront at times when enough sand is accumulated for this purpose.

The application, which is expected to be approved by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers shortly, came after a number of conferences with interested groups, including the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission. The Commission already involved with reclamation of the beachfront, has approved the Authority's plans and application.

George Langley, partner in the engineering firm of Langley, MacDonald and Overman, consulting engineers to the Rudee Inlet Authority, said that actual construction is now anticipated, although there is no target date for beginning. He warned that costs of construction will now have to be determined and money for construction will have to be appropriated.

The new construction may cost the City of Virginia Beach slightly more than was earlier anticipated, but the additional money is considered normal in addition State

DISRUPTS MANY ACTIVITIES

First Snow Blankets Virginia Beach Area

VIRGINIA BEACH — A major snowstorm which began as rain off the coast of Florida, blew itself northward Wednesday, and blanketed much of the southland with varying amounts of snow. Snow was reported as far south as the northern regions of South Carolina, an area not used to seeing a blanket of white.

The snow began in Tidewater about midnight Tuesday and by noon accumulations in Virginia Beach had approached the four-inch mark. The weather forecast called for the snow to turn to rain in the afternoon or evening and for clearing by Thursday morning, as the storm pushed toward New England.

By 7 A.M. Wednesday morning, all public school in Virginia Beach and other Tidewater cities had cancelled classes. Most private schools had followed suit, as well as many nursery schools. In addition, numerous activities, religious, civic and other, had been called off for all day Wednesday.

ROADS HAZARDOUS

Virginia Beach police issued hazardous driving warnings, especially on secondary and back roads. There were indications that the snow and slush would cause dangerous conditions as temperatures dropped Wednesday night.

Although the Traffic Bureau of Virginia Beach Police had minor accident reports "every 3 or 4 minutes" during the rush periods Wednesday, none of the accidents were particularly serious, according to L. Bailey, head of the Traffic Bureau of Virginia Beach Police. Bailey reminded the driving public of the law that requires at least one car length between moving vehicles, and, with the slippery conditions, suggested that motorists maintain at least three or four car lengths between vehicles to avoid rear-end collisions.

Fire, often a bitter enemy during snowstorms, because of increased use of stoves and heating units, did not cause a problem Wednesday in Virginia Beach. During the early hours of the snowstorm, only one minor hearth fire was reported.

Conditions at military installations in Virginia Beach varied. A spokesman at the Public Information Office of the Public Works Department spent most of the day surveying trouble spots and potential trouble spots, and set crews to work to clear roads, in the event of later icing. Back roads, especially in the extreme although no flying could be scheduled. Conditions remained normal at Fort Story, only essential personnel were called to duty. All others were reportedly placed on administrative leave.

A spoke man for the Fifth Coast Guard District reported no trouble by early afternoon on Wednesday, but said that 20 to 40 MPH gales were causing heavy seas and high tides. No major flooding was reported, but some erosion along the beach front was expected. The Coast Guard also said that if any shipping problems were to come about, they would be major ones, due to heavy seas. Extremely heavy swells were reported at the new Chesapeake Light Tower in the Atlantic Ocean off Virginia Beach.

ROAD CUEBUST BUSY

Probably the busiest people in Virginia Beach on Wednesday were crews of the Department of Public Works. Crews worked through the night, beginning shortly after the snow did, sanding bridges and overpasses, and spreading chemicals on major roads. As the snow continued Wednesday, plowing operations began, and most major arterials were open and entirely passable, except for some icy spots at intersections and on bridges. Residential areas were somewhat difficult for motorists to navigate, and many early morning commuters had trouble getting out of the House of Delegates at the Public Works Department spent most of the day surveying trouble spots and potential trouble spots, and set crews to work to clear roads, in the event of later icing. Back roads, especially in the extreme

3 Judgeships Filled

VIRGINIA BEACH — Three judgeships in the City of Virginia Beach have been filled. The announcement came late Tuesday afternoon. The changes were made necessary by the recent death of Judge J. Davis Reed Jr., Judge of the Virginia Beach Municipal Court.

George W. Vakos has been named to the Municipal Court judgeship, to fill the unexpired term of Judge Reed. Since last year, Vakos has been Associate Judge of that court. Prior to that time he was City Attorney of Virginia Beach. The unexpired term ends December 31, 1966.

Miss Mary Speight, who was recently appointed Substitute Judge of the City's Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court, has been elevated to fill the unexpired term of Vakos. She now becomes Associate Judge of both Municipal Court and Associate Judge of juvenile and Domestic Relations Court. The 32-year-old Richmond native has resided in Virginia Beach for several years.

In the third appointment created by the elevation of Miss Speight, J. James Davis, well-known attorney and former Mayor of the old City of South Norfolk has accepted the position of Substitute Judge of both Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court and Municipal Court. Davis, whose law offices are located in Chesapeake, resides in Virginia Beach.

Demo Club To Hear Downing

VIRGINIA BEACH — The regular January meeting of the Fitz-Mahon Democratic Club will be held Friday, January 28th, at 8 p.m., at Lynnhaven School. The school is located on Dillon Drive in Princess Anne Plaza, just behind the Arlington Hall Apartments.

The highlight of the meeting will be an address by First District Congressman, Thomas N. Downing. According to the president of the Democratic Club, William Thomas, the public is invited to attend the meeting to hear Congressman Downing and to meet the many Virginia Beach officials who will attend. Downing will be introduced by Democratic National Committeeman, Sidney Kellam, of Virginia Beach.

Also expected to attend the meeting are all eleven Organization candidates in the forthcoming April Democratic Primary Councilmatic election. In addition, most of the present members of Virginia Beach City Council and other elected officials of the City of Virginia Beach will be on hand, according to Thomas.

More than 3000 bulletins informing residents of Princess Anne Plaza, Windsor Woods and Malibu of the meeting have been distributed. The bulletins are invitations to all residents of the area to attend.

GOP To Send 19 Delegates

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Virginia Beach Republican City Committee will send 19 delegates to the 1st Congressional District Republican convention to be held March 19 in Newport News.

Martin A. Trunkle, chairman of the Beach GOP committee said he has not yet called a meeting of the committee to discuss the district meeting.

The number of delegates from each community is based on the Republican votes in the 1964 presidential and 1965 gubernatorial elections.

Possible business for the meeting includes the election of a district chairman for the next two years and the nomination of a GOP candidate for the U. S. House of Representatives election. Delegates will also consider any resolutions which might be submitted at the July state Republican convention to be held in Roanoke.

The March meeting will be held in Nachman's Community Room in Newport News.

Council Approves Of Proposed Highway

VIRGINIA BEACH — City Council has approved preliminary plans for a proposed four-lane highway between 9th and 33rd streets.

The road, its route yet unestablished, will run west of Atlantic Avenue at about the same length. Planning Commission Chairman J. W. Wood advised council that the route of the road would be established as soon as possible so that building lines could be fixed to avoid encroachment on rights-of-way.

Council approved Wood's recommendations and surveying will be conducted as soon as possible.

The highway, which will run north and south, represents an expansion of the original plans in the Wilbur Smith Highway and Transportation Report. The report said the expanded road would be needed to "disperse the large volume of traffic coming to Virginia Beach Borough and having various destinations along the waterfront," as the result of the Virginia Beach Toll Road.

The first phase of the road will begin at Holly Road near the Beach Borough boundary and swing west into Atlantic Avenue at 47th Street. At that point it would hook up with the toll road, which will enter the borough in the area of 22nd and 23rd streets. This first section will include a new, widened road running south from 31st Street at Holly Road, swinging west across the existing dump and going into Parks Avenue, just west of the Virginia Beach High School, and then south again on 17th Street.

Phase two will extend south to Owens told Council he would "work as diligently as I know how to continue giving the people of Virginia Beach the good representation which they have had in the past."

Owens was sworn in by John Pentress, Clerk of Courts.

First Diving Class Graduates Monday In Virginia Beach

By JACK MOORE

VIRGINIA BEACH — Six men from the Coast and Geodetic Survey ships Hilgard and Whiting graduated Monday afternoon from an eight-day training program that had been given them by Maritime Exploration Ltd. of Virginia Beach.

The course, enough to train a circus strong-man, taught the men advanced underwater training needed by divers on the survey ships. The scuba divers are used to investigate underwater obstructions and equipment.

Each of the eight days involved rigorous physical training and preparation for the eventual underwater work.

An example of such training is a mile-long run on the beach each morning followed by callisthenics. The amount of physical training increased with each day.

The training period ended with

VIRGINIA VICTUALS

By CONSTANCE BAUER

The superiority of Virginia oysters is proven by the fact that the Lord placed us within reach of Lynnhaven oysters. A guest of ours once said: "If they had pearls I'd pitch 'em out to get at the oysters!"

In the name of cookery, terrible things are done to the delectable mollusk. Simplicity should be the watchword. Pseudo-oyster-lovers camouflage a small raw oyster in an excess of cocktail before swallowing it whole, like a vitamin pill. They also eat oysters that have been heavily breaded, creamed in a French fryer, then further disguised under goblets of tartar sauce. Mysteriously, they want people to think they love oysters. If they really did, they wouldn't profane them so.

When we had our own oyster bed we regularly planned an "oyster event." On a Saturday afternoon, fortified with hot toddies, the gentlemen would go oystering. Nowadays we buy beauties from Henry's Raw Bar, just east of Lynnhaven Bridge. However obtained, a thorough scrubbing came first. Using the garden hose and stiff brushes, rubber-gloved Sparians scrubbed all the oysters before, not after opening.

Oyster-knives, gardening gloves and bowls were issued to those of us who could open oysters. Non-openers removed empty shells and provided hot, nourishing drinks (toddlies) for us openers. Working at a picnic table, carefully saving the oyster liquor and the oyster crabs, we shucked enough for four courses.

Then we moved into the kitchen. You must understand that this party was about as formal as a hog-killing. Once warmed up, we enjoyed the reward of the raw course. Standing, sitting, milling about, we savored the salty delicacies with or without sauce.

Thus nourished, the guests migrated to the living room to play scrabble or watch the football game. The hostess and one faithful helper (her husband) coped on in the kitchen. We "washed" the oysters in their own liquor, transferring them from one bowl to another. The shell fragments settled to the bottom and we saved the clear liquor for the stew and the poached oysters. These dishes were lovingly concocted and the guests assuaged to table.

Games were forgotten as we spooned up the rich, butter-gilded stew, studded with plump, black-ruffed oysters and the added bonus of tiny, pink oyster-crabs. Football faded into the background over hot plates of crisp toast, generously crowned with choice oysters poached in Chablis and oyster-liquor. Portions were guided by anticipation of what was yet to come.

Back to the games or out for a walk was the order for the diners while the main course was prepared. Cakeslaw was ready, and a pan of leathery cornbread was just getting done. Frying the oysters was an easy exercise without treading. We dipped them in yellow cornmeal and crisped them up quickly.

The hot, heaving platters were rushed to the table. Tartar sauce was served, but generally no adornment was needed as we cut into the pale golden nuggets, just crisp on the outside, still steaming with juicy goodness on the inside. Cakeslaw, cornbread and a white table wine took happy second places.

The ending? A dram of kummel, a wedge of crumbly Roquefort and a snappy Virginia winesap convinced us that we were the chosen ones.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Syer are almost overshadowed by the provocative German beer stein at the Bierstube Sunday at the Princess Anne Country Club. (Photo by O. Edwards)

The Princess Anne Country Club had a German party Sunday for the members and their guests. This was my first experience with a German party, and the costumes were quite attractive and the polka was very well done by several couples.

Al Runaldue and his orchestra, dressed in traditional German costumes, did an excellent job of playing polka music. Charence Smith, whom I noticed dancing the polka, was especially good. The party was complete in every way, the food served, the costumes, the dances and German beer all complemented this occasion.

To enhance the German motif, Count Rudolph Zu Pappenheim and Fraulein Marion Von Hagen were present.

Others seen were: Mr. and Mrs. Duck Braithwaite, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Braithwaite, Mr. and Mrs. D. Conrad Little, Captain R. W. Windsor, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Huck, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Syer and Mr. and Mrs. Owen Campbell.

LET'S TALK FASHION

By ALICE BREWER WHITE

Almost all of the top fashion designers this Spring have cropped their suit sleeves short above the elbows and along with the shorter swirling skirts it certainly gives the Suit Look a new young and spirited look. You'll find these new sleeveless suits of wool, silk and cotton. As a matter of fact, sleeves have come into their own this season. Many American designers have brought sleeves back in their cocktail dresses and short formal, usually of chiffon and billowy from the shoulder but cuffed in neatly around the wrist. Eugenia Sheppard, covering the Italian collections, writes from Rome in her Herald Tribune column that "everything in the Fabiani collection from coats to evening clothes came out in shirtheaves, quite full and gathered to the wrist. One thing sure, he believes that sleeves are not just sneaking back, but making a big thing of their reappearance."

Lo! The Norfolk suit! Low the patent belt line! Paul Parnes has tailored gray worsted flannel into a neat Norfolk jacket with a three panel skirt. The blouse and lining is of gay striped silk. The hat, sleek and tailored, is by Mr. John.

KIMBERLY FOR SPRING

Kimberly has made a knit dress a thing of high fashion as well as convenience. You may be happy to know that because women want knits all the year, stores who feature Kimberly's now maintain a complete year round department, continuously self replenishing. The Kimberly's which will be delivered in late February and March are primarily wool which has been lightened, thinned down and knit in open ways. Kimberly two and three piece costumes have all the high points of Spring fashion news: A-line flared skirts, small neat collars or none at all, cardigan jackets, hipline emphasis, the coat dress silhouette, and the tunic line in both coat costumes and dresses. You'll see grey for Spring in dark oxford with slashes of white, pewter grey and white confetti knit suit with a white shell top, the short sleeved suit in grey with a flared skirt, a pearl grey dressmaker suit with navy and white striped ribbon or knit drawn through slots in the collar.

WHO KNOWS?

We heartily agree with famous designer Sophie de Saks Fifth Avenue. She is one designer who is leaving the space ideas alone. Recently she told a group of fashion editors, "I think that mixing up fashion with the space program is sad. It's belittling a very great and serious thing. And how do we know what people wear on the moon? They may be very well dressed!" They may even have a "best dressed" list of their own!

FASHIONABLES
Certainly no one could be more fashionably attired than lovely Joan Crawford at the Manhattan preview of "The Chase." We were told she arrived in a trailing plush pink gown, a pink turban and a simple sable wrap! ... But out on the West coast last Friday, Martha Raye arrived back in the States from Viet Nam dressed in combat boots, her Special Forces green beret and camouflage "tiger" suit! Certainly a grand costume.

turne for "Maggie of the Boon docks" as she has been fondly nicknamed by the GIs. She had been entertaining the troops this time for three-and-a-half months, giving 400 performances in the treacherous jungles and rice paddies. This was the generous Martha's second tour in a year in Viet Nam and her third war.

Here is the popular new long-line cocktail dress with flippant pleated skirt. It is banded with crystal, jewels and rhinestones at the hips, neck and arms. A smooth white silk beauty designed by Marie McCarthy for the Larry Aldrich Collection for Spring. This long-line combined with finely pleated skirt is to be found in many of the designers' Spring dresses whether for formal, sports or town wear. A very neat, swingy, youthful line reminiscent of the Charleston days.

What could be lovelier than this bridal headress created by Angelo for Emmet? Sheer beauty and originality. It is of cascading lilies of the valley from an Etruscan bridal headress.

Company's canvas boot: "pungent pink," "sharp yellow," "starch white" and "subtle neutral" were reproductions of colors in the canvas paintings. Of course, art was the inspiration only for the colors. The flat-heeled $13 boot, called "Kanvasette," is of classical leg-hugging form embellished only by an inside zipper and polka-dot linings.

Young and sophisticated with a formal floor length, this beautiful wedding gown for the Spring bride is by Priscilla of Boston. The exquisite veil is also by Priscilla and is a flatteringly beautiful white lace mantilla.

Last year 57 persons were injured or killed in hunting accidents across the state. Virginia Game Commission says, "Don't let your name be added to this year's list." Watch yourself and the other fellow! Carelessness kills!

One Man Started It All

For several years Virginia Beach Police Chief James Edward Moore has had the germ of an idea in his mind. The idea is a good one, but the time was not right for the fruition of the idea until recently. When Chief Moore was the head of the Princess Anne County police force, the idea was born, and began to take shape after he became Virginia Beach Police Chief. Perhaps the idea was merely a dream in the beginning, but now it has form and shape and is hopefully becoming more than a dream. In fact, it looks like it could become reality.

Chief Moore has always felt that Tidewater Virginia was large enough and important enough to support a police academy of its own, comparable to such well known schools as the FBI Academy and the Southern Police Institute in Louisville, Kentucky. As he has envisioned the academy, the most qualified policemen from all the Tidewater cities would be sent to such a school for advanced training.

It is the policy at present for three or four lucky policemen to be sent to the FBI Academy during a given year for advanced police training, but Chief Moore has felt that more should be able to go. Unfortunately space has never been available. That is when he began to think about such a police school for Tidewater. In such a school, everyone qualified would be able to further his life's chosen work, and at the same time become even more competent in his job.

The way it is now Virginia Beach policemen receive two to three weeks basic training, then are sent on the job with older, more experienced policemen for "on-the-job-training." Later, some receive additional training, but there it stops, unless an opening occurs in one of the hard-to-get-into advanced training schools.

The Man On The Bench

It is only natural that George Vakos has been elevated to the Municipal Court Judgeship created by the untimely death of Judge Reed. Most of Judge Vakos' life has been dedicated to the law and to justice. Although he has many outside interests in Virginia Beach, he has always been quick to accept difficult tasks of this city. He served tirelessly in the position of City Attorney, and all those who know him were sorry that he saw fit to resign from that job because of the pressures of private business.

But George was never really happy away from the courtroom and the wheels of justice. When he was asked, he accepted another difficult position, that of Associate Judge. In that position, he served diligently and well, both at Princess Anne and at the courts in Virginia Beach Borough. He is known to be a fair man who tries each case on its merits.

Now he has taken on an even more difficult task, that of Municipal Court Judge. It is a full-time job, and one for which George Vakos is highly qualified. We know his excellent judgment will cause him to be recognized by all citizens of Virginia Beach. We congratulate his appointment, and most of all, we congratulate Judge George Vakos.

Finally the Tidewater Police Chiefs met and discussed the idea. Also in attendance were Public Safety Directors and City Managers. Norfolk's Police Chief Anderson is chairman of the group set up to look into the feasibility of forming such a police academy. All seemed to be agreed with the idea and have set out now to do something about it. A representative from the Federal Government talked to the group, and gave them the hope of receiving financial aid for the school, although he could promise nothing concrete.

We fully support the idea and look forward to plans for the school getting "on the drawing boards." It seems to us that it would be an ideal situation to have an advanced course for all Tidewater policemen. Although we are fully satisfied with police protection at the present time, we believe it would be an excellent thing for the police to have a training school nearby that could offer real specialization.

Under the present proposals, Virginia Beach, Norfolk, Portsmouth, Chesapeake, Hampton, Newport News and possibly Suffolk, Nansemond County and other nearby counties would contribute to the support of the school, and would take part in the training. Perhaps it could even be enlarged more in the future.

The proposal is a sound one, and deserves much thought. It could be a great asset to Tidewater, and assure all residents of the finest police protection possible. We commend Chief Moore for his untiring efforts in bringing the idea to reality. Now we hope that it can and will work out for the benefit of all.

We support such a school, and recommend that the plans be moved ahead with all possible speed until Chief Moore's idea becomes a highly specialized police academy.

National YMCA Week

In 1844 a young man of 22 named George Williams gathered with a group of friends in London and formed a new organization designed to make life a bit more bearable for workers caught in the cruelties of the industrial revolution of that time. The organization, destined to achieve world wide fame and to be found almost everywhere, was named the "Young Men's Christian Association."

Just seven years later in Boston, a sea captain, Thomas V. Sullivan, read of the London society and set himself to the task of establishing the first YMCA in the United States. The rest is history. The organization has been a haven to countless lonely millions in the past one hundred years. And during the January 23-30 period of this year, we celebrate National YMCA Week.

It is a thoroughly-deserved tribute. The goals of the YMCA are all designed for a single purpose: to develop better citizens of the nation and the world—better in mind, in body and in heart. The organization works always in the cause of interracial and intergroup understanding. And, at its roots is a dedicated belief in the teachings and principals of religion.

In a troubled world, the YMCA performs a profound and needed service. We salute the YMCA during its special week.

Several bills have been dropped in the hopper of the Virginia General Assembly that would drastically affect the so called "implied consent" drunk driving law. Some would merely alter it in attempts to make it easier to get a drunk driving conviction. One would even do away with the law entirely and return to the voluntary blood tests, used as evidence, before the implied consent law.

The law, as written now, is at best, cumbersome. It requires that a police officer who apprehends a driver whom he suspects may be driving under the influence of alcohol do a long list of things absolutely correctly, or see his case thrown out of court on a technicality.

The law is obviously confusing when a city the size of Norfolk does not get one conviction for drunk driving in an entire year, as was the case in 1965. Virginia Beach did have a few convictions, but they were hard to come by.

The officer must complete certain steps in two hours. He must read a suspect the law and advise him of his rights. He then must escort the driver to a recognized hospital and have two blood tests taken. He must have the car towed away, and he must escort his prisoner to the police station for booking. The blood sample must be sent to the State Laboratory, and another sample kept at the police station, in the event the driver wishes to have his own analysis made. Then unless the alcohol content in the blood shows .15 percent, the driver is not considered drunk by the courts. And it is obvious that some

On Monday, freshman Virginia Beach Edward T. Caton, III, introduced highly important legislation in Richmond to the Virginia General Assembly. It will affect all of us for years to come. If it is passed by that august body, as doubtless it will be, Virginia Beach will finally be able to proceed with the affairs of good government, without the constant threats of trouble from outsiders and a few dissident residents.

The legislation, introduced by Caton, will set the wheels in motion for the complete reapportionment of the Virginia Beach City Council. The present apportionment has been challenged in court as not being a totally representative government, under the one man, one vote concept. But prior to the court decision, Council had already agreed to reapportion itself.

Council adopted a plan which we still consider to be a good one. The proposed system would elect one Councilman from each Borough and four at-large Councilmen. This is the plan, now in form of legislation, introduced by Caton in Richmond. The State's lawmakers people can be totally drunk on less than that. If all is not handled just so in this tedious, time consuming and highly technical way, a lawyer can get his client out of the charge.

This is the reason that so many police officers will not arrest a suspect for drunk driving. It takes too much time and is too complicated. This, we feel is all wrong. Laws are supposedly made to protect the innocent and to punish the guilty, not to protect the guilty too. The police officers should take the chances under the present law and try for a conviction, although we have been told privately by several officers that they would prefer not to get so involved. They would rather make an arrest for reckless driving.

We do not think the attitude of some policemen is absolutely correct, but we are able to understand how that attitude came to be. So often they have seen their prisoners go free because of mere technicalities. In that case, we think the law is wrong, but not being lawyers, do not wish to tackle the problem of correcting it. As laymen, however, we feel that either the law should be a weapon in the hands of the police to prosecute the guilty or it should be done away with, or at least altered in such a way as to make it more difficult for a drunk driver instead of for the policeman.

We are also happy to report that there have been two convictions for drunk driving so far this year in Virginia Beach. Evidently the policemen involved did a fine job. Good for them, in spite of the law.

Now Let The General Assembly Decide

The minority leader of the Senate, Everett McKinley Dirksen of Illinois, took the position in the closing hours of the last session of Congress that a measure reported by an appropriate committee of the Senate should not be allowed to come to a vote. It was the first time a leader of either party had ever led a filibuster. Because of the anxiety of Congress for a quick adjournment after a long and fruitful session, Senator Dirksen's filibuster prevailed.

The Illinois Republican has promised a renewal of his filibuster when Congress returns. He has already announced that he intends to deprive the Senate of its essential right and duty — to vote on an issue one way or another.

Senator Dirksen made his stand on the issue of repeal of Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act which permits states to enact right-to-work laws which hamper labor union organization and effectiveness. Nineteen states, most of them in the agricultural South and Southwest, have such laws.

Before Senator Dirksen started his filibuster, it seemed that the Senate was ready to look at the issue and vote. Whether it might have followed

Police Have A Strong Lead

VIRGINIA BEACH — Beach police said last week that they have a strong lead in their search for the hit-and-run driver who killed a 14-year-old boy two weeks ago.

Police sent an automobile fender, headlight and headlight rim, that were found recently, to the FBI laboratory in Washington, D. C. for testing.

Police also sent along the youth's clothing, his bicycle, and paint scrapings taken from the clothing along with the car parts.

Lt. C. R. Bailey said police are continuing to check out all possible information which might lead to the identity of the driver of the death vehicle.

Charles Preston Paramore was killed while delivering his newspapers about 5:50 a.m. on the morning of January 11. The accident took place on Guilford Boulevard, a short distance from his home in Aragona Village.

Bailey said the FBI will attempt to determine if the paint from the fender-matches the paint scrapings from the youth's clothes and bicycle.

Bailey revealed that the car parts were found after a citizen tipped off police.

A reward of $1,700 is being offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the guilty person or persons.

Caton Named To 4 Comm's.

RICHMOND — Fledgling Delegate Edward T. Caton, III, said last week that he had been appointed to one of the most active committees in the House of Delegates. He said the Courts of Justice Committee is primarily concerned with the administration of justice and all members must be lawyers.

Caton said there were two vacancies on the committee. He said, Fred R. Gray of Chesterfield was named to fill the opening. Caton said he is happy to have been named to that committee.

He was elected to three other committees. They are Public Property, Currency and Commerce, and Federal Relations.

Caton said last week that he anticipated presenting the charter amendment proposal to the House Monday, which he did.

SHOULD THE SENATE HAVE THE RIGHT TO VOTE?

The Senate of the United States has been called the world's greatest deliberative body. Purpose of all the deliberation, speeches and debate is to polarize the positions of the 100 senators so that the body may vote on an issue.

At the other wing of the Capitol, each member of the House can have his say on a question and then a vote is taken. That's the way — set by the Constitution — that we get the laws under which we live.

Essentially, it's an orderly process, as good or better than any nation has achieved. Recently, however, there has been a disquieting development that could disrupt this orderly march of legislation from proposition to law.

The minority leader of the Senate, Everett McKinley Dirksen of Illinois, took the position in the closing hours of the last session of Congress that a measure reported by an appropriate committee of the Senate should not be allowed to come to a vote. It was the first time a leader of either party had ever led a filibuster. place to live in and enjoy the blessings of life. History has proven, however, that this assumption is altogether false. Wars have always left a bitter taste with some segment of human kind. Wars have always taught hate and revenge.

There is one human expression that stems from the innermost recesses of man's soul, planted there by his God, that can conquer without leaving the distressing pangs of hate and revenge. Why does mankind refuse to learn this great lesson of brotherly love?

Let us never forget that mankind was born a slave to secularism. He was granted the powers of a free moral agent who could plan his own destiny. If he chooses to remain a slave to materialism and secularism against the wishes of his "God of Love," then he must accept his self-made penalty. But let us never forget the God-given message, "The wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life."

Pignapper Gives Up To Police

VIRGINIA BEACH — A 42-year-old farmhand, who was being sought after by an air and ground "posse" of Virginia Beach policemen for "pignapping" surrendered Friday at police headquarters at Princess Anne Court House.

Earnest McLemore, who led the "posse" on an all-day chase through a wooded area off Oceana Boulevard Thursday, swiped to hogs from the John H. Malbon farm on Harper's Road and sold them to Harrell Bros., a Chesapeake meat packing firm, for more than $2,000, police said.

The "rustler" who lives on the Malbon farm allegedly took the hogs from the farm about 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, in a truck owned by the Malbons returning the truck later.

McLemore walked into the Juvenile Bureau at noon Friday and told Mrs. Marion Frizzell that he understood the police were looking for him, police said.

He stayed in the woods overnight, despite freezing temperatures.

McLemore fled into the woods, a la Jesse James, shortly after being questioned on the matter Thursday morning.

He will be given a preliminary hearing on the case January 31.

Navy Men Sentenced

VIRGINIA BEACH — Two discharged Navy enlisted men convicted of two separate robberies in which more than $14,000 was taken have been placed on eight years probation each.

The two sailors were sentenced to 21 years in prison, but had their sentences suspended.

Charles C. Keith, 26, of Alabama, and John W. Mapp, 30, of Texas, were convicted of the $11,000 armed robbery of two account store employees in November, 1964, and a safe larceny of $3200 from the same store earlier that year.

Judge Robert S. Wahab suspended the sentences after coworkers and superiors from Oceana Naval Air Station testified to the men's apparent good character in a probation hearing held last September.

The two men were convicted of robbing the two store employees as they were starting to make a night deposit in a Princess Anne Plaza branch bank. One of the bandits wore a Halloween mask. They were armed with a shotgun and a toy pistol.

Police apprehended Keith after a high-speed chase in which Keith ran a roadblock in a hail of bullets.

Mapp, who jumped from the car, escaped momentarily, but was captured later. Three of the bank bags taken in the holdup were recovered, but Mapp said he lost the fourth one. It contained $2700 in cash and $1000 in checks. It was never recovered.

Keith told Judge Wahab that he was going to use the money to go to college, and Mapp said he would have used his share of the loot to pay family bills.

Both men have received undesirable discharges from the Navy.

Underwater Gal May Start New Style

Twenty-three year old Claudine Auger, a former Miss France, lists many accomplishments in addition to prizes for her beauty. Among these is her ability as a swimmer and skin diver, skills which came in handy for her role in "Thunderball," opening in Technicolor and Panavision January 27 at the Beach Theatre, through United Artists release.

Miss Auger's underwater love scenes with Sean Connery, who again portrays James Bond, could not have been done by a stand-in or stunt-girl, because of the close-ups. . . . Miss Auger was fitted with a variety of scuba-duba duds and tossed into the Ivan Tors tanks, where the submerged sequences were filmed.

Among the gear comprising her swimming wardrobe are a flesh-colored rubber jacket which may start a new vogue among the underwater set. Also stylish snorkels and face plates and form-fitting rubber suits. But lest anyone get any underwater ideas, be warned that Miss Auger also sports knives and spearguns galore.

He said he did not immediately know when work would start on the remaining 10 areas and council would have to authorize construction starts in those areas.

In other action, council unanimously accepted a bid of $1.3 million for a second bridge across Lynnhaven Inlet. Council agreed to pay $210,716 as the city's share of the cost. On the same matter, council agreed to take over maintenance cost after the bridge is completed. The city's share of the cost will be provided for in a future bond issue.

and Federal financial aid may be forthcoming. Changes in the charter of the Rudee Inlet Authority are also expected to be made at the present session of the Virginia General Assembly, allowing it to move ahead swiftly with future plans.

After the application is reviewed by the Corps of Engineers, the second phase of the development of Rudee Inlet will actually be underway. The first phase was approval of construction of a bridge over Rudee Inlet. Plans for the bridge have now been approved, although it is not known when construction will begin. The new bridge will tie into the new General Booth Boulevard already being built connecting the south end of the beach area with Route 615 near Oceana Naval Air Station. Eventually General Booth Boulevard will extend to City Hall at Princess Anne and provide a link with Independence Boulevard. The finished network of roads will provide a complete circumferential highway for Virginia Beach.

WITH APOLOGIES TO THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE — This snowy scene along the boardwalk at Laskin Road and the oceanfront probably won't be included in any travel folders by the Chamber of Commerce, but it presents a sharp contrast to the summer activity in the same spot. Perhaps Virginia Beach could become the "World's Largest Ski Resort City."

A PICTURE POST CARD SETTING — This house in Bay Colony captured the entire story of the snowstorm. No further words are needed, however the outdoor barbecue received little use on Wednesday.

Snow Blankets

south areas of Virginia Beach were barely visible, and only with snow tires or chains.

Police and the Department of Public Works asked motorists to remain at home if at all possible and to exercise extreme caution if they had to venture out into the snow.

The Tidewater Automobile Association reported very few emergency road calls in Virginia Beach, and said service crews were "keeping up with the calls." He said, "It looks like people are taking the advice of the police and others and are not going out unless they have to."

Most of the minor accidents and automobiles in ditches were attributed to poor driving and attempting to drive too fast for conditions. In addition, police said drivers were actually breaking the law by driving a vehicle with uncleaned windshields or windows. And besides that, police said, unlimited vision during a storm is an absolute necessity.

KIDS HAPPY
School children, with an unexpected day off, probably had the best time. By 9 a.m., snowmen could be seen dotting the lawns of many homes in residential areas. Sleds appeared from attics and storerooms, and bundled up kids of all ages acquired rosy cheeks and cold feet and fingers while participating in impromptu snowball fights.

As the day progressed, streets, especially in Virginia Beach Borough became very slushy, but icing conditions were expected later. Virginia Beach, in short, got its first real taste of winter on Wednesday. Flaring tempers in traffic tieups, a few bent fenders and happy children were the results.

VIRGINIA BEACH — Michael C. Savvides, president and general manager of the Black Angus Restaurant at Virginia Beach, was presented the Princess Anne Jaycees Distinguished Service Award at Bow Creek Country Club on Friday, January 21, 1966.

Approximately 150 persons were on hand at the banquet to honor Savvides, who was cited for his many contributions to the civic progress of Virginia Beach.

State Senator William P. Kellam of Virginia Beach was the guest speaker of the evening. His topic was "Citizenship," and he praised the work of Savvides, a native of Cyprus who came to America at the age of 19 and subsequently became a citizen.

In addition to the award given to Savvides, awards were presented to Virginia Beach newsmen who have promoted the cause of the Jaycees. Certificates were presented to H. ## Parks Need Money For Development

By DOUGLAS BARNES

We once read an article by a newspaper reporter, who asked W. Taylor Johnson-Sr. to give his impressions on building a high-rise apartment house. Johnson stated: "There were so many headaches connected with building The Mayflower that I don't think I'll ever build so much as a privy again!"

Well, the dedicated hard-working city officials, Harold Whitehurst, chairman of Parks and Recreation Committee; Mason Gamage, City Planner; Bill McClurg, Architect; and Frank Webbon, Federal liaison representative, meeting with this commission Tuesday in the school board conference room at City Hall, must have felt that their master plan to launch the 144 acre Ocean Front Park south of Sand bridge was almost futile because this subject became such an apex of discussion that it was almost ludicrous in its consumption of time.

Maury Riganto, presiding, presented a 3-year master plan which traced capital improvements to Red Wink Park for $32,550 near Dan Necke; for Arrowhead, $4,000; for improvement of the Lotus Gardens, $600; for a wayside picnic area on Shore Drive, $1,200; for a ball field at Creeds, $3,850; for a ball field at Blackwater, $3,200; for Oceana Stadium, $15,000; for improving Seatack Elementary School Area, $1,750; for a park at Newlight, $10,000; for tennis court topping at Oceana and Kempsville High School, $9,000 and for a 10-acre plot near Princess Anne Plaza, $10,000. Other outlays included planning, fencing and consultation, etc.

The Commission voted to request $80,800 after Gamage outlined plans for the site at Sand bridge which the city paid $52,000 for which will be known as the Little Island Recreation Area and which is to open May 30, 1966, hoping the Federal government will defray half the cost. Gamage said: "During the first year of operation the Park could be maintained during daylight hours and would be open through Labor Day."

Also Gamage stated that a 300 car parking area and a 20-foot wide road, from the south end of the present highway into Sand bridge to a spot near Back Bay Wildlife Refuge, would together cost $23,300 and that rest rooms, showers and dressing rooms would demand $14,000 while $6500 would be needed for personnel and other purposes.

Before the conclusion of the meeting, Mrs. Robert Goodman, a member of the commission, suggested the following names as either advisory or regular members of the commission: Beverly Tucker, Jr., Pembroke Manor; Dr. Kenneth Gilbert, Bayside; James E. Birdwell, Jr., Baylake Pines; and A. L. Richards of Seaboard School.

Gobbler Season Proposed

RICHMOND — A total of 80 counties were included in a two-week spring gobbler season proposed by the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, according to Executive Director Chester F. Phelps. The season, 5 days longer than last year's, would open April 23 and close May 6. Hunting hours would be from one-half hour before sunrise until 10 A. M. each day with dogs and drives prohibited.

Seventeen counties closed last year at the request of Board of Supervisors were included in the proposed list of open counties to give local sportsmen an opportunity to make their wishes known to their county boards. Due to the time interval and legal procedures involved, counties not included in this proposal could not be added at a later date. The Commission announced that it would comply with Board of Supervisors' requests from counties that wished to remain closed.

First Diving Class

a mile-long swim off Virginia Beach last weekend and a night diving exercise in Rudee Inlet. The men said that the night exercise was somewhat difficult due to the storm-tossed water.

The training was conducted despite the cold weather, because of the use of "wet suits." The rubber garments allow water to seep inside them and the body warmth keeps the water in the suits warm, thereby keeping the divers warm, even in the coldest water.

Two of the men, Lt. Cmdr. Charles Nixon and Wilford Dixon are stationed aboard the survey ship Hilgard. The other four men, Lt. (j.g.) Philip Richardson, Ronald Harward, Carl Overberg and Phillip Liane are stationed aboard the survey ship Whiting. The group was instructed by Steve Waterman and William McCellan. Both had nothing but praise for this first graduating class.

The two ships will be leaving the Tidewater area in March. The Hilgard is being sent to Massachusetts, and the Whiting is being sent to Puerto Rico.

The two graduates stationed aboard the Hilgard were the object of much good-natured kidding, because they would soon be going to the chilly North Atlantic.

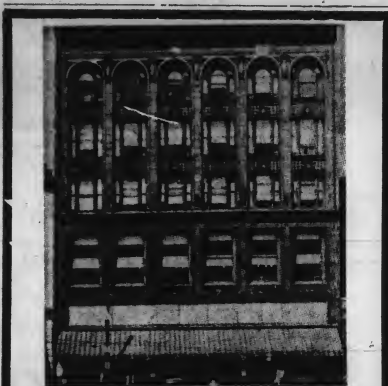

The other four men considered themselves lucky because they would be doing all their diving in the waters of the Caribbean.

McCellan said other classes will be conducted later and he hopes the results are as good as the first class.

Maritime Explorations Ltd. is located on Atlantic Ave. at 19th Street, offers all services for the diver. The firm has an enclosed diving tank for preliminary training.

Birth Defects

A method of correcting birth defects in unborn humans could be one development of research by a team of scientists from Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The discovery—that a lamb fetus can be delivered, operated on, and then returned to the uterus for a normal birth—could open the door to an entirely new surgical approach in human and veterinary medicine. Five years ago, before the project began, scientists generally thought a fetus could not survive operations in which it was taken from the uterus.

Medical researchers already are at work trying to develop operating techniques to prevent birth defects in humans.

WHO'S GOT THE MARSHMALLOW? — This two-story frame house on Virginia Beach Boulevard, across from Princess Anne Plaza, burned to the ground Tuesday night. The house was set afire by the Plaza Fire Department for a drill. The house was vacant and had to be torn down, so the fire department used the destruction of it in their favor. Structures across the city that must be removed are used in the same manner to train the volunteer firemen. The exercise was a complete success. (Staff photo by Moore).

the Norfolk and Southern Railroad on Norfolk Avenue.

The last section of the road will extend north along the unused section of Holly Road right-of-way to the Fort Story bypass and will relieve Atlantic Avenue of much of the through traffic.

Firm timetables are not expected to be presented until the surveys are completed and all plans and schedules are tentative at this point.

In other action council bypassed action by the Planning Commission in issuing a use permit for the construction of nine motel units on a lot next to the Newcastle Motel. City Manager Russell Hatchett said the builders would do nothing which might violate Planning Commission practices and city codes. The special issuance of this permit was made without all the usual "red tape" due to the short time involved before the tourist season begins. Owners of the Newcastle Motel made the request for the permit.

'Neps' Order 14 Linemen

NORFOLK — One of the major handicaps that plagued the Norfolk Neptunes throughout the 1965 Continental Football League season was the lack of depth in the offensive and defensive lines. This is the major reason why the Neptunes cornered no less than 14 linemen in the recent CFL college player draft at New York City.

"We went the entire second half of the '65 season without a reserve lineman on offensive and defensive tackle or defensive end," says Neptunes personnel director John Sears. "An injury or two would have put us in serious trouble."

"The rookies we've drafted survived a very careful screening process and we're confident several of them will make a sizeable contribution to the club this season."

In addition to 14 linemen the Neps also drafted four defensive halfbacks and three linebackers. NEPTUNE NUGGETS: The Neps didn't draft a running back or pass catchers but Sears says several will be signed as free agents in the weeks ahead. Preliminary plans call for a fulltime training camp this summer, although no site has yet been selected. Dates for the training camp will be announced once the CFL adopts a schedule for the coming season. The season ticket sale is around the 3000-mark now with holders of season tickets for '66 having until the 31st of this month to renew their seats. Should a three-game exhibition slate be played the Neps will play one on the road, tentatively at Toronto. The Neptunes Hi-Lite Film of 1965 will be a spectacular 25-minute sound, 16 mm production.

The Virginia Game Commission reminds hunters that over half of all hunting accidents occur at ranges less than 10 yards. Hunters who relax and get careless around camp or vehicles are really a more serious threat than the occasional trigger happy individual in the woods. Know where your gun, and the other fellow's, is pointed at all times.

Police School May Be Formed In Area

VIRGINIA BEACH — The possible formation of a Hampton Roads police school is being considered by area city managers and police chiefs.

City officials from the communities of Hampton Roads, with the exception of Chesapeake, met Friday afternoon at the Holiday Inn Motel on Military Highway to discuss the proposal.

Police chiefs under the direction of Norfolk Chief of Police Harold Anderson will study the proposals for such a school and will make recommendations at a later meeting.

But, several sources report, the development of such a police school hinges on the reception of the idea by the various city councils.

It is speculated that the school will develop into a "police academy."

At present, local police departments have their own limited training programs and send their men to the FBI Academy and the Southern Police Institute for advanced and special training.

Paul Eastover, from the Office of Law Enforcement Assistance in the U. S. Justice Department, briefed the city officials on a federal grant program, which may or may not assist in the formation of such a school.

He said a formal application must be submitted with details and cost estimates. He could not say whether or not the school would qualify for federal aid.

Eastover said the main concern of his office is to help communities develop better programs, for combating and preventing crime, but such programs must be started on the local level.

He said the city officials impressed him with their "frank discussion of mutual problems and their search for solutions."

The meeting was attended by three city managers and six police chiefs.

The city managers were Russell Hatchett of Virginia Beach, C. E. Johnson of Hampton, and J. C. Causey, Jr., of Suffolk.

Other than Chief Anderson there were Chief James E. Moore of Virginia Beach; Chief H. P. Crowe of Portsmouth; Chief P. H. Nicholson of Hampton; Chief W. F. Peach of Newport News and Chief Jesse A. Harrell of Suffolk, at the meeting.

This sort of police school for the Hampton Roads area was first brought up by Chief Moore of Virginia Beach.

League Opposes

VIRGINIA BEACH — A constitutional amendment to reapportion state legislatures on factors other than population will be opposed by the Norfolk-Virginia Beach League of Women Voters.

This stand is in accordance with the consensus of the national league.

Sen. Everett Dirksen is expected to reintroduce in the current session of Congress his amendment permitting apportionment on other factors in at least one house of state legislatures.

The league opposes hasty amendments of the Constitution and opposes any abridgement of Constitution-guaranteed individual rights. The use of the term "substantially" in the Supreme Court decision provides for necessary local diversities, says Mrs. Harry Fivel of Norfolk, league study group chairman.

The league feels that the court decision will strengthen state government by insuring more equal citizen representation.

Health Info Center Busy

NORFOLK — In the first three months of its operation, the Hampton Roads Area Health Information Referral Center handled 760 inquiries and made referrals to more than 120 agencies and programs. Increased use of the Center as its existence becomes known is for the first half of January exceeded the total for any month since the Center's operation began on October 1, 1955.

Edsel Haney, Project Supervisor for the center, released these figures this week. The Center which is supported by a three-year grant from the U. S. Public Health Service is the only program of its type in the country.

The center has information on health and medical programs throughout southeastern Virginia, including information on actual service and programs that help pay for these services. Information on facilities and services available to the people in the center's service area of seven cities and six counties but located outside the area is also given. General information and statistics on health services are also provided on request to medical, educational and social service professionals.

The entire information and referral service is without cost to the inquirer. Inquiries should be made by calling 625-4543.

ALL THE KINGS HORSES AND ALL THE KINGS MEN finally pulled the giant 200,000 pound crane out of the mud Friday afternoon. The crane, being used now in construction of the new Toll Road was being unloaded from a barge near the White Heron Motel last Thursday when its weight collapsed the feeder road and stuck the crane fast. There it remained for more than 24 hours, while digging, pumping and ramming operations took place. After lines were attached, one large piece of heavy equipment pulled the crane out, leaving a giant sized hole in the feeder road along Larkin Road. The crane, somewhat embarrassed, but not damaged, then went on its way to its proper work.

Four Chapters To Present Seal

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Princess Anne County Seal which was found last summer by Mrs. Elizabeth B. Wingo will be donated to the City of Virginia Beach in solemn ceremony by four chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution on Sunday afternoon.

The DAR chapters participating will be Great Bridge, Mrs. Frederick J. Schmoel, regent; Old Donation, Mrs. W. W. Keenan, regent; Princess Anne, Mrs. J. Fletcher Bryant, regent; and Adam Thoroughgood, Mrs. S. B. Bowling, regent.

New Bridge Work Is Delayed

LYNNHAVEN — A spokesman for the City of Virginia Beach Engineering Department said Wednesday that construction on the new bridge over Cox's Creek on South Lynnhaven Road would not be completed for at least another week.

Originally the new bridge was scheduled to be opened to traffic by January 28th, but the weather has played an important role in slowing things down. All piling is in, as well as the steel superstructure, but the roadbed and approach ramps are not yet complete.

In addition, work is moving ahead to straighten curves on both sides of the bridge in Lynnhaven Road.

The detour on Lynnhaven Road will be in effect until the new bridge is opened. In the meantime Virginia Beach residents used to traveling the road will have to continue using the more roundabout way to get where they are going.

The City Engineer's Office said an announcement will be forthcoming soon concerning the date the new bridge will be open to traffic.

Seaboard Is Victor

VIRGINIA BEACH — In the elementary and High Girls Recreation Basketball League, Seaboard scored two league victories over the high flying Devillets of Seaboard, 19-15 in the opener and 13-6 in the night cap Wednesday afternoon.

In both leagues, Seaboard was the strong pre-game favorites. In the elementary league, the win was thought to be a rather easy one. The terrible surprise for Seaboard, came at the half when Seaboard held a 6-5 lead. Seaboard's defense proved to be too much for the Devillets in the second half. They held Seaboard to one point while scoring seven points. Final score Seaboard 13, Seaboard 6.

In the second contest of the day, Seaboard's high girls, who are like the Elementary Girls in first place, took full command of the scoring and defensive play. They managed to handle Seaboard in fine fashion, blasting the Seaboard Devillets 19-15. This victory makes the second straight victory in two starts for the high girls of Seaboard.

The screen is now set for the February 9th rematch, when Seaboard Devillets set out to avenge their defeat. However, before that date arrives, Seaboard will have faced one of the league's strongest teams in C & K's Elementary and High Girls teams.

Please come out and support the teams in your area. For today's athletes will be tomorrow's leaders. Won't you please help in supporting their chance.

C&K Rolls By Newlight

VIRGINIA BEACH — The C & K Seniors of the City Recreation Basketball League, Union Kempsville Division, outscored Newlight in every quarter to post a 55-40 victory in the Senior High Recreation League.

C & K made their move in the first quarter, jumping off to a 9-5 lead at the close of the first quarter. At the half, the score was 17-13 in favor of C & K. Newlight managed to get within 6 points of tying the score, but the constant sharp shooting of C & K proved to be too much for the Seniors of Newlight.

In other Senior High action, Seaboard handed Bayside a 33-33 whipping.

The smallest man on the court who stood approximately 4'2", Leroy "The Flea" Fletcher, generated most of the offense in leading his Bayside team to a 41-34 victory over Newlight in Saturday's contest.

In the second contest of the afternoon, Seaboard choked a Lynnhaven bid to come back in the final 3 minutes of the fourth quarter to post a 32-27 victory over Lynnhaven.

Jr. Low-In Jr. Low action, Seaboard defeated C & K 14-10 in a low scoring contest, that saw only 24 points being scored in the entire game.

In the second contest in the Jr. Low League, Seaboard blasted Bayside 36-4. Bayside's defense seemed to be very weak against the red hot Devils of Seaboard, and like their defense, their offense was unable to score against Seaboard. The lone four points scored by Bayside were registered in the third and fourth quarters.

High Girls-C & K increased their League lead Friday afternoon by defeating Bayside 26-11. C & K is now sporting a record and 3 wins and no defeats.

Elem. Girls-C & K's Elementary girls won their Friday's game in a 22-6 victory over Bayside.

MEET THE CANDIDATE

G. Dewey Simmons, Jr. — A Profile

G. Dewey Simmons, Jr., is making his debut into citywide politics in Virginia Beach as a candidate for City Council from Lynnhaven Borough. He is not a newcomer, however, to public office. From 1957 to 1964 he served in the then elective office of Justice of the Peace, first from the Lynnhaven Magisterial District before merger, and as a JP of Virginia Beach after merger. He resigned that position in 1964 to accept an appointment to the Zoning Board of Appeals of Virginia Beach, from which he has just resigned to run for Council.

Simmons, who is a partner in the real estate firm of Simmons and Shields of Virginia Beach, has been a resident of Lynnhaven Borough for nine years.

Asked about his plans for the forthcoming campaign, Simmons said he plans to meet and know as many people as possible in the next few months, and to learn of their problems. He said that although he is running for a Borough seat, he has already begun touring the entire city, stopping at some of the smaller stores in the more isolated sections to talk to people. In addition, he said he will make himself available to speak to as many civic organizations as possible and to answer all questions. But, Simmons said, "My calendar is filling up fast."

He added, "There is no substitute for personal contact."

As a real estate man, Simmons said he has always been enthusiastic about the potential of Virginia Beach, and that in the three years since merger, he feels "we have come a long way, largely due to good leadership and sound judgment, at the top level."

Speaking about the future of Virginia Beach, Simmons said, "We have the potential to develop into one of the best resort cities anywhere." He said he feels as Virginia Beach continues to grow with strong leadership, the city can develop into something great. When he was asked about the new reapportionment plan of City Council, Simmons said, "I have given it a tremendous amount of thought, but I have looked at all others, but I consider this plan is the best. It offers representation to areas deserving it the most." He added that the plan makes it possible for all residents to have a Councilman reasonably close to where they live.

Regarding Lynnhaven Borough, Simmons said he is in sympathy with the problems of such a concentrated area, and that he is willing to listen and cooperate in every way.

Simmons said he looks at his candidacy with great pride and humility, and that he is always willing to campaign on the issues. He said he has always considered himself a "participant," and that he is ready to face all problems "head on."

Simmons is opposed in the primary by Reed Ervin. In summation, Simmons said, "I'm in a contest, and I'm running as hard as I can."

Vets Warned Of Deadline

ROANOKE — World War II veterans have just a year and a half left to obtain GI guaranteed or insured loans, William J. Powers, Manager of the Roanoke VA Regional Office, pointed out today.

Deadline for World War II eligibility is July 5, 1957, he said.

Eligibility has been expiring for World War II veterans according to a formula that adds ten years to the date of their last discharge from active wartime service plus one year for each 90 days of that service. The date reached by this formula is the individual deadline date for each veteran.

Thus eligibility has already expired for many World War II veterans but the July 25, 1957 deadline terminates the program for all of them, even though the formula would give a longer period of eligibility.

Powers said veterans who were discharged for a service-connected disability will be eligible until the final termination date of July 25, 1957; this also applies to widows of veterans who died of service-connected disabilities.

Those eligible may obtain a guaranteed loan to purchase a home, a farm or to buy or start a business.

The formula for determining the length of time Korean Conflict veterans will be eligible for GI loans is the same as for World War II veterans. However, Korean Conflict entitlement did not begin to expire until January 31, 1955, and the final deadline date is January 31, 1975.

Korean Conflict veterans discharged for service-connected disabilities and widows of Korean Conflict veterans who died from such disabilities may take advantage of the 1975 deadline, Powers said.

He pointed out that a veteran's loan cannot be guaranteed unless the loan application is received by the VA before the veteran's eligibility expires.

Loan applications are ordinarily sent to the VA by lenders. The veteran, therefore, should see that his loan application reaches the VA before his entitlement expires.

An application for a Certificate of Eligibility is not a loan application, Powers warned.

Busy Teen Miss Is On Her Way Up

DANNY KAYS hugs "Miss American Teen-Ager" on the news received that the recent "Trick or Treat" campaign for UNICEF netted more than two million dollars.

"Miss American Teen-Ager" is home . . . for a little while. Miss Lynnell Raye Bass still has stars in her eyes and, understandably, a "hope it never stops" attitude towards all the fabulous good fortune which has come her way since winning the national title at Palisades Amusement Park, in New Jersey last September.

Her "dream trip" to Hollywood where she was given the royal treatment expected for a "queen" and where she was "in" with many of the Hollywood greats, was made perfect because she had her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Bass, with her. During her whirl of activities, she was comforted by knowing she had the most important ones at hand when she wanted to relax, to talk, and to just be Lynnell herself. "On Christmas Day, we went to Disneyland and had a real good time, just the three of us," she said, "but we were homesick for Virginia Beach," she admitted ruefully. "We didn't even have a tree, and we thought about everyone back home and how we missed them all . . ."

Highlight of her experiences was her meeting Richard Chamberlain and the chance to play with him in the "Dr. Kildare" television show. She will be seen on NBC and WAVY-TV (10) Monday, February 7 (8:30-9 p.m.) and she is cast in the minor role of a candy stripper hoping to become a nurse. She was impressed with the control on the set and the professional attitudes of all involved, and especially the kindness and helpfulness towards her. Tentative plans had been made to enlarge her part if she could have stayed longer, "but it was important that Daddy get back to his job and that I come back to school," so they did come home on schedule.

Lynnell was catching up with her studies and getting ready for the mid-winter exams when she got a call to go to Miami to model in the Spiegel fashion show. "The weather there is gorgeous and I enjoyed it so much," she said, as she had commented before that her visit to California was during that period when they were having so much rain and bad weather and that it had been too cold to use either her bathing suit or the luxurious pool which she had looked forward to with so much anticipation. But her California disappointment was dissolved by her delight with Miami. . . .

Asked if it wasn't difficult to keep up with her studies while pursuing her career, she admitted to having to keep a very rigid control on the use of her time. "I get up much earlier than most teenagers have to," said Lynnell, "and sometimes my light burns till the wee hours of the morning." And she has also found it convenient to combine her expected household chores with reading her text books. "I pick up and clean my room with a book in one hand most of the time," she laughed.

Getting her education is an important stone on her road to success and she intends to combine both. She has plans to continue at Old Dominion College after graduation from Cox High, or she may concentrate fully on her career by going to a dramatic school. "Only drawback to the dramatic school is that I'd have to go to New York and I'm not so sure I'd be happy living away from home."

But along with the exams and modeling assignments, she also studies modern jazz dancing with Tom Davis of the International Dancers Association of America; voice and singing from Chuck Oliver (and will receive lessons in dramatics from him also in the future); and piano from Mrs. Loreta Beatty. Getting her piano last summer has opened new avenues of creative expression, and she "just loves it." She may not have as much time to play as she'd like, but she is at the keys at every available free moment!

While in California, she was featured as the reigning "Miss American Teen-Ager" on ABC-TV's "Dating Game" and "Never Too Young" network shows, and the nationally syndicated "Lloyd Thaxton" and "9th Street West" shows in addition to a score of other radio and TV shows originating from the coast. Lynnell joined Danny Kaye in Hollywood in celebrating the success of UNICEF's "trick or treat" campaign. She is the youth ambassador for UNICEF as well as the National Youth Volunteer Crusader for the American Cancer Society.

A lot of catching up is being done by Lynnell right now. She has completed her mid-year exams and is back in the classroom. But she will soon be off again! She is scheduled to have an appearance on "Hullabaloo" for which she must go to New York, and while there she may get on the Johnny Carson Show. A little later in the month, she will go to Charleston, S. C. for a promotion assignment and to Washington, D. C. for a TV teen show . . . and who knows, what other interesting doors will open to this young lady whose ideals are as bright as her shining head.

Three Months Remain For Veterans

ROANOKE — Although 1946 veterans in Virginia have already applied for the reopened National Service Life Insurance, the remaining eligible veterans have only three months to take advantage of the program. William J. Powers, Manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Roanoke, said today.

Midnight, May 2, 1966, is the deadline for applications from World War II and Korean Conflict veterans with service-connected disabilities who had allowed their original policies to lapse.

Veterans should enclose the first month's premium with the application. A list of the premium costs and full detailed information about the insurance, may be obtained by writing, phoning or visiting the Regional Office at 211 West Campbell Avenue, Roanoke, Virginia 24011.

Even veterans whose service-connected disabilities are rated at zero percent are eligible for the reopened insurance, Powers stressed.

There are several choices of insurance plans: Ordinary life, 20 payment life, 20 year endowment and modified life insurance.

Eligible veterans may apply for full $10,000 or for any part of that figure to bring their total GI insurance up to $10,000 or they may take out as little as $1,000 if they wish.

The May 2 deadline does not apply to the modified life plan for those veterans who already have insurance. They can convert to this permanent type of insurance at lower rates than even ordinary life insurance, Powers said, even after the May 2 deadline.

Of Interest To Veterans

By THOMAS A. MOORE

The average monthly income—after taxes—of a veteran who obtained a GI home loan has increased from $473 in 1960 to $519 in 1964, a recent Veterans Administration survey reveals.

The veteran home buyer's average monthly housing expenses, including loan payments, taxes, utilities, etc., have increased during the same period from $107 to $151.

The average purchase price of a home bought under the GI program has increased from $8,679 in 1960 to slightly more than $16,000 during 1964.

One of the main reasons for this jump is that veterans are buying bigger and better homes.

Slightly more than 71 percent of the homes purchased with GI loans in 1964 were bought with no down payment.

The average loan term was 28 years and two months.

Please visit my office on any claims or problems regarding benefits for veterans and their survivors.

Maurice J. Hinger, my associate visits the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center, 19th Street and Pacific Avenue, on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month, between the hours of 12:30 p.m. and 4 p.m.

Winter wears get you down? What you need is a greenhouse! Ever think of that? Having something living and green... something colorful... or even, glamorous, will get you out of those mid-season doldrums in a hurry.

Greenhouses aren't just for horticulturists anymore... there is a type made especially for you. Our friend and orchid-fancier, Frank Israel, can tell you all about them. He is the agent for the Lord & Burham Oryl greenhouses. The Oryl and Sunlyt greenhouses are the trademarks of L & B company which has been making them since 1896. Prefabricated and guaranteed to fit, the greenhouses can be erected in a very short time with a minimum of tools and effort.

You might think a greenhouse is only for exotic or tropical plants. Not so... there are many garden plants for these drab months. Geraniums, marigolds, petunias, calendulas, chrysanthemums, pansies, and even tomatoes can be moved into pots inside the greenhouse for continuous growth long after frost has nipped the outside air. You'll brighten bitter winter with carnations, camellias, and rare tropical flowers. You can hasten springtime through greenhouse forcing of azaleas and tulips. You'll grow orchids, mums, iris and glads—just about anything, anytime of the year, because you control the weather to suit your gardening moods. And when springtime sunshine warms the ground, you, the gardener, will be well on your way with an abundance of flowers and vegetables ready to be set outside once more.

You backyard "farmers" whose delight it had been to provide fresh vegetables for the family table during the summer, needn't spend your time in daydreaming and pouring wistfully over the seed catalogs... now is the time to get your seedlings started under glass. And come spring, you will no doubt be the most popular gardener in the neighborhood... or the most envied. You can be eating your tomatoes while the rest are just bragging on the blooms!

Who has greenhouses? According to Israel, everyone!—doctors and other professionals relieve their tensions tending to their flowers and plants; retired people who have travelled all over the world often bring back their favorites to bloom in their backyard greenhouses; homeowners who like cut flowers can keep themselves abundantly supplied the yearround; hospitals and other institutions consider a greenhouse a great stride forward in all types of therapy; and even apartment dwellers can indulge their "green thumbs" with special window box type greenhouses. He says one out of every 100 homes has a greenhouse of some type.

The neatly packaged prefabricated permanent all aluminum units are made in the free-standing types and the attached types. The free-standing is set apart from other buildings and is an independent glass house with two sides and two ends. It must have a door at one end, though long units may have two doors. The attached type is connected to the house, garage, or other building; and there are two attached types made—the even span attached has the symmetrical lines of free-standing models and is connected at one end to another building (your home or a garden house or workshop). The lean-to is actually half of an even span and is connected along its ridge line to another building. Two glass ends are usual, but only one is needed if the lean-to is installed in a building "L."

The type best for you depends on your gardening desires, budget, space and future plans. Priced on lean-tos are lower, but free standing or attached even spans provide more growing space for very little extra cost.

No matter what your profession, your living quarters, or your valuable time, you should find a place in your busy life to "relax and grow"... the miracle of life unfolds from a seed to shooting stems; flowers for the soul and vegetables for the table can all come to you with a hobby that begins "under glass"...

Yearround gardening can be enjoyed when you have your own Greenhouse.

Objectives Of New Center Are Now Mapped Out

RICHMOND — Beautifying ugly spots, holding river banks and shorelines in place and anchoring sand dunes in Virginia — these are major objectives of the new plant materials center established by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service, at Cape May Court House, New Jersey.

The new center, said Tom F. McGourin, SCS State Conservationist headquartered at Richmond, will head the nine states of the northern coastal plain: Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut,

New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and North Carolina. It occupies 22 acres made up of soil typical of the nine-state region. The State of New Jersey contributed $50,000 for the land. The Federal Government added $108,000 for buildings and equipment.

In the spring of 1968 Center technicians will plant 300 different kinds of grasses and legumes and 50 kinds of shrubs and trees. The plants will be tested for their value in conservation work, including beautification, dune stabilization and streambank and shoreline protection against erosion, Mr. McGourin said.

Seed and plants produced at the Center will be further tested in field plantings in cooperation with soil and water conservation districts. Results at the Center and designated off-Center sites will be evaluated by the SCS in cooperation with state agricultural experiment stations and USDA research agencies, Mr. McGourin said.

Dr. Virgil B. Hawk is manager of the Center. He has had 30 years of SCS experience in developing plant materials, Mr. McGourin said.

The date of officers were elected January 17 at the Eastern Shore Chapel parish house.

Godwin Urges Greater Farming Efficiency

RICHMOND — Governor Godwin today viewed the reduction of agricultural surpluses as a prelude to a new era in agriculture and urged new efficiencies in farming to supply the increasing demands of this country and the world.

"It was only a few years ago that we were concerned as to whether we would ever find the answer to farm surpluses," Godwin told members of the Virginia Soil Fertility Association at the John Marshall Hotel at a luncheon meeting.

Today, he noted, these surpluses have been reduced very close to the line of safe reserves.

"If we rule out a major calamity, it will not be many years before we find ourselves as a nation clamoring for greater farm production instead of less." This situation will be brought about by the increase of population and decrease of arable land in the United States.

Godwin also foresaw America's ability to produce food as a potent weapon this country might use more advantageously in its cold war against the spread of communism.

The major economic failure of Communism, he said, has been its inability to feed its own adherents.

"I am not one of those who would give away America's wealth in the hope of buying the affection of other people. But I am convinced that Communism and hunger are twins. There is no point in discussing political philosophies with a man whose children are crying for food."

Predicting that "most of us will live to see the day when American agriculture will be one of the most prized possessions of the free world," Godwin asserted that it is time to take stock of agriculture's potential instead of its problems.

He urged that farmers recognize that although there are conflicting views within the industry, the basic interests of farmers are the same and that through cooperative efforts Virginia can realize its tremendous potential in this area.

The Governor has asked the General Assembly to strengthen the Commission on the Industry of Agriculture to enable the commission to chart Virginia's course in the development of her agricultural resources.

Benham Speaks At Oceana Naval Air Station

VIRGINIA BEACH — Mr. William D. Benham, a faculty member of the University of Virginia's Hampton Roads Center spoke to a group of supervisory personnel at Oceana Naval Air Station at Virginia Beach on January 19.

Benham's topic was "Streamlining Your Problems Solving Conference."

Introduced by Capt. D. C. Rumsey, II, commanding officer of the Naval Air Station Oceana, Benham presented a one-hour lecture.

"The essential point of the conference," he said, "is to get the best solutions of the group."

He then offered a program for drawing suggestions and conversation from all participants of the conference. Suggesting a study of all individuals involved in the problem, he pointed out that the best solutions are often found by the group.

"The action which follows the conference determines the success of the conference," he continued. "It is therefore, our purpose to hold conferences that bring forth action."

Bring Benham offered five areas by which to "measure" the problem-solving conference:

'Wanderer' Sentenced

VIRGINIA BEACH — A young, wandering artist, who has been fighting for the legalization of marijuana has been sentenced to a five-year prison term for the possession of marijuana. Five years in prison is the maximum sentence for such an offense.

John D. Krone, 28, of California, who came to Virginia Beach last summer for the Boardwalk Art Show, describes himself as a "wanderer."

He was sentenced by Circuit Court Judge Richard B. Kellam. Krone was arrested in his motel room July 26.

Virginia Law prescribes three to five years in prison for possessing marijuana. In some states the penalty is 90 days maximum confinement.

S.S. Rep. To Speak

VIRGINIA BEACH — A meeting of Virginia Beach Barracks No. 1604, Veterans of World War I of the U. S. A., will be held on Sunday, February 19th, 2 p.m., in the Virginia Beach High School.

A guest speaker from the Norfolk Social Security office will speak on "Medicare." Health Insurance for the Aged. Department Commander, George S. Gardner, Veterans of World War I of the U. S. A. will also be on the program.

ON MAIL ROUTE

Postman Helps Woman; Maybe Saved Her Life

By JACK MOORE

VIRGINIA BEACH — Last week a Virginia Beach rural postman averted what possibly could have been a tragedy. A woman could have died of carbon monoxide poisoning if it had not been for the interest of this man.

Rural carrier Ernest M. Seneca Jr. was on his route on North Muddy Creek Road, delivering his mail as usual when the unusual caught his eye.

Seneca stopped at a mailbox near North Muddy Creek Road's intersection with Stuart Road and "served" the mailbox. At that point he noticed a woman sitting in a car with the motor running. Thinking the woman would get out of her car to get her mail, Seneca drove on to the next mailbox, some 100 feet down the road. He said he thought the woman was "nodding," but didn't think there was anything wrong at the time.

When Seneca got to the next mailbox, he looked back to see if the woman had gotten her mail, and seeing she hadn't, backed up.

Shortly after he returned, the woman's daughter came out of the house, passed the car where the woman was sitting, and picked up the mail. At that point, Seneca asked her to check on her mother sitting in the car, and see if she was all right. He said that if the girl hadn't come out of the house, he would have checked on the woman himself.

The girl opened the car door and helped her mother out. The woman asked her to check in the car for the mail to give the postman, not realizing the mail had already been put in the box. She took the mail that Seneca had left earlier and gave it to him, thinking it was the out-going mail.

Seneca then realized that something was wrong and asked the woman if she felt well. By being concerned about his fellow man, Seneca probably saved a life.

He said if he had been 15 or 20 minutes later on his route, he didn't know what the conditions might have been. Maybe the daughter would have found her mother in time, maybe not.

Seneca, modest about the incident, said he did what any other person would have done.

Later, the woman said she didn't know how long she was in the car, but Seneca speculated it must have been a good while.

Seneca began his service with the Princess Anne Post Office April 1, 1958, when he became a substitute rural carrier. He was appointed temporary rural carrier in June 1953, and was appointed as a regular rural carrier in 1954.

Seneca and his wife, the former Tiny Beatrice Davis of Albermarle County, operated a retail store in Princess Anne County from Oct. 1954 until Dec. 1963.

They were married in Charlottesville March 3, 1954.

Seneca was born in Princess Anne County in 1910, and presently is residing on North Landing Road.

Young Executive At Meeting

ARTHUR J. STAGGS

VIRGINIA BEACH — Wilson L. Harrell, President of Wilson Harrell and Company, worldwide marketing agency of Westport, Connecticut, announces the acceptance of Arthur J. Staggs, the firm's district salesman for the Virginia Beach, to the 11th session of the 16-week Program for Management Development (PMD) currently convening at Harvard Business School.

Staggs is one of approximately 70 promising and promotional young executives who are enrolled for intensive training in this session of the middle management development course at the Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration, one of two executive development programs offered twice each academic year by the Harvard Business School to meet the needs of modern business leadership.

The Harrell Company selected and sponsored Staggs, one of its top sales representatives, as its first candidate for this course, and hopes to have representatives in future sessions of the course as well as in the School's Advanced Management Program.

In 1964 Wilson Harrell attended the 46th session of the Advanced Management Program where he was head of the group that won the faculty award.

PMD is designed to enlarge the horizons and capacities of young business managers who currently fill responsible positions at the operating level, who have demonstrated outstanding ability in a functional field or specialty and who give evidence of higher leadership potential.

The average age of PMD participants is 34, their average length of business and administrative experience is 10 years. About 65 per cent of the class members are from U. S. firms representing a wide variety of types of business and industry. Around 20 per cent are from foreign countries, while approximately 15 per cent represent the federal government, both military and civilian.

New Classes Are Offered

NORFOLK — The University of Virginia's Hampton Roads Center announces its offering of Modern Theory and Practice in Food Preparation and Equipment as part of its "Commonwealth Campus" program for 1966.

The purpose of the course is to acquaint restaurant and institutional personnel with the latest principles and techniques in the food service field, and to show how these principles and techniques can be applied to both small and large food handling operations. The course will explore such topics as:

- The use and misuse of modern types of food equipment.
- The effects of different methods of food preparation and types of equipment used on the appearance, texture, flavor, and nutritional content of food.

- Inexpensive methods of testing to determine the quality of food recipes.

- New methods of food processing — freeze-dry, dehydro-freezing, frozen, high temperature short time sterilization, chemical and enzyme additives, and ionization radiation.

- Modern quick methods of food preparation by infrared, microwave, and forced air ovens.

- Reducing problems of storage, cooking, and spoilage of pre-cooked frozen meals.

The lecture-discussion course does not require reading materials.

Dates Set For Registration At ODC

Dates Set For Registration

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — The Extension Division of the College of William and Mary will hold its spring semester registration 31 January-5 February at the respective Extension Centers and at other class locations.

The coming semester will offer many "special request" classes, according to Leon Looney, extension director.

Of the more than 100 projected course offerings, approximately 20 per cent are in response to "special requests." Among those are wrestling, which will be offered especially for coaches of the Hampton Public School Division; Numerical Methods and Computer Programming, requested by personnel of the Army Logistics Management Training Center at Fort Lee; and Audio-Visual Instructional Aids, for instructional personnel of the Coast Guard Reserve Training Center at Yorktown.

Courses in School Law at Richard Bland College, Petersburg and School Plant at Princess Anne High School, Virginia Beach, will be available for supervisory and administrative public school personnel in order to fulfill partial requirements for the superintendency.

These courses may also be used as part of a graduate program at William and Mary provided approval is obtained in advance from the Dean of the college's School of Education.

The Extension Division will continue to offer a wide range of courses in the fields of business administration, economics, education, English, French, German, government, history, mathematics, psychology, sociology, speech and Spanish.

Extension bulletins are currently available at most public schools, at the Educational Services office at the various military bases or may be obtained by contacting the Extension Division at William and Mary. Several semester registration exceptions are noted in the new bulletin.

INSIGNIA PRESENTED — Lonnie R. English, assigned to the 176th Transportation Detachment at Ft. Story, Va., has been promoted from the rank of sergeant first class to that of warrant officer. English has been in marine activities with the Transportation Corps since the early 1950s, completed the harborcraft deck operations course at the Army Transportation School at Ft. Eustis in December, 1965. Prior to entering the Army in 1951, he worked in the commercial shipyard industry where he received his Coast Guard third mate's license. English received the insignia of his new rank from Col. R. M. Oglesby, commanding officer of the 46th Motor Transport Group, in ceremonies at Ft. Story.

Red Cross Meets War Needs; Major Impact Seeks New Personnel

ALEXANDRIA — As American troop strength grows in Vietnam, Red Cross on-the-scene service to the men there grows with it, according to Mr. Walter W. Bohan, assistant regional manager for the Red Cross Eastern Area. In addition to counseling and communication services provided by Virginia Red Cross chapters for servicemen and their families at home have been stepped up sharply in recent months. These two areas of Red Cross activity — with our troops abroad and in the chapters at home — traditionally show parallel increases in time of war.

Speaking of the fast-paced activity now in Vietnam, Mr. Bohan said at Eastern Area Headquarters in Alexandria, Virginia, that there have been many changes in quantity and in kinds of service to military personnel stationed in that war-torn country. The number of able-bodied servicemen added by the Red Cross field directors in South Vietnam during October 1965 showed an increase of 52 percent over the July figures. This means some 7,000 U. S. servicemen in Vietnam came to the Red Cross and received help during October alone. With the arrival of November and December troop reinforcements, this October figure has increased substantially.

There are currently more than 100 Red Cross workers on the Red Cross staff in South Vietnam. The majority are field directors assigned to military units to provide such services as emergency communications, counsel in personal and family problems, and emergency financial assistance when necessary.

Recreation services are provided by Red Cross Center-Clubmobile units. Three of these units are now in operation and ten others are projected for Vietnam during 1966. These Center-Clubmobiles are the only recreational facilities in South Vietnam that not only have a fixed location where the troops can come, but actually take the programs to the troops in the field, as combat conditions permit.

The Center-Clubmobile program like its counterpart in Korea — operates by specific request of the local military commanders and the Department of Defense.

Mr. Bohan indicated that there has also been more than a 100 percent increase in the number of servicemen helped by Red Cross workers in hospitals in the Far East since mid-1965. The South Vietnam operation affects the need for Red Cross assistance in military hospitals throughout the Far East and in the United States as well, he said. Patients who must have extended or special care are flown from Vietnam as quickly as possible, and the Red Cross hospital staff in the Far East has been increased as necessary to do the job.

The Red Cross has workers in four hospitals in South Vietnam, and will staff a fifth in the very near future. Two Red Cross hospital workers have been placed on board the U. S. S. Repose, the to-such hospital ship now sailing in the Southeast Asia area. Other hospitals affected in the Far East are in the Philippines, Japan, Okinawa, and Guam.

Meanwhile, Red Cross chapters in Virginia and across the country have reported an increase in services to the families of men stationed in Vietnam. Chapter workers, many of them volunteers, are called upon increasingly to assist with problems arising from sudden and lengthy separations. Solutions to such family emergencies may require frequent or continuing contact between the chapter workers and the Red Cross field staff overseas.

Because of the increased activity

In Southeast Asia, the Red Cross is looking for additional staff members, Mr. Bohan stated. Careers are available in Red Cross for young Virginia men and women with a desire for service to others. Basic qualifications are the ability to work with people, willingness to serve anywhere in the world, good health, and a college education, preferably with major study in the social sciences, recreation, or allied fields. Interested persons should contact their local Red Cross chapter for further information.

March of Dimes

VIRGINIA BEACH — John G. Perry, campaign director for the 1966 March of Dimes drive, has announced that Mrs. Thomas B. Petty has been named Mothers March chairman for the Virginia Beach drive.

Mrs. Petty is well-known in civic circles throughout the City and has been active for more than 15 years in the March of Dimes. She recently represented the Virginia Beach chapter for the National Foundation at the Regional Annual Conference in Washington, D. C. She is the immediate past president of the Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach.

According to Perry, borough chairman serving with Mrs. Petty will include for Lynnhaven, Mrs. Joseph Buck; Pango, Mrs. Walter Menden; Blackwater, Mrs. C. P. Riddick; Princess Anne, Mrs. J. C. McCollum; Kempsville, Mrs. Stanley Hainer and Mrs. G. E. Barham.

The Bayside Junior Woman's Club assisted by the Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach will head up the campaign in Bayside. Heading the Junior Club efforts will be Mrs. James F. Groome and Mrs. Henry Slough; in charge of the senior club will be Mrs. W. W. Stanfield and Mrs. Joe Canning.

Perry said, "We are most grateful to those who have been responsive to the call for the March of Dimes, and look forward to a successful campaign."

Carrying loaded weapons in a car is a practice that can cost you or a hunting companion his life, says the Virginia Game Commission. Always unload a gun and open the action before placing it in a vehicle. The few seconds it takes may save a life.

Treat your gun with the respect due a lethal weapon, says the Virginia Game Commission. A gun is not intended for a club, a crutch or a pry bar, and using it as such is asking for trouble. Use your weapon only for the purpose for which it was built. A well kept gun is a joy to own. A mistreated weapon is a liability.

Conservative estimates of the multiplier effect suggest that the billions spent on new construction itself generate at least an equal amount of other economic activity, this bringing the estimated total impact of residential construction to about $70 billion.

Clearly, a healthy home building industry is virtually synonymous with a healthy overall national economy.

Made By Industry

NORFOLK — Recent creation of a new Cabinet post—the Department of Housing and Urban Development—has focused increased attention on the importance of home building to the national economy.

No longer a craft, home building is today one of the nation's major industries. Last year's 1½ million new dwelling units generated in site improvement and construction activity alone approximately $24 billion, or an amount larger than the factory value of the output of cars, trucks and buses for the year. Housing starts this year are expected to top last year's total.

When you add to this the impact of expenditures directly related to home building, such as schools, community facilities, service industries, and durable goods, the total related impact of housing expenditures amounts to $55 billion, or approximately $1 in every $18 of last year's Gross National Product.

Each new home provides about two man-years of employment, accounting for about three million jobs last year—half in work in the construction site, the others in the manufacture of housing materials.

According to a recent study, each $1,000 of single-family home construction price-generates a demand for 72 man-hours of work on-site, 35 man-hours in transportation, trade, and related services, 38 man-hours in the manufacturing stage, and 12 man-hours of off-site construction activity.

In addition to these "primary" man-hours there are a further secondary man-hours. We find, then, that for every $1,000 of construction activity, 204 man-hours of employment are generated.

When we consider that each new home provides a market for better than 3,000 different items, it is obvious that home building's impact is felt by many millions of workers far removed from the actual construction sites.

This impact is not limited to directly connected expenditures. The income received by people as a result of home building activity reappears again and again in the economy in the form of income to others, as each set of wage earners pays out to others. This is called the "multiplier effect."

Conservative estimates of the multiplier effect suggest that the billions spent on new construction itself generate at least an equal amount of other economic activity, this bringing the estimated total impact of residential construction to about $70 billion.

Clearly, a healthy home building industry is virtually synonymous with a healthy overall national economy.

Guarding Your Own Heart

While coronary heart disease seems to afflict more men than women, other forms of cardiovascular disease affect both sexes about equally, or even in some instances, more women than men.

So, lest women lull themselves into a false sense of security by assuming that cardiovascular disease will automatically pass them by, now is a good time to sit up and take notice.

Hypertensive heart disease — a condition caused by high blood pressure — is widely prevalent among women than among men. This form of heart disease, incidentally, is the one most often encountered among the adult population of the United States; in 1932, a government survey estimated that some 10½ million Americans had hypertensive heart disease. In addition, an estimated 6.9 million more have high blood pressure without heart disease.

Women are substantially in the majority of those with hypertensive heart disease, outnumbering the men by nearly 2½ million. They are on a 50-50 footing with men in two other categories: high blood pressure and rheumatic heart disease; in fact, they have a slight edge over men in both these categories.

The other side of the coin is brighter, however. Research advances of the past 2 decades have scored the greatest advances in just these areas of cardiovascular disease, with women getting the lion's share of the dividends.

● The death rate from hypertension and hypertensive heart disease for middle-aged women (45-64) went down 50 per cent between 1950 and 1962; that for men dropped 50 per cent in the same period.

● Similarly, the death rate from strokes sometimes related to hypertension — has declined steadily over the past 20 years, with the greatest decrease occurring among women in the 45-64 age group.

● The decline in the death rate from rheumatic heart disease has been most pronounced — 45 per cent — among children and young adults, aged 5-24, over the past years.

The discovery of new pharmaceutical weapons to keep at bay scourges as big as rheumatism, heart disease and early death — high blood pressure can be brought down to normal levels, and, down, with suitable treatment (including drugs and diet). Prompt penicillin treatment of "streptococcal" infection can prevent first attacks of rheumatic fever; long-term prophylaxis with penicillin and sulfa drugs can bar repeat attacks for those who have had the disease.

The American Heart Association played a key role in research leading to better understanding of hypertension and in formulating strategy for war on rheumatic fever. But knowledge is only half the battle. Making certain that knowledge is applied on behalf of those who can benefit by it is the other half — perhaps an even more vital half. This is why your Heart Association devotes so much effort to educational work among both the public and the health professions and seeks to develop community programs so that what has been learned through research may be utilized as widely as possible.

Your Heart Association's key message is: see your doctor regularly. Only your doctor can tell, for example, whether you have high blood pressure, and prescribe treatment to help keep it under control. And for the men, there's a bonus: additional insurance against heart attacks if high blood pressure is detected and treated early.

Mid-Winter Art Exhibit

Text and Photos by Cassandra
As we approached the Dome last Thursday evening to cover the Virginia Beach Art Association's annual mid-winter show being held there, we were greeted by Richard Taylor, president; Mrs. Charles E. Fischel; Kit Flutko and Mrs. George Sanderlin.

More than 100 pictures were hung between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Thursday and were judged by David Nordin, former art reviewer for the New Haven Sunday Register and an artist of note from Connecticut and Minnesota.

Awards made were for best water color which went to Herb Jones for his muted greens and blues of "Currituck County, N.C.," a quiet farm landscape with the "Corot" spot of red on the roof of the barn; Ruth Laakso got a first prize for her enormous composition called "Blue Astral," seemingly inspired by this astronomical space-age and was a blend of blues, grays and whites; George Sanderlin's collage of unusual brilliant oranges and yellows won a blue ribbon. Best in Show was awarded to Carol DeBolt for her abstract oil of colors and brown tones, and she also won a third prize in water colors.

George Sanderlin, a teacher at Kellam High School, proved that first attempts can win. Inspired by George and Ruth Laakso who have the Studio Art Gallery, he was urged by his wife to enter. And he won a blue ribbon. Jean Miller, another first competitor, showed talent in her Oriental landscape, "Reunion and Desert Landscape," vivid colors in all, and a fourth prize winner. On the first night we had the entire exhibit practically to ourselves and we browsed for two hours. We were impressed by the graciousness of the Committee present, the sanity of the subjects, and the varied talent on display.

The show was open Friday, Saturday and Sunday also and the exhibition was free, but the show never got too crowded. Although the rains came down, we went twice!

An additional attraction was George Carroll and his Band of Music from colonial Williamsburg who performed in costume. All instruments in the band were antiques or exact replicas of the 1700's. Carroll, who is promoting interest in 18th century music, is also the conductor of The Williamsburg Drum and Fife Corps.

Three highlights of Sunday's visit stand out in our minds—the so well behaved little boy in the yellow slicker; the high fashion white raincoat, short and pleated with low waist and midly blouse collar complete with high white boots worn by a young lady; and the hole in the drum of one of the young drummers in the Band. A gimmick or an accident? His stick missed the hole on every beat.

MRS. GEORGE SANDERLIN stands beside her husband's winning College Composition in brilliant oranges and yellows.

Adult Classes Start Well

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Adult Classes of the Virginia Beach Recreation Department, Union Kempville Division, was pleased with the fine start of the Adult Classes held on Wednesday evening, January 19, 1966, at the Seaboard Elementary School.

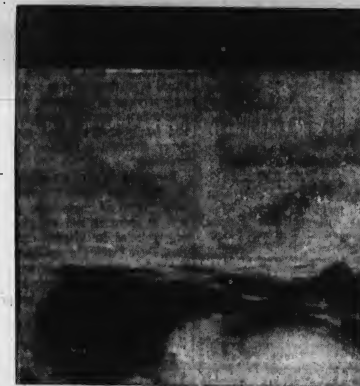

Mrs. Ira Watkins, the instructor of the Millinery Class, had a fine display of different shapes and colors of straw material on exhibit. Mrs. Alice Bell, knitting instructor, reported an increased enrollment over the fall semester. Mrs. Bell is well qualified to instruct the knitting of sweaters, skirts, and knitted suits.

Classes will meet every Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. A new knitting class is being offered on Thursday evenings beginning at 7:30 at Union Kempville High School. All persons who wish to enroll in one of these classes may do so by contacting Rev. H. C. Benjamin, Virginia Beach Recreation Department, by calling 427-6282 from 8:30 to 1:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Tickets Now On Sale

NORFOLK — Mail orders are now being accepted for "The Magic Music of Fred Waring," the exciting musical show coming to Norfolk City Arena Sunday, Feb. 6 at 8 p.m. Tickets are on sale at Khedive Shrine Temple, Norfolk, for $2.50 $3.00 $4.00. Call 622-5206 for information. This new edition of the famed Pennsylvanians will feature an entertaining evening of music from popular classics to Broadway tunes, chorales and folk songs, vignettes and the latest in novelty tunes.

The secret of Waring's success with his Pennsylvanians the past half-century has been the company's ability to keep young and to adapt themselves to the changing musical trend of the times. Behind it all has been the guiding genius of a master showman who senses the changes, makes original arrangement to fit them, and inspires his versatile group with the variety and high spirits for which they are famous as entertainers.

WE FOUND this Imaginary Angle in browns and grays to be a most original and startling painting. It is by Ruth Laakso who won a blue ribbon for her other and different entry.

Teens Take Vacation In Church

VIRGINIA BEACH — Twenty-two Virginia Beach youths spent their one day school vacation Monday, January 24th, at hard labor in one of our local institutions.

This story starts out like so many other stories you read today about juvenile delinquents.

These children were not delinquents, but represent the other and certainly more prevalent side of the ledger.

The institution was Francis Asbury Methodist Church on Great Neck Road and the twenty-two youngsters were members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship of that church. At their Sunday night meeting, they decided there was no better way they could spend that long-for one day vacation than in cleaning the church.

Early Monday morning they were off with buckets, rags, floor waxes and elbow grease in hand, under the direction of their adult leader, Mrs. William H. Longwood of 2224 Windward Shore Drive. They spent the entire day scrubbing floors, washing drapery, washing walls, waxing floors and whatever other tasks there were to do about the church.

Noon time saw the hungry youth devour two cases of cokes, over six pounds of hamburgers and six boxes of rolls, along with the usual potato chips and other indigestible commodities they could find, upon which teenage stomachs seem to thrive. Six of the youngsters, Rixey Wilcher, Mike Johnson, Mike Bostrom, Eddie Chatterton, Mike Falkner and Larry Brooks are candidates for the "God and Country" award in their Boy Scout work, through the local church.

As part of the requirements for this award, thirty hours of service is needed. The local scouts represent Troop 53 and will be awarded the coveted "God and Country" award on February 13th at the church. This is a unique award which is given as testimony of the completion of a four part program which embraces Faith, Witness, Citizenship, and Outreach. It is most unusual for any church to give this number of such awards in one year.

The other youngsters who participated in this day of joyful labor included Marjorie DeLoach, Christie Monahan, Jackie Gilbert, Cynthia Corley, Cheryl Boykin, Cynthia Sharpnack, Nancy Beatty, Gail Mansfield, Dirk Bunch, Mike Joyce, Jimmy Carter, and Greg Seacrest. And along with these youngsters, Janice Patterson and Rick Flora, of Virginia Beach, who are not even members of this church, labored long and hard out of pure fellowship and service.

Mrs. Longwood, the counselor for the senior high MYF, said the youngsters did this work entirely voluntarily and that it is just a part of a broader program of work around the church they have decided themselves to do.

Sorry, it's not much of a story. No big headlines about juvenile delinquents. But we thought you might just like to read a nice little story about some nice people, doing nice things, simply out of love for the Lord.

Survey Shows Why You Remodel Kitchen

Why remodel the kitchen?

Homeowners responding to this question in a recent survey settled on three main reasons:

1. Storage
2. Convenience
3. Efficiency

If you analyze a kitchen improvement project, most of the improvements can be assigned to one of these categories.

Robert Huff, home improvement director of Marlette paneling, urges homeowners planning a kitchen improvement project to get as much information as possible before starting actual construction.

Much Preparation Necessary

"Read all available literature, talk to neighbors who have initiated similar projects, and most importantly, talk it over with your local lumber dealer. He has the latest information on building materials and can tell you what is possible within your budget," Huff says.

Additional storage can be provided in many ways. A wall can be knocked down to provide more room, new cabinets can be built on existing walls, an old-fashioned pantry can be modernized and made an integral part of the kitchen, or a divider can be designed to provide more storage space.

Convenience is closely tied in with good layout. There are three basic kitchen floor plans, Huff points out, and your lumber dealer can help adapt the one that is best suited to your house. It is important, of course, that the main work centers be in a central area to reduce steps.

"Efficiency is a word that often is used in describing kitchens," Huff asserts. "There are two kinds of efficiency in the kitchen. Short term efficiency is concerned with the number of steps from food preparation area to table, or the accessibility of overhead cabinets. Long term efficiency primarily is a question of easy maintenance."

Easy Maintenance

The walls and ceiling in the kitchen should be attractive, yet easy to keep clean. In addition, they should withstand years of hard wear because periodic redecorating is expensive.

Plastic-finished Marlette, which can be installed right over old walls, is popular for kitchen improvements because it can be put up quickly with little muss. No finishing is required.

Highly-resistant to heat, and moisture, it can be damp-wiped clean. The paneling, which comes in contemporary colors, handsome woodgrains and decorator patterns, never needs painting or refinishing. Even grease and food stains can be removed with a sudsy cloth.

Good planning—the basic ingredient in any kitchen project—can assure improved storage facilities, convenience and efficiency.

The Architect And The Clergy

By DOUGLAS BARNES

LYNNHAVEN—More than forty ministers attending the Virginia Beach Ministerial Association meeting held last week at the newly designed and constructed Thalia Trinity Presbyterian Church on Thalia Road.

After coffee and a fellowship gathering, William E. McClurg, American Institute of Architecture, gave a highly informative lecture on "Church Architecture," stressing the contemporary trend of non-orientation this church illustrates. In its rounded contours, within and without, the simplicity of Book Table and Font alone are eliminated by the prominence of the enormous wooden cross set in an alcove of stone gracing the Chancel. No viewer at any point in the church can escape its impact.

McClurg explained the lofty choir above and behind the audience by saying that such an arrangement helped worshippers toward a more reverent attitude. He also spoke of the depository for collection plates which was a hidden shelf and that the Table and Lectern should possess the Calvinistic decor of simplicity.

The interior and exterior shades of deep mulberry and browns of the outside brick with colonnades joining the education buildings to the sanctuary, the deep gold wall-to-wall carpeting on the chancel floor, the varicolored tones of natural wood, and the lack of stained glass windows all combine to give its own message of progressive church architecture.

McClurg is also designing the Baylake Methodist Church, the Portlock Methodist Church, the Lynnhaven Colony Church and the Windsor Woods Library. He is a member of the Virginia Beach Methodist Church and admits to a marked psychological influence from the late Frank Lloyd Wright.

Following the business session, the group toured the church. The Rev. Sidney D. Crane, youthful minister of this modern house of worship, welcomed his guests.

The president, the Rev. N. Cecil Clifton, announced that the February meeting will be held on the 17th at the United Church of Christ, Lynnhaven, with the Rev. Thomas Britton.

'The Harrison Years' To Be Shown On WAVY-TV

PORTSMOUTH — A review of the gubernatorial term of former Virginia Governor Albertis S. Harrison, Jr. will be presented to night from 9:30-10 p.m. on WAVY-TV (10).

"The Harrison Years," produced by WRVA Television will feature progress in the field of industrial development, agriculture, education and tourism during the past four years.

Recently installed industries at Harrisonburg, Chase City, Victoria, Milford and Orange will be shown to illustrate the growth of the Old Dominion.

In agriculture, the new tele-auction method used at stockyards will be shown along with shipment of live cattle to European countries. Another major break through for agriculture in Virginia to be illustrated on the film is the addition of agronomists to bank staffs. A Charlottesville bank's agriculture officer will be featured.

The advance of tourism—second largest industry in Virginia—will be a third segment of "The Harrison Years." The improved facilities for travelers, increase of state promotion and advertising funds, additional winter sports and much-needed information centers will be discussed. The Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel, Virginia Beach, Williamsburg and many other popular tourist attractions of the Old Dominion will be highlighted.

In a final portion of the program, educational needs and progress will be studied. The completion of educational television facilities and vocational training will be featured.

Former Governor Harrison, Senator Harry F. Byrd, Jr., State Senator Fitzgerald Bemiss and Governor Mills E. Godwin will appear on the half-hour program. "The Harrison Years" will be narrated by Don Vest of WRVA Television.

Heart Fund

VIRGINIA BEACH — The 15-year performance record of the Heart Association in the fight against heart and blood vessel disease has established it as being worthy of our community's fullest support.

This fact speaks for itself: Since the onset of massive cardiovascular research in 1950, triggered by the first Heart Fund Campaign in 1949, there has been a decline of 15 percent in the cardiovascular death rate for Americans under 65.

The improved mortality picture grows chiefly out of a dramatic reduction in the toll due to hypertension and hypertensive heart disease, and to stroke. It is an overall improvement. It has taken place despite a worsening of the death rate due to heart attack, the number one killer of all time.

Yet let no one assume that victory is close at hand. Heart and blood vessel disease, at all ages, is responsible for about 54 percent of all death in the United States. Those who read this paper's obituaries will note continuing references to the death toll taken by cardiovascular diseases in this community.

Your Heart Association has won the confidence, respect and gratitude not only of the medical profession but of the public at large. It has channeled more than 110 million Heart Fund dollars into research — research that is now paying off. Its work in the field of education and community service is bringing the benefits of new knowledge to every citizen.

Notes from Your Agricultural Agent

SECURING WATER FOR IRRIGATION

If you're considering an irrigation system, make sure first that you have an adequate water supply available.

Streams generally offer the least costly source of irrigation water if the fields to be irrigated are close by. First, though, you must make sure that the stream has sufficient water for irrigation purposes.

You should have a flow of at least 10 gallons per minute per acre to be irrigated. If you're irrigating small acreages, it's better to have about 20 gallons per minute per acre.

You can install relatively inexpensive weirs to measure your stream flow. Plans for the weirs are available from the Agricultural Engineering Department at Virginia Tech.

Measure the flow when the stream is at its lowest point during the growing season.

The law usually permits property owners adjacent to streams to make reasonable use of the water so long as they don't impair its quality or decrease its quantity so as to adversely affect downstream riparian owners.

Farm ponds principally using surface runoff offer the best source of water for irrigating small acreage crops. These ponds should be near fields, have sufficient runoff area, and be deep and large enough.

If you depend on this source of water you should have at least one acre foot of stored water for each acre of crops to be irrigated.

Another type of pond which may be developed in some areas of the Coastal Plain is the seepage pit. This depends upon water seeping into the pit from the shallow water table. The size of the seepage pit will depend upon the rate that water seeps into it from the adjacent areas as well as the rate of use for irrigation purposes.

Wells are not used much as a source of irrigation water in Virginia. Quantities needed from wells are as much as from flowing streams. Such quantities are either unavailable or costly to develop.

By-pass ponds can be used with wells to provide adequate irrigation water. The pond is filled from the stream during high water. When the stream gets low or dries up, the pond and well are called upon to furnish the water.

Cancer Society Report Reviewed In Beach

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Rev. Clayton R. Orger, Chairman of the Public Education of the Virginia Beach Cancer Society, reviewed the following report of statistics that should be of interest to the public.

There are 1,400,000 people now alive cured of cancer in the U. S. according to the American Cancer Society in its recently released booklet, "1966 Cancer Facts and Figures." This is the largest figure ever, the Society reports. And more people are being cured each year. Many cancers are being prevented by correcting precancerous conditions and changing living habits.

Actually, the Society's publications says, there are more than 2,000,000 alive, cured of cancer. Some 700,000 patients with cancers diagnosed within the last five years will live to enter the ranks of those cured. Usually a person is not considered cured until five years after treatment without recurrence of the disease.

$18. Million Paid In '65

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Nearly 2,000 Ford Motor Company employees in Virginia were paid a total of $18,006,604 in wages and salaries during 1965, an increase of approximately $3 million over 1964.

The company purchased $3,350,000 in goods and services from local businesses during the year and employees contributed $30,569 to local community fund organizations.

Ford's largest installation in the state, the Norfolk assembly plant, produced 115,400 cars and trucks, up from 94,714 units in 1964. Completion of a multi-million-dollar expansion highlighted the plant's 40th anniversary as the only facility of its kind in Virginia.

Ford Division's Richmond sales district, which supervises the activities of 130 dealers in southern Virginia and eastern North Carolina, reported record sales of $3,511 cars and trucks for the year, an increase of 12.9 percent over 1964, year of the previous high.

Wages and salaries paid to employees of 222 Ford, Lincoln-Mercury and Ford tractor dealers in the state totaled $12,590,185. A record 28 dealers announced expansion or modernization programs during the year.

Other Ford Motor Company installations in the state include a parts depot and a Tractor and Implement Operations supply depot, both in Richmond.

will strike about 72,000 Americans in 1966 more than any other type except cancer of the skin which is 18 per cent curable if treated when there is no regional involvement. Cancer of the colon and rectum will take the lives of 43,000 in 1966.

It is estimated that almost three out of four colon and rectum patients could be saved by early diagnosis, particularly through wider use of proctoscopic examination.

Lung cancer in 1966, will kill approximately 50,000; 42,000 men and 8,000 women. This is 3,000 more than the estimated deaths in 1965. It is the leading cause of death from cancer among men.

Only 5 per cent of lung cancer patients are being saved today, but it is estimated that upwards of 75 per cent of cancers of the lung could have been prevented if people had not smoked cigarettes. Breast cancer is the leading cause of cancer deaths in women, with an estimated 63,000 new cases in 1966. It will cause 27,000 deaths.

Despite all efforts to date, "the Society's booklet reports, "the breast cancer death rate remains high. This could change for the better if more women regularly practiced breast self-examination and consulted their physicians at first symptoms. Delayed treatment is not only dangerous for the individual, but frustrating to the physician — the five-year survival rate for localized breast cancer is 82 per cent as against 47 per cent when there is regional spread beyond the original site."

Uterine cancer presents a far brighter, yet still tragic picture, according to the booklet. About 44,000 new cases will be diagnosed in 1966. About 14,000 are expected to die of the disease during the year. The bright side of the uterine cancer picture is that the death rate from it shows a steady decline—50 per cent in 25 years. It was once the leading cause of death from cancer among women. The dark side of the picture is that most of the 14,000 expected to die of the disease in 1966 will die unnecessarily. An annual checkup, which includes the "Pap" smear, test could virtually eliminate uterine cancer as a major health problem and, in some cases, correct conditions that might lead to uterine cancer.

Over-all the cancer picture for 1966, according to the Society's "1966 Cancer Facts and Figures," is this: If present trends continue there will be about 570,000 new cases diagnosed for the first time; 570,000 will be under medical care for cancer and about 300,000 will die of the disease. There will be about 190,000 saved in 1966. The Society estimates that 95,000 cancer patients will die needlessly in 1966 unless present trends can be reversed and patients can get to their physicians in time for early diagnosis and treatment.

The "Facts and Figures" booklet reported that the Society's income from all sources in the 1965 fiscal year (August 31, 1964 to August 31, 1965), was more than $45,000,000, the highest ever. The Society through its annual Crusade raised more than $36,000,000. Another 6,400,000 from bequests and legacies. As for its research program, appropriations in the fiscal year, 1964-65, for research grants, institutional grants, fellowships and research professorships, etc., amounted to

Questionnaire Mailed Out

ROANOKE — Veterans and dependents of veterans on Veterans Administration's compensation and pension rolls who have school age children, will receive a special questionnaire with their January checks, William J. Powers, Manager of the Roanoke Regional Office, announced today.

Powers said the checks and questionnaires would arrive in their mail box about February 1, 1966.

Need for the information asked by the questionnaire follows a recent law that provided higher rates of additional payments for school children, and at the same time, raised the maximum age limit from 21 to 23.

The questionnaire also asks for the payee's zip code number in keeping with current postal regulations in order to speed up the delivery of both checks and correspondence.

A space also is provided for the payee's social security number, so that identification files may be kept up to date.

The questionnaire should not be mutilated nor folded and all questions should be answered before the card is signed. A special addressed envelope is provided for the return of the questionnaire.

$14,903,398. Again a new high. In addition to this research effort, the Society has invested more than $9,000,000 since 1948 for the training of more than 2,000 young physicians and dentists in their responsibility in cancer control. The program now exceeds more than $1,000,000 a year. The Society provides post-graduate training at more than a million dollars a year for physicians and dentists at approved teaching centers in the hope that these specialists bring the special knowledge and ability gained to the areas in which they practice, sharing their experience with other physicians through tumor clinics and medical societies, and making it of benefit to cancer patients in local communities. Adding it up "1966 Cancer Facts and Figures" says more men will die of cancer in 1966 than women. This has been true since 1949. The ratio in 1966 will be about 55 men to 45 women.
